"A WOMAN'S VICTORY"

In the Opera House last night the Colonial Stock Company presented that splendid play "A Woman's Victory." This company, which has been receiving much favourable comment since the opening of their prolonged engagement here, made another distinct hit in their performance of last night and, if possible, won their way deeper into the hearts of theatre-goers of this city. The play was presented in a very capable and interesting manner throughout and until the completion of the most surprising climax in the last act held the closest attention of their audience.
