On Thursday evening the St. Teresa Dramatic Club presented their three act play entitled 'Wild Ginger' in Georgetown Hall. The hall was filled to capacity with an audience who listened with rapt attention to the serious parts not forgetting to bring down the house with laughter at the more comical sketches. The entertainment opened with a few well spoken remarks concerning the play, by the president Mr. Borden Mooney. The play was under the direction of their pastor, Rev. Father Croken who guided the players through many difficulties both in practice and presentation. Character: Jack Tallman as a miserly old pinchpenny who near the conclusion turns over a new leaf, and no longer hoards his money but spends extravagantly. This part was suitably taken by Mr. Jack McAulay. A team of young well-fed farm horses caused some excitement near the St. Peter's Bay last week when they broke away from their harness while hawking. One of the horses became tangled in the chain traces and one link wedged between the head and the ground, throwing the animal head and hooves into the air. The driver danced around. The driver of the regular train was forced to keep his train moving at a snail's pace on Thursday morning as a cow refused to leave the road bed but kept running ahead of the engine. Farmers should bear in mind that cattle are not allowed to run on the highway let alone the railway properly.
