Air Pageant In Charlottetown On Monday Next

The Trans-Canada Air Pageant will be held at the Upton Airport on Monday next according to a decision reached last evening by Mr. G. M. Ross, manager of the Pageant in connection with Dr. J. S. Jenkins.

Mr. Ross arrived here yesterday afternoon by plane with Pilot G. W. Dean, who piloted the Autogyro plane from Moncton to Charlottetown for a demonstration. Pilots Harry O'Leary, and H. S. Jones also arrived in planes escorting the Autogyro.

Mr. Jones inspected the Upton Field yesterday, and pronounced it satisfactory, although the work on the port is not yet completed. The Pageant Manager pays a high tribute to Dr. Jenkins for his initiative in anticipating aviation requirements by building the airport. One of the objects of the Pageant is to stimulate the development of airports, and interest in aviation. The airport, Mr. Jones believes, will be the local centre of aviation here for the future.

The Pageant is 100 per cent Canadian, both in craft and in personnel. It has already travelled 7,000 miles, and has given nineteen performances.

The Auto-Gyro

A large crowd of aviation enthusiasts gathered at Upton Park yesterday afternoon to witness the demonstration of the only Canadian Auto-Gyro plane, which arrived from Moncton, piloted by Mr. Godfrey Dean. The Auto-Gyro was here yesterday as it will be unable to be here next week. The strange aircraft which has the power of rising or landing almost vertically was viewed with great interest, as it flew over the field, its long rotors whirling lazily, or as it hovered in the air like a giant bird, and landed almost vertically with the ease of a floating feather.

The four visiting aviators remaining at the residence of Dr. J. S. Jenkins last night, and will return to the Mainland today.

His Death Creates the Third Vacancy In The Upper Chamber — Was a Life-long Conservative.

(Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 24—The death of Senator S. J. Crowe, Vancouver, which took place today creates the third vacancy in the Upper Chamber. Senator Crowe was a life-long Conservative and with the filling of the three vacancies the Conservative administration will have a majority of two in the Senate. The standing now is, Conservatives, 46; Liberals, 47; vacancies, 3; total, 96.

In addition to the vacancy for British Columbia, appointments remain to be filled by the naming of successors to the late Senator G. G. Foster, Montreal and to the late Senator E. M. Farrel (Queens, N. S.)

A TRIBUTE

OTTAWA, Aug. 24—Tribute to the late Senator S. J. Crowe, Vancouver, was paid today by Rt. Hon. Sir George Perley, Minister without portfolio and senior Privy Councillor in the Bennett Government.

"I feel very badly to think that so useful a member of the Senate has passed away, Sir George stated in expressing his regret at the death of Senator Crowe. At all times Senator Crowe gave the best of his ability to the serious discharge of his duties. It is indeed very unfortunate that a comparatively young man, possessing his invaluable experience should leave us early in life when his services to the country are so much required.

To his widow and family, I extend on behalf of the Dominion Government our greatest sympathy."

MACDONALD GOVT. IS OUT

Labor Administration Will Be Succeeded By A New National Non-Party Government—Will Be Headed By Former Labor Premier.

(By Thos. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Aug. 24—The Labor Government of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald passed into history this afternoon with the resignation of the Prime Minister and his Cabinet. But almost immediately after the Cabinet resigned, the King entrusted Mr. MacDonald with the task of forming a new National Government composed of the leaders of all the three major parties. Their aim at the moment is the burying of politics and the extricating of Great Britain from the economic and financial difficulties.

The death of the second Labor Government of Great Britain, the coming to birth of a Ministry of all the talents was heralded in this laconic announcement from No. 10 Downing Street. "The Prime Minister this afternoon tendered to the King his resignation of the Ministry, which was accepted by His Majesty, who entrusted Mr. Ramsay MacDonald with the task of forming a National Government on a comprehensive basis for the purpose of meeting the present financial emergency. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald accepted the commission and is now in conference with Mr. Stanley Baldwin and Sir Herbert Samuel, who are cooperating with him in the constitution of such an administration."

His Majesty will hold a meeting of the Privy Council either tomorrow or Wednesday, when the members of the new Government will be sworn in and the seats of office will be handed to the King by those Ministers of the old Cabinet, who will no longer hold their portfolios.

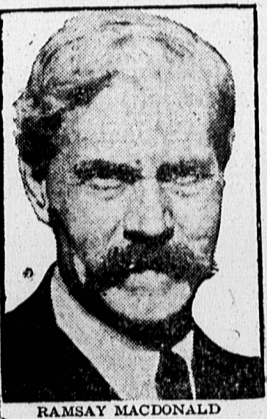

Immediately upon leaving the Palace this afternoon, Mr. MacDonald began the task of making a new Cabinet. The composition of this Cabinet is the chief subject of national interest tonight, now the first tenets of the atmosphere has passed.

Of the material ready to hand some indication is already possible, although there is no reliable news as to how the different figures will be fitted into the constitutional frame.

Mr. MacDonald, it might be safely said, will take into the new Cabinet perhaps, not more than three of his associates in the old one. Four Conservatives are prominently in line for the smaller national Cabinet. Two, possibly three Liberals, seem sure of places, so the general speculation lists the new Cabinet as follows, without attempting to allot the portfolios. Prime Minister, J. Ramsay MacDonald, Labor; Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, Labor; Lord Sankey, Labor; Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Labor; Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Conservative; Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Conservative; Sir Samuel Hoare, Conservative; Lord Hailsham, Conservative; Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal; Sir Donald Mac Lean, Liberal; Lord Reading, Liberal.

But this list must not be taken too closely, some of the names may not be found in the Prime Minister's Cabinet. The Cabinet may contain names that not yet figure
