HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK

Queen Elizabeth examined tons of American contributions to Britain last Saturday and said she was "impressed" by the response to British and Norwegian civilian Red Cross needs. The Queen strode for 40 minutes through hundreds of boxes in Park Lane, which has been transformed into a huge storehouse. She chatted with many women volunteer workers. She examined piles of clothing, hospital instruments, baby clothes, surgical instruments and other materials. The gifts were shipped from New York to the Personal Service League, which is necessarily civilian due to the United States Neutrality Act.

When Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose, two royal princesses, paid a visit to London not long ago they were seen in the Windsor one morning wearing identical black red woollen suits with flared skirts and tailored jackets. Their hair was and their shoes were of red. In the past they have usually worn soft pastel shades. Perhaps the red costume was a first step away from the colors of childhood.

Beautiful farewells were said this week to Mrs. Norville Luck and daughter, Miss Merylyn Luck, who left Wednesday to make their home in Toronto, followed by hosts of good wishes accompanied by the hope they will again be welcomed to Charlottetown.

Last Saturday evening Mrs. Dora A. W. M. Alan had a small three table farewell bridge for Mrs. Luck.

Mrs. (Dr.) Ira J. Yeo, Miss Anna Horne and Miss Irene Horne left yesterday on a three weeks holiday trip to Montreal and Toronto.

A cordial welcome is being given Mrs. D. B. Bishop of Moncton who came this week to join her husband, recently transferred here as District Freight and Passenger Agent C. N. R.

companied home by her daughter, Miss Helen who has been attending DePaula.

Mrs. Victor Saunders left Wednesday on an extended visit to California. She was accompanied by her son, as Montreal by Mrs. J. R. Paton and Mrs. G. J. Rogers who went to New York on a short holiday.

ADD HAP OF WEEK
Miss Phyllis Whitlock popular young bride-to-be is being nicely entertained by her friends. On Friday of last week Miss Doris Howatt had a gay miscellaneous dinner for her and many lovely gifts were given her.

Last Tuesday evening the young ladies of Moore & McLeod's store entertained at a prettily arranged party. A miscellaneous shower for Miss Whitlock at the Charlottetown Hotel and added many exquisite gifts to her Hope Chest.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Giggiey of St. John, N. B. have recently moved to Charlottetown, where Mr. Giggiey is employed as pharmacist at Jenkins Pharmacy. Friends of this popular young couple wish them success in their new home.

Congratulations are being extended to Mr. Reg Nichols, cashier of the local branch of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., on his recent marriage in Kitchener, Ontario, to Miss Merriam Hammel. The happy young couple arrived Wednesday and will make their home in Charlottetown.

A gold ring estimated to be 1,700 years old was among the gifts which Queen Mary inspected Tuesday when she visited the 149 Park Lane, London, where contributions are being assembled for a Red Cross sale at Christie's famous auction galleries in June. The ring's antiquity was not realized until an expert happened to see it among the gifts. He pronounced it a perfect specimen. Queen Mary was also shown original manuscripts from the works of Lord Byron, Arnold Bennett and Rider Haggard.

GAY-TONED BELTS ARE HIGH FASHION IN SPORTWEAR
Striped ribbon belts take the place of the self-belt on black suits. Add to the higher color content of these belts novel buckles and you have the principal reason for the popularity of the tan and brown belts appear in tan and brown. Two-tone ideas are based upon simplicity. The wider use of colored leathers for sportswear is indicated. Cordovan belts in the rich reddish brown should do well this season since they are a natural for tweed suits and odd jackets and slacks combinations. Reversible belts have a story that stands up for promotion. Leather covered buckles widen the range of initial, copper color and novelty types.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—
ADOPTED BABIES HAVE BETTER CHANCE FOR SUCCESS IN LIFE
This is Particularly True of Those Born Out of Wedlock — Today's Letter Box

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am in my third year at college, but I shall have to leave very soon, as I am about to become an unwed mother. The father of my baby, who is also an undergraduate, is willing to marry me but if he did he would also have to withdraw from college, and I do not know whether I should allow him to make this sacrifice and discontinue his education. If I decide to leave school alone, should I go to a large city and give the child for adoption when it is born? I am loath to do this, since I feel that the child will be innocent and brought up in a mother's care. Also, I dearly love the father and feel that the child would mean a lot to me in the loneliness which I am sure to experience as a natural course due to my social downfall.

Answer: There can be no question of the vital importance of the boy marrying you as soon as possible. Don't wait another day. A college degree is a poor thing compared to the crime of bringing an innocent child into the world branded with shame. If you love the father and feel that the child would mean a lot to me in the loneliness which I am sure to experience as a natural course due to my social downfall.

Perhaps you have never thought about how cruel is the penalty laid upon an illegitimate child. Perhaps you do not know that the life of the fatherless child is made almost unbearable to him by his schoolmates, who taunt him with his misfortune, and whose choicest witicism is to point the finger of scorn at him and cry out: "Whose's your dad? Johnny hasn't any pa."

Perhaps you do not know that there are many schools and many professions from which an illegitimate child is barred. Perhaps you do not realize that in these days even for the humblest job, without stating your parentage. And, these things being true, surely you could not think that whether a boy graduates from college or not was of the slightest importance compared with a child being saved from the handicap of being fatherless.

There are two schools of thought concerning whether an unwed mother should keep her child or give it for adoption. A good salary can be earned for a child, and the child is a steady moral influence on the mother. Also, that it is cruel for a mother to be separated from her child and that every child needs a mother's love and protection.

There is truth in all of these contentions, but it is also true that no young girl, without any profession or trade in which she is skilled enough to earn a good salary, can possibly make enough money to support herself and a child and give it the kind of life and environment in which it will have any chance to succeed.

The work from the Quebec branch was a very large, and well-organized, and will be of great value to Her Majesty's Maternity Home. It consisted of sweaters, knitted vests, nightgowns, bibs, dressing gowns, comfort bags and socks for soldiers. A painted table day card was in the centre of this table, the work of Miss Margaret Scott of the Quebec branch.

Apart from the usual work of the Queen Mary Needlework Guild the war work of our members goes on unceasingly. Every week knitted socks, scarves, mitts, sweaters, etc., are given the Red Cross from the Guild, and many parcels of mitts and scarves, go direct to sailors on warships, minesweepers and convoys. Letters of thanks have been received from commanders and sailors for these much needed articles.

So long as the great need continues the Guild will do their war work with as much energy as they have exhibited since war began.

DAINTINESS NEEDS DAILY SAFEGUARD
Now that fashion has adopted femininity as her lot-for most of the season—now that fabrics and styles are at their most feminine in a generation, there is one thing that's a double must for your bathroom cabinet.

It's a fine deodorant that will not only guard your feminine daintiness but will go a long way towards saving wear and tear on your best clothes. A cream preparation that not only eliminates the annoying odor that goes with under-arm perspiration, but actually safely carries the perspiration itself. Carries the seal of approval for its harmlessness to fabrics. Every woman knows how irritating it is to have to send a dress to the cleaners after one wearing or how impossible it is to save it by washing it at home.

With a dab of cream to protect that "dream-dress," you can watch the cleaning bills dwindle. Besides the dress-up occasion, a good deodorant is simply indispensable when it comes to spring sports.

FIRST IN CENTURY
First navy wedding in more than 100 years at the Cathedral church of St. George, Kingston, took place April 27, when Dorothy Ann Bishop, daughter of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. N. C. Bishop, of Ottawa, became the bride of Sub-Lieut. Gordon Harold Johnson, R.C.N.V.R. Members of the naval and military units stationed at Kingston were present.

THE COOK'S CORNER

FRENCH FRIED HAM SANDWICH

Make a filling of equal quantities of minced ham and grated cheese. Spread this between layers of buttered bread. Now dip the sandwich in the following egg-milk mixture:
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1/2 teaspoon salt
Pepper
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
METHOD: Beat the eggs slightly add the salt and pepper and lastly the milk. Beat well and then pour into a shallow bowl. After dipping the sandwiches in this, fry them in the butter until well-browned on both sides. Serve hot with sweet mixed pickles.

HAM AND EGG SANDWICH

This is made with toasted and buttered wholeheart bread. Place a thin slice of cooked ham on a slice of toast and cover with a scrambled egg and a second slice of toast.

HOT SALAD ROLLS

1 cup diced chicken
1 cup diced celery
2 chopped hard-cooked eggs
1-4 cup chopped olives.
1-3 cup dressing, cooked or mayonnaise
Rolls.
Method: Mix together the chicken, celery, eggs, olives and add enough mayonnaise or cooked dressing to moisten well.
Split long-shaped rolls and scoop out of the centre. Butter and then fill each one generously with the chicken salad mixture. Place in a covered baking dish and heat in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for about 10 minutes, or until the rolls are heated through.
Open-faced sandwiches that are heated under the broiler are becoming increasingly popular. This is one that may be made with either ham or chicken.

A Morning Smile

Miss—What in the name of goodness is the meaning of all this shouting in the kitchen?
Maid—If you please, mum, me and cook's not speakin'.

A young Scotsman, who had secured a job with a builder, fell off the scaffold. The foreman hurried to the end of the roof and was relieved to see the man scrambling to his feet unhurt from a heap of sand on which he had fallen.
"Consider yourself lucky," said the foreman.
"Lucky, he blowed," replied the Scot. "I've broken my braces!"

You Pay a Heavy Price for Etiquette Errors

A small thing, an introduction—but how quickly it can reveal the socially inexperienced!
The wife who introduces her husband with "This is Mr. Smith" makes a very poor impression. A well-mannered woman would say to acquaintances, "This is my husband," or, to an intimate friend, "This is John."
A pity for a wife not to be sure of etiquette, for her social graces may be an important factor in her husband's career.
If in doubt about whether to rise for a greeting, check up. A woman always rises as hostess to greet her guests. She rises, too, when introduced to a much older woman, but never for a man unless he's very old or very distinguished.
How to reply to a formal invitation? Write your answer by hand, spacing it as the invitation was spaced. Uncertain about whether to "dress up" for a party? Call your hostess and inquire, "Are we dressing formally?"
Have the poise and assurance that comes from knowing the right thing! Our 32-page booklet tells what's correct for hostess and guest; gives etiquette for theatre, country club and hotels, for travelling, motoring, sports, dances. Discusses telephone etiquette, tipping, conduct toward servants.

Helpful Hints For The Women Folk

A GARDEN IS A PRAYER

By ANNE CAMPBELL
A garden is an answered prayer. It is the sower's faith. That God will breathe upon the seed and raise the flowers from death.
The ground, so short a time ago, was ugly and unkempt. But now a dream begins to grow. That some rash dreamer dreamt. A garden is a holy spot. For any one can see God's footprint in each garden plot. God's hand on every tree.
The cold drink should not be sweetened too much. The purpose of the drink is to quench the thirst and a very sweet drink will only induce thirst.
Polar bears are known as land animals, yet many of them live their entire lives without ever touching the ground.
Crossing between intersections was the cause of 26.4 per cent. of the pedestrian deaths during 1939.
The ability to save a part of what you earn is a priceless ingredient in the prescription for financial success.
Don't eat freshly made cake until it cools—unless you do not mind if it is unattractive.
Nearly all the household furniture in Panama is made of the fine mahogany growing there.
