City Teachers

Last year's meeting were read and adopted.

The work of the past year was reviewed by the President in a very capable manner.

Mr. Edward MacPhail, in speaking of the Correspondence Course, pointed out the advantages derived from such courses, especially to crippled children throughout the Province.

He called the attention of the teachers to the report to be forwarded to the Department of Education, on regular school attendance, in order to obtain full benefit of the Family Allowance.

Miss Sophie Newson, Director of Junior Red Cross, was unable to be present owing to attendance at the Crippled Children's Clinic in Summerside.

Miss Ruth Rose, Public Health Nurse for the Charlottetown District, gave an interesting talk on the "Aims of Public Health."

Mr. Lloyd W. Shaw, Director of Education, expressed pleasure at being given the opportunity to meet with the city teachers. He went on to emphasize that the growth of the child should be the objective of the school, and dealt with the difficulties in measuring the results at the end of Elementary Grades.

Miss Fannie Leigh gave a very practical demonstration on the teaching of Reading in Grade VI.

Mr. Reginald MacDonald spoke on "An Act to Incorporate the Prince Edward Island Teachers' Federation." According to this act the following members were elected to the Board of Governors:

Mr. A. S. Williams.
Miss Agnes Murnaghan.
Miss Hilda Brown.

Resolutions
The following resolutions were passed:

(1) Resolved that the Charlottetown Teachers' Institute in annual convention assembled express to Miss Mary Irving the sincere thanks of its members for her untiring efforts in the cause of education in this city. And be it further resolved that we express to her our best wishes for a happy retirement.

(2) Resolved that this Convention express to Colonel Lowther and Miss Muriel Weeks its great pleasure at their return to the teaching staff of Prince Street

Adml. Thierry D'Argenlieu, above French high commissioner to India, faced with spreading rebellion against return of French rule to the country, promised the Indians a new political status with all persons without distinction of race and color to have access to administrative posts.

School after their years of service in His Majesty's Forces.

(3) Resolved that this Convention extend to Reverend Sister Superior of Rochford Square School its most sincere thanks for the use of the classrooms for this meeting.

(4) As the plan for enforcing attendance, outlined earlier by Mr. MacPhail, actually allows a pupil to remain absent from school for many days without a check on the cause of absence, be it further resolved that such appointments or appointments be given to men who are returning or have returned from any theatre of war.

(5) Resolved that the City School Board take steps to install a Kindergarten Class in each of the City Schools thus eliminating a great deal of the time necessarily lost in Grade I therefore adjusting the child to school life. This class to include children from five to six inclusive.

SILHOUETTE

Youth upon a windswept hill
Arms outflung to meet the day!
Brightning hopes like rippling rill
Mee and flow upon their way!

Youth and courage here combined
With the sweetness of the dawn,
Show life's clothing faint outlined,
As fulfillment beckons on!

Ready soon to meet the years,
Where the skies are sometimes gray;
Learning, love and hope and tears
All coverage to fill life's day!

ONLY UTILITY CUPS

The United Kingdom will have to be content with plain white "utility" cups and saucers for a while longer, potteries officials say.

Many factories which made fine china still are closed and those carrying on are swamped with orders from overseas. Throughout the war gaily coloured crockery, of a quality not seen in British shops for five years has been shipped overseas.

TO A KITCHEN

A kitchen is a valiant room.
"Melting Pot" of stove and broom
Of homely tasks, of dreams and Plans
Nurtured over pots and pans:
Life's richness other rooms adorn.
But in a kitchen home is born.

NEWSY NOTES

The best-known American botanist of his day, Dr. Asa Gray was Fisher Professor of Natural History in Harvard University specializing in wild and cultivated plants and inaugurating the herbarium which now bears his name. He did much to further the study of the American flora, and a small volume, "How Plants Grow" (1898) is not only interesting but interesting. It was used either as a text-book or a "reader" on the Island in early days; my copy had passed through several hands before I bought it.

Dr. Gray wrote his more important work "A Handbook of the Flowering Plants and Ferns of the United States and adjacent Canada" which attained its 6th edition in 1890. It was this edition that our earlier botanists worked with. The seventh and latest edition was published in 1908. It was extensively rearranged and revised by Professor Robinson and Fernald; and was used in preparing the "New Flora". Professor M. L. Fernald is now Director of the Gray Herbarium, and has done much research in Canada.

On Phonetic Spelling
Unquestionably our haphazard spelling antagonizes the foreigner who is trying to learn English, and is often troublesome to the Briton himself. It is not surprising, therefore, to find phonetic spelling discussed in the pages of a popular magazine. The trouble (as a beginning) is that we have but 26 letters to represent almost double that number of sounds, the vowels being notoriously overworked. For instance, the printer has but one type-letter to represent the "a" in fact, fate, pa or all; and the reader must learn the sound of each word separately. It is said that each child wastes a year of school life in such learning, whereas if spelling were phonetic—a sign for each sound—the language would hold no terrors for the foreigner and the scholar.

In order to see out the alphabet and yet not introduce any new type, it is now proposed to number the different vowel-sounds and print the numbers instead of the letter. "Fate" would be printed "24" and "all" would be "11". "Was" becomes "w4s" logical enough but not beautiful.

Sir Isaac Pitman, the inventor of the system of Shorthand called Phonography, drew up a phonetic alphabet that met every requirement and was artistic as well. He ran a page of his new type in his weekly shorthand journal, and it was easy to read and did not offend the eye as other "reformed spellings" did. The trouble was (and is) that it would be a tremendous expense to discard the present type and machines and substitute phonetic type like Pitman's. And if any system (even the numerical) were adopted, within a single generation the millions of books in our libraries would be as unreadable as if they had been printed in Chaucer's day! Talk of the horns of a dilemma!

Pickles and olives do not require refrigeration but are more apt, pitting when chilled.

VICTORY MUST NOT BE IN VAIN!

NOW that the war is over and the world is at peace, it's a time for rejoicing, thanksgiving and of gratitude. Rejoicing because victory is ours; thanksgiving to God; and gratitude to our service men and women. All of us owe a great debt to these men and women who gave up the best years of their lives that we might be free. Money can never repay this debt we owe. But money—and the things money can buy—will provide them with medical care and attention, educational opportunities and a new chance in a world at peace. Your purchase of Victory Bonds in the Ninth Victory Loan is your opportunity to show your appreciation and gratitude to Canada's gallant service men and women.

53,073 Canadian service men and women were wounded in the war. More than 9,000 others were prisoners-of-war. Many of these will need medical care for a long time. Your purchase of Victory Bonds will help these men and women along the road to recovery.

Thousands of Canadian boys went direct from school into the fighting forces. Today these young men must be trained in peacetime occupations and equipped to compete with more experienced workmen. We owe them the opportunity of a fresh start in life.

Nearly 38,000 Canadian service men made the supreme sacrifice that we might enjoy freedom—and our way of life. Today Canada asks you to lend your money to help dependent wives, mothers and children by the payment of pensions.

Many of our service men and women want to be independent—to be in business for themselves. Today, your country needs your extra dollars to pay these men and women gratuities with which they can establish a business, buy a home or own a farm.
