Hello Sister
Paints Truth
About Youth

Go no farther than the Prince Edward Theatre today to learn what the boys and girls of today are doing when they are not at church—if ever. The picture is "Hello Sister," which had its first presentation in this city yesterday, and is chock full of entertainment of a kind that makes the oldsters itch to turn back the hands of the clock.

It opens right up with a wild house party, jumps to a spiffy country club, takes in roadhouses with plenty of whoopee, pictures a Church Bazaar with a horse race thrill, stages a big singing and dancing number, and is what you might call blimminy with action.

Effervescent is brunette Olive Borden and her society gangsters who take their fun where they find it. And they have a story that gives them every chance. Miss Borden portrays a girl who, at her grandfather's death, is brought up with a round turn, and is told that for six months she must change her life if she wants his fortune.

She starts out to earn it, and then enters the man in the persons of handsome Lloyd Hughes. What happens then is nobody's business unless looking at this really entertaining photoplay. And do just that thing if you want to spend an enjoyable evening.

The action takes place in the colorful locale of Algiers and is featured by sensational photographic beauty. On the dramatic side, highlights are the troops and the mutiny in the desert led by Kerry unknowingly against his father, the commanding officer. They also are pitted for the smiles of Nolan, blonde and dangerous. Another powerful sequence is where the father is presiding judge at his son's trial.

Stone and Kerry give powerful characterizations. Mary Nolan is equally strong in her role and photographs beautifully. She brings a new type to the screen—the blonde whose kiss is disaster.

Walter Perry, who does well, while the romantic interest is furnished with sympathy, by June Marlowe, Crawford Kent is splendid in an unsympathetic role.

Foreign Legion
Great Picture

The most spectacular and powerful drama in many months is playing at the Capitol Theatre. It is "The Foreign Legion," co-starring Norman Kerry and Lewis Stone, supported by beautiful Mary Nolan and June Marlowe.

This is without a doubt one of the finest pictures of the year and should rate high when the selection of the year's greatest pictures is made.

It is sheer drama, of romance and revolt, relieved with comedy masterfully placed at just the right spots. It cannot hurt your enjoyment, by being told that the story revolves around the powerful situation of a son and his father opposed to each other, neither knowing who the other is.

They visited Summerside and the western part and then came to Charlottetown, and will proceed to Kings County, taking in Montague, Cardigan, Souris and Georgetown. They are delighted with the scenery and comfortable appearance of the farms. The country reminds them very much of Scotland and England, and the people they have met have been kind and hospitable. The roads, Mr. Smith considers, are wonderfully good considering local conditions; and he feels sure if we advertised more we would get all the tourists we could accommodate. It was the result of newspaper advertising he came here, and he certainly has not been disappointed—half was not told of the beauties of the province.

MANY P. E. ISLAND PASSENGERS ON DISABLED BOAT—Yesterday's afternoon train from Saint John brought quite a number of the passengers who were aboard the Boston-Saint John boat, Governor Dingley, when it struck a submerged object off Eastport, Me., and damaged the propeller early Saturday morning. All those reaching here Sunday were bound for Prince Edward Island and a special service from Sackville to Charlottetown was operated to accommodate them. The disabled seamer was towed to Eastport and the passengers transferred to St. Stephen, N. B., from where they were taken by special train to Saint John.

"WANT-A-NAME" BAR IS A BIG HIT—The "Want-a-Name" Bar continues to grow in popularity. On Sunday night or early Monday morning the National Candy factory was visited by burglars and over thirty boxes of "Want-a-Name" chocolate bars were taken. Whoever the visitors were, they took in the rush several boxes of other bars. When the police officers arrived they found these in the alley way. Two bars were taken out of one box and the rest had been thrown away. There was, however, no trace of any of the new bars. It certainly looks like the popularity of the new bar is so great that some people have to break into the factory to get them at any cost. Well, it's a big boost for National Candy, Limited, even though they are out $30.00 or $40.00. The police are investigating the break and it looks like they have some trace of the ones who liked the new bar so well.

A PLEASANT EVENING was spent on Friday last when Mrs. Neil Robinson and Miss Jean Fraser were joint hostess at the former's home, Richmond Street, at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Azza Parkman, who is to be one of the principals in an interesting event. About twenty-five guests were present. The parlor was decorated for the occasion with roses and ferns and in the centre of the room was a table, beautifully decorated in white, the special feature being a bride's cake in the centre and on it an ornament representing a bride and groom standing under a large white bell, fastened to the chandelier with streamers extending to the table. The bride-to-be was ushered in to the parlor by Jean Fraser, costumed in the role of a herald and proclaimed the forth coming nuptials. The gifts, numerous and valuable, were accompanied by humorous and appropriate verses, which were read by Mrs. Ballingall and afforded much merriment. Dainty refreshments were served and at a late hour the party broke up, after extending hearty congratulations.

P. S. School

Principal's Report 1929-1930

The school year just closed has been in one respect at least, quite notable. For the first time the principal has been relieved of some of his teaching duties and has had time to devote to supervision and general oversight. Last fall Miss Matheson was engaged as half time teacher on the staffs of West Kent and Prince Street and I have pleasure in reporting that she filled a difficult role very well indeed. This extra teacher meant that on alternate mornings the Vice Principal, Miss Douglas took the grade ten classes, which, I believe, to their advantage as she had taught them capably and well the previous year in Grade IX.

May I refer briefly to some other changes we were able to introduce as a result of this new departure. During the fall months we do not bring Grade I classes back in the afternoon. Being mere beginners we feel that it is not desirable to start them in too strenuously, and in fact it has been proven that under a good primary teacher they make as good progress in the year with the one session as they do when brought back for afternoon sessions during the winter and spring months. Last fall we tried an experiment with what I may call "opportunity classes" by using the Grade I teachers in the afternoon to coach and give special tuition to backward pupils and also to those who had been promoted more rapidly than usual. For instance quite often a good pupil can skip a grade if some extra help in picking up the work that has been missed is given. This plan proved quite successful and it is our intention to follow the same course next Fall. Pupils who through sickness or other reasons did not complete the work of their grade this year can be graded provisionally and by means of the personal help that can be given individually in these afternoon classes very often they can catch up and so not lose a year. We should be very glad if parents interested would cooperate with us in this effort to help along those who have got behind and also those able to advance at a faster rate than the average pupil.

Having been able to go about and visit the different departments quite frequently I was able to become better acquainted with more of the pupils and also with the work being done. May I say that as a result of this supervision I can state quite confidently that very excellent work is being done in this school of yours in all of the departments.

I feel quite satisfied that if the pupils do their share and the parents lend their encouragement and support no pupil need fail to make good progress under the teachers at present on the staff at Prince Street School. I only hope that having had a year's experience I may be able to render more assistance of a supervisory nature than I was able to give this year.

An innovation of a different nature was the Ice Sports held in lieu of a school concert. This helped to augment our school funds and did not disturb our class work as a concert cannot but do—quite seriously. From our funds we have secured a good selection of books for extra prizes to worthy pupils. These are in addition to the money prizes so generously donated by public-spirited individuals and societies, which I acknowledge with sincere thanks. It is hoped that by placing this good literature in the hands of our boys and girls they may be encouraged to more reading and they are urged to pass them around and have as many read them as possible. These books are to my mind a fine souvenir of special proficiency during school years and in after years the winners will have something to show for their hard work in the different grades.

May I add a word having special reference to Grade X. We have had this year a very good class—30 girls practically all of whom have done a good year's work. Most of them are well able to go ahead with Grade XI work and so complete at the end of Grade XII their High School course. Unfortunately some of them will be denied that opportunity, due largely to the limited accommodation in the only place where Grade XI work is given in this province. This necessitates a very strict examination of those who offer themselves for further education, for scarcely half of those who desire to go ahead can

Will Solve Highway Problem

The Conservative Party in Parliament has stood consistently and energetically for Federal aid for highways, and a renewal of generous grants for this purpose.

In a statement to the electors, just published, Hon. W. A. Black and Felix P. Quinn, are definite and emphatic in this pledge—Federal aid for main trunk roads, in order that provincial money may be released for use on the secondary roads of the Province.

In his "keynote" speech at Winnipeg a few days ago, Hon. R. B. Bennett, in addition to his party's stand in Parliament on the question of Federal aid for highways, pledged "the establishment of a National Highways System."

Our own people do not have to be told how important this is. It was Sir Robert Borden who launched the great national plan of Federal aid for highways; and the failure of the present Dominion Government to continue those generous grants has been most discouraging.

For therein lies the solution of the problem of secondary roads in this Province. With adequate Federal contribution to the construction and maintenance of trunk roads, hundreds of thousands of dollars would be released to establish the kind of secondary roads our people require and deserve.

The day has gone when highways could be regarded as strictly provincial. The motor car, that modern means of rapid transit, has broken down provincial barriers, and the highways of this country today should be regarded quite as much a Federal as a provincial and municipal responsibility.

The Treasury at Ottawa has been overflowing for years, while the provinces, particularly the Maritimes, have been hard pressed to make both ends meet. The Federal Government has a DIRECT RESPONSIBILITY in this most important matter, and our own people are greatly heartened to know that one of the great parties in this Dominion is PLEDGED to this form of aid and relief.

Patriot Challenges Globe's Accuracy

The local Liberal organ, in an anonymous contribution elevated to the dignity of a double-column front page article, challenges a statement quoted in a recent issue of The Guardian that the loss of Canadian population during the Mackenzie King regime was over 1,355,000. It suggests that these figures "are largely based on estimates of the population and naturally the estimates are highly colored before they drip from the pen of the editor." If this be so, The Patriot should address its complaint to its own leading party organ, the Toronto Globe, which on June 9th last carried the statement from which The Guardian figures were quoted. This statement appeared editorially and read as follows:

"Statistics from The Globe's Ottawa correspondent showing the trend in population illuminate one of Canada's great problems. The latest official estimate given of the population is 9,796,000 persons, the increase taken in 1921, placed it at 8,788,000. This is an increase of 1,008,000. The natural increase in the same period was 1,233,756, and immigrants entering the country totalled 1,330,659. If all immigrants had remained and the natural increase had been retained, the population would be 11,152,455. ACCORDINGLY, THERE WAS A LOSS IN THE NINE-YEAR PERIOD OF 1,355,655 PERSONS—MORE THAN EITHER NATURAL INCREASE OR IMMIGRATION."

Chosen. Does this not point to an urgent need of a High School in Charlottetown? Prince of Wales College should, one would think, be devoted largely to normal training, since it turns out all our future teachers and I believe that such training is becoming more and more necessary. This is a matter that the parents of Charlottetown should seriously ponder—too many of our boys and girls are not completing their High School training because of a lack of adequate facilities—facilities which should be provided.

In conclusion may I, at the conclusion of my first full year in a city school, express my pleasure in this opportunity to serve you and assure you that we welcome and invite cooperation on the part of all interested parents.
