BALLOT BOX STUFFING IN PROGRESS IN CITY

Authorities Not Likely to Interfere as it is Being Done Legitimately by Hustling Candidates in the Guardian Campaign.

Ballot box stuffing is going on in Charlottetown at a lively rate. It is not only a daily, but an hourly occurrence, yet the authorities are doing nothing to prevent it, and, in fact, have nothing to say.

This ballot stuffing, however, is not such as to cause an investigation by election officials although before it is over there will hardly be an official of any kind in the city who will not be interested in it. The ballot box stuffing is going on in the campaign department of The Guardian and the stuffing consists of the depositing of votes by the many candidates and their friends for the valuable prizes offered by The Guardian.

Widepread interest shown by candidates and their friends give promise of a lively campaign. Every candidate in The Guardian's great prize campaign must realize that the most must be made each day if one wishes to be counted among the winners. All should exert every effort to induce their friends to assist. All should appreciate that now is the time to reap. Those who have been sitting on the fence waiting to see how the wind blows should take warning before it is too late.

COLD CHECKS SUGAR SUPPLY

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3.—Louisiana planters will not be able to deliver to the American Sugar Refining Company much more than half of the 100,000 tons of raw sugar promised at the recent conference at Washington, at which it had been hoped to speedily end the sugar shortage in the East.

It developed at a conference of planters and others here today that the recent cold wave caused a decided shortage in the Louisiana crop. Committees of growers were appointed for each sugar-producing parish of the State, with instructions to go through their districts and secure all possible tenders of raw sugar. About 25,000 tons was pledged at today's meeting, but it was announced that the provision of the contract calling for delivery of 25,000 tons by Nov. 15 could not be carried out.
