Subscription Rates Of Four Halifax Papers Increased

HALIFAX, N. S. Dec. 15 — (Special) —Effective Saturday, subscription prices of The Halifax Herald, The Halifax Mail, The Halifax Chronicle and The Halifax Daily Star will be advanced $1 per year. Announcements have gone forward to subscribers of the new rates.

"Several sharp advances in the price of newsprint, increases in wages, along with the rising publishing costs in printing a daily newspaper, have necessitated these increases," says that of The Halifax Chronicle and The Halifax Daily Star.

"We have protected our readers for as long as it has been possible, as the costs of newspaper production have been steadily rising for over two years, and we are now forced to put through these increases in order to continue giving you a good newspaper."

The announcement made by The Halifax Herald and The Halifax Mail, says:

"Earlier in the year manufacturers raised the price of newsprint from $42.50 to $50 per ton. This is an increase of $7.50 per ton, or, an added tax of 17 1-2 percent on the printing cost of these newspapers.

"Up to the present time The Halifax Herald and The Halifax Mail have absorbed this increase, but now find it necessary to increase their subscription rates by mail to bring them more nearly in line with the cost of producing and forwarding your daily newspaper to you."

Premier of Ontario, and Hon. W. S. Fielding of Nova Scotia, who declared his province maintained its right to secede from Confederation.

The conference adopted a resolution proposed by Sir Oliver Mowat in favor of unrestricted reciprocity and thereby settled the policy of the Liberal Party. The present, therefore was not the first time provincial premiers got together or attempted to influence federal policies.

"So don't run away with the idea that a little difference between a province and a dominion is a matter of great importance.

"Sir John A. MacDonald had to meet that onslaught led by Mr. Mercier and Mr. Mowat. He didn't talk, it is true, about conspiracies. But he had a general election and he came back to power with a majority and support from all the provinces."

Possibly the animosities of political life were too bitter and this might be one of the weaknesses which contributed to dissension between Governments. The price of liberty was restraint, and the price of freedom was obedience to law. The fact that freedom existed in Montreal, one of the largest French-speaking cities of the world was because the majority was tolerant of the rights of the minorities and the minorities respected the rights of the majority.

"We as a people cannot all have our several ways in our several provinces," concluded Mr. Bennett. "But here a little, there a little with good feeling, tolerance, harmony and the spirit our Christian faith stressed particularly at this season of the year let us march forward to a greater Canada."

Dr. Manion said Canada could not be united and prosperous unless good understanding and harmony prevailed.

"The first duty of any public man is to hold Confederation together," said Dr. Manion, "and I believe 95 per cent of the people in every province are just as determined to maintain Confederation as were the people of the northern states to hold the United States together in the last century."

Mr. Rinfret brought greetings from Prime Minister Mackenzie King and described the business outlook for 1939 as encouraging, although continued threats of a world war were retarding progress.

Mr. Carignan spoke for Premier Duplessis who was unable to attend and said sectionalism and extreme nationalism would not contribute to the advancement of Canada.

Hon. Adelard Godbout, Quebec Liberal leader, said Canada's geographic ethnic and economic position offered great possibilities but unless Canadians possessed a true national spirit the country would not fulfill its destiny.
