THE CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN

Very gratifying progress is being made in air navigation. The helicopter machine, which can rise straight upward, remain stationary in the air, move in any direction and alight straight downward, is being rapidly perfected. And much progress is made in gliding on wings, without other motive power than the air currents, or with the assistance of a little engine power.

Since May Day Georges Barbot sailed from France to England in a tiny machine of the latter class, so light that he could drag it along the ground anywhere by the tail, and made the passage to England in 51 minutes and the return passage in 44 minutes. Also the United States has established a daily air-mail service across the continent to make the trip in 27 hours, and beating the fast railway service by days.

VACATION READING

The province is now enjoying a well earned vacation, between a legislative session which was somewhat strenuous and an election campaign, which, if it follows the usual course, will also be more or less strenuous. While the needed respite is enjoyable, as vacations always are, it is neither desirable nor helpful to permit it to be wholly barren.

It has been observed, in the matter of school children, that those who wholly neglect their studies during vacation, find it more difficult to gather themselves together after re-assembling in school, than those who do a little agreeable study during their holidays. It is well to keep track of things; well to re-traverse the ground already covered; well to keep in mind at least the outstanding facts that transpired during the strenuous days. This is equally true of politicians and all interested in the welfare of their country as of school children.

In this province, as in our sister provinces, politics becomes acute during election campaigns and legislative or parliamentary sessions. This over, the subject is generally dropped until the next heat is called. This is not as it ought to be. The government of a country is no joke; it involves the country's prosperity and progress. It is the people's prerogative and not alone that of the active politicians. The people are the government or ought to be and would be if all kept track of the whole situation and governed themselves accordingly. If the interests of the country, rather than of party, were considered, matters would be very much better than they are from every standpoint.

made projects, the "permanent" highways which are to perpetuate the name and fame of the Bell government. Making every reasonable allowance for the effect of the heavy snow fall of the past winter it is extremely disappointing to find, after all the expenditure and all the hallowing, the roads today are declared to be in a worse condition than during any other spring in our history. These roads were the only thing the Bell government accomplished during their whole term of office, the only thing they boasted of, the only egg they had to cackle about—and it wasn't a golden egg either. Nor will the government be killed in order to secure all at once the kind of eggs they were laying, but to prevent them from continuing it.

The outstanding feature in connection with the much lauded road work was the haste to tear up the old roads, the giving of contracts, the laying out of projects. The project once let, no further attention was given to it. The miles let were added to the miles previously let and the whole party shouted in chorus that so many miles of permanent roads had been completed, and that another store had been added to the monument.

Well, the monument is built and the political grave is ready for the defunct Bell government. The monument will not long survive those whom it commemorates, but it will mark, temporarily at least, the place where they fell and indicate one of the reasons why they fell.

MUSSEL MUD SURVEY

The reply of Mr. W. H. Collins, Director of the Geological Survey, to Major F. B. McRae's enquiry regarding the mussel mud beds of the province, which appeared in yesterday's Guardian, is a very satisfactory one. Whether the matter is one for the Agricultural or the Geological Department is of little concern; the thing is that such a survey would be of immense benefit to our province and might conceivably benefit our sister provinces as well.

To form any reasonable estimate of the extent of our mussel mud beds, a survey would naturally be the first step. That there are immense quantities in our bays and rivers is known. How far these extend or what their possibilities are it will be impossible to ascertain without a thorough survey. It is encouraging to note that Mr. Collins has assured Major McRae that if the Department of Agriculture does not take it up, he will regard it as one for the Geological Survey to consider. This may be regarded as a definite promise.

What are the possibilities of our mussel mud beds? They are almost unlimited. Our farmers consider that a coating of mussel mud is effective in the soil for from fifteen to twenty years. Supplemented with occasional applications of barn yard manure and with occasional pasturing after the usual rotation the fertility of the soil is maintained for ten, fifteen or twenty years. We have enough mussel mud, it is believed, to fertilize the whole province. What this would mean our farmers well know.

There is another possibility. We are importing yearly thousands of tons of commercial fertilizer. With modern appliances and modern invention, what is to prevent the manufacture of mussel mud, by drying and grinding, into an exportable product? Modern ingenuity has accomplished many more difficult things. This also could be accomplished. The extent of the mussel mud beds once known, the location of a suitable plant would be possible. The almost prohibitive freight rates prevailing at present makes the hauling of mussel mud

THE PATRIOT'S PUBLICATION OF THE SPEECHES OF SOME OF THE LESSER LIBERALS MADE TOWARD THE CLOSE OF THE BUDGET DEBATE REMINDS US OF HOW LIKE THE ASSEMBLY HALL HAS BEEN OF LATE TO A BOWLING ALLEY.

In bowling there are men who roll the balls and small boys who set up the pins after they are knocked down. The pins—vacant schools, Tory deficits, permanent roads, lovely taxes, 15c per cent. for ourselves and so on—looked quite pretty and symmetrical in triangle when the session opened. Then J. D. Stewart made a ten strike and they all went clattering down. The Honorable's indignity made a rush, and set them up again with their own hands. Then young Arsenault made another ten-strike and down went all the pins in a heap. After that the small boys of the party were set to pick up the pins as McLean, McNutt and Kennedy in turn knocked them helter-skelter. They were a sorry lot of battered and splintered pins, and all down, when the session closed. The fragments are now being set up again in another place. It was real funny to watch the game while it was going on.

LONDON TO OPEN WORLD'S LARGEST AQUARIUM IN JUNE

LONDON, May 9.—England is soon to have the biggest aquarium in Europe, if not in the world. It is located at the Mappin Terrace in London, and will be completed in June. It is to cost half a million dollars.

More than 100,000 gallons of water will be required to fill the tanks which will contain fish and water fauna from all parts of the world. Natural sea water will be used.

MR. J. J. HUGHES, M.P., HAS RETURNED FROM OTTAWA AND HAD A TALK WITH THE PATRIOT.

We are told that he made "interesting comments" on the proceedings in Parliament. We looked in vain, however, to find mention of anything done by the Big Four, whom we sent from this province to the House of Commons, save that he himself is a member of the Civil Service Committee. Of course, that is something, as the committee was appointed to prepare the way for the restoration of patronage in appointments! Mr. Hughes also intimated that the widening of the railway gauge to standard West of Summerside will go on. But why this limitation? What about the lines in King's and Queen's counties, so ably represented by Three of the Big Four? Surely they are not consenting parties to this callous and cruel neglect of their own dear constituents! Was their united influence with the powers that be too feeble to get us this urgent and simple act of justice after two sessions at Ottawa?

The cars sway and rock and totter and for long stretches any higher speed than 15 miles an hour would be positively dangerous. One passenger intimated that it reminded him by rail impracticable. Its preparation into a light, portable product would place it within reach of every part of the province and might easily develop into an export industry. In any case we are indebted to Major McRae for bringing the question to the attention of Geological Survey and to the latter or its sympathetic consideration.

THE DRURY GOVERNMENT CAME INTO POWER IN 1919 UNEXPECTEDLY TO THEMSELVES OR ANYBODY ELSE.

There was really an accident. There were 111 seats to be filled and Liberals had only nominated 71, not half of whom they elected. Many who were not quite satisfied with the old parties said: "We will give the Farmer candidate a vote." A host of these regret it now in view of the Drury Government's reckless taxation and spendthrift extravagance. The Farmers' party was badly split between the Drury wing, which was for "broadening out" and ultimate fusion with the Liberals, and the Morrison wing, which wanted the Farmers to stand alone. It was hoped that the split was got over at the close of the session, and a banquet was called to celebrate the happy event and take sweet counsel together. However, the kickers did not attend. Morrison was not there and Hicks was not there, chief of the recalcitrants. It looks as if they may have more kick in them yet. And to add to Premier Drury's troubles, Hon. M. Raney, his Attorney General, has announced his retirement from public life.

That Body of Ours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

CRAMPS IN THE ABDOMEN

You have eaten something of which you were a little suspicious but it didn't seem to bother you, and you awake in the middle of the night with most violent cramps. It's of no avail to put your finger down your throat to empty the stomach because it is more than six hours since you ate the food, and it has likely passed from the stomach into the small intestine. In fact it may be in the large intestine and that organ with its heavy muscular sides is trying to push this material out of the system. Often it is the violent efforts of your large intestines that is causing the pain.

However this information is of no interest to you at this particular moment. You want to get rid of that pain, and get rid of it quickly, for as a matter of fact there is a good deal of shock from cramps or colic, so prompt action is necessary.

If you are alone you would be wise to telephone a physician to ensure safety.

In other days it was customary to use a little opiate that would quiet the muscular action of the intestine and thus relieve the pain. This is only palliative treatment of course.

What then should you do? A very simple thing, but most effective.

Take a basin of warm water about three pints and rub up a little soap in it until you get some suds. Put this in a fountain syringe, and allow it to flow up through the rectum into the intestine. Try and retain it for a few minutes even if it means a hard fight on your part to do it. When the water comes away from you the irritating substances and a volume of gas come with it and your relief will be immediate.

If you are not relieved, repeat the process at once if you feel too weak to repeat it, wait a few minutes and try it again.

You will return to bed and to sleep, and will be ready for work or business the next morning. That is the big point of this treatment, as that you have no after effects, as you would had you used morphine or other medicine.

ASCENSION DAY

We do but cross a threshold into day.
Beauty we leave behind,
A deeper beauty on our path to find,
And higher glories to illumine the way.
The door we close behind us in the Past:
Our sons shall find a fairer door at last.

A world reborn awaits us. Years to come
Shall know its grace and good,
When wars shall end in endless brotherhood,
And birds shall build in cannon long since dumb.

S. A. McDONALD

How an Investment of $5,000 Made $21,000 Within a Year

"Did you notice that chap who just went out?"

I turned in the direction of the only other occupant of the smoking compartment of the car and found him addressing me.

"Not especially," I replied. "Why?"

"Whenever I meet him I always think of automobiles."

"About ten years ago," he continued, "an aunt died and left him $5,000."

"It had always been his ambition to own an automobile, which he bought for $3,500."

"I had just returned from the gold mining camps of Northern Ontario, and met him one evening in the King Edward Hotel."

"We were having dinner together, and knowing that I had made money in mining, he finally asked me what I thought about the possibilities of gold."

"I was so enthusiastic over what I had seen up North that my friend became equally enthused."

"I advised him to sell his car and put his $5,000 in Hollinger."

"I assured him in a year's time he would get his money back and have enough left to buy a car."

"As the car was brand new, he sold it and put his $5,000 in Hollinger."

"Within a year he sold his Hollinger for $21,000, bought a $5,000 car, purchased a home and besides had his $5,000 to the good—in other words, his $5,000 made $21,000."

"Before you came into the smoker he told me he had bought a block of shares of Matchewan Canadian Gold Limited and intended leaving his money in this mine until he had made a fortune."

"And I certainly think he will, because he is one of the luckiest men I know."

There is not the slightest doubt the Matchewan Canadian Gold Limited offers greater opportunities at the present price of the stock than any other property in Northern Ontario.

About the only speculation connected with this stock is how big the mine will develop and how high the stock will go. The gold is known to exist for at least 1,600 feet in length, and over wide widths on the property, diamond drilling and other work done has proven its existence in large ore bodies of commercial value.

The proof is right here in our office, accessible to you for confirmation at any time.

The diamond drillings were made by an experienced mining engineer, and are scientifically accurate in their showings.

No argument in the world can get over actual facts, and they are here for your inspection.

Summing up, the property of the Matchewan Canadian Gold Limited covers an area of 840 acres in one complete block.

As you will see by the prospectus, the board of directors is an unusually strong one.

The present offering of 600,000 shares of the Matchewan Canadian Gold Limited at $1.00 a share is to build a mill and mine the ore which the development and drilling has disclosed.

Why not send at once for particulars of this remarkable opportunity? The coupon below is all that is necessary.
