WHERE ARE YESTERDAY'S SLUGGERS?

By QUIN HALL

With the advent of heavy purses in pugilistic realms, quick finishes seem to have been folded up and put away in moth balls. As one ringsider chortled to another: "It seems the more the customers pay for duels, the less the boys in the ring want to slug."

The general impression seems to prevail that the present crop of heavyweights are a bunch of cream puff punchers or 'fraid cats who are satisfied to "take good care of themselves" and collect the gravy. In the last heavyweight start of any note, the principals refused to open and take any chances. Both Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling played a protective game at Miami Beach. They constituted a pair of exceedingly careful, cautious young men. And they collected plenty of money for their thirty minutes of cautiousness. How different it was back in the days when the fighters were really slugging for loose change. Or even chortled to another: "It seems the more the customers pay for duels, the less the boys in the ring want to slug."

The old Manassa Mauler hung up a great record for quick knockouts. The real fight fan enjoys slugging — especially when the big boys are in the ring. That's why Dempsey would be a great card even today. The late Bob Fitzsimmons built a reputation as a terrific hitter — a fighter who specialized in quick finishes. Peter Maher rocked plenty of big fellows to sleep in less than three minutes and was, himself, polished off five times in the first round. One of these occasions was when Fitz did the trick in less than a minute when the pair met on Mexican soil across from Langtry, Tex., in 1896.

In 1893 Fitz knocked out Jim Hall in the fourth round at New Orleans for a purse of $40,000, winner take all. It was the biggest money offered up to that time for a ring bout. During the fray the promoter walked out leaving about five grand behind him for the winner. Fitz accepted the shortened purse and did it with a grin. He was accustomed to being cheated. But — how he could hit! Copyright, 1929, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Urge Personal Health Diaries

(By British United Press)

PARIS, May 21—The municipal Council of Bordeaux (France) has just taken a step which might well be imitated by other cities. It is the institution of the "livre sanitaire individuel," which corresponds to the medical history sheet of soldiers during the war. In these health diaries the medical history of each individual will be noted from birth to death, dates of vaccination, or surgical operations, and of maladies which have necessitated the attention of a doctor being carefully recorded.

There is no question of making this health diary compulsory, but the citizens of Bordeaux are to be shown that its adoption is entirely in their own interest. Thousands of people are unable to tell their doctor when they were vaccinated, inoculated, or treated for various ailments, and the health diary will prove of the greatest assistance in diagnosis and treatment. There is a suggestion that the keeping of such records should be made compulsory.

REMAINS IN RACE DESPITE INJURIES

ODESSA, Texas, May 21 — Phillip Granville, Hamilton, Ont., the lone representative of Canada, in C. C. Pyle's trans-continental foot-race, picked up speed today in the fifty-first lap of the trek to the Pacific coast, finishing sixth in the run of 21.7 miles from Midland, Texas, to Odessa, Texas, in 2.45.00.

Granville, despite a broken bone in his toe and dislocated hip, jogged the entire distance and will probably remain in the race. Tomorrow at Monahan's, Texas, he will be treated by a specialist.

Rochford Square Girl Captures I. O. D. E. Award

It has been announced that the third prize in the Sarah Maxwell Memorial contest, conducted by the National Chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire has been awarded to Miss Rochford Weatherbie, a pupil of Rochford Square School. The contest took the form of an essay-writing competition, the subject being, "My Favourite Canadian Heroine." The competition was open to pupils in all the public schools of the capital cities of the province of Canada.

Sarah Maxwell was a teacher in a Montreal public school, who twenty years ago lost her life in a heroic attempt to rescue her pupils from the flames. The Daughters of the Empire have since been awarding prizes in her memory.

Miss Weatherbie is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Weatherbie of Spring Park Road. She is but twelve years of age and is a pupil of Grade 6.

The Guardian congratulates her on the honour she has brought to her school, her city and her province.

The Creation

melodies and the chorus work is magnificent.

There are many lovely solo numbers. The aria "Rolling in Foaming Billows" was splendidly taken, as were various other baritone solos, by Mr. Leigh Dingwell. Miss Clara Graham, who returned to the city from Springhill specially to fulfill the engagement, was in splendid voice. Her rendition of the familiar aria "With Verdure Clad" was much enjoyed by the audience. Mr. Roy Quigley also, among other numbers, sang splendidly the two recitatives "And God Said, Let There be Light" and "In Splendour Bright". Two lovely trios "Most Beautiful Appear" and "The Lord is Great" in which latter the chorus also took part were sung by Miss Graham, Mr. Quigley and Mr. Dingwell.

Miss Barbara McNeill's excellent rendition of the aria "On Mighty Pines" was much enjoyed, as was Mrs. Fletcher's solo, "The Marvellous Work."

Miss MacNeill and Mr. Dingwell likewise took part in several duets one of which "Graceful Consort," is one of the loveliest numbers in the oratorio. Mr. A. R. Gillis and Mr. Elmer Ritchie were also much enjoyed; the former particularly in his aria "Now Heaven in Fullness Glorify Shone," and the latter in the aria "In Native Worth."

Mr. Parker Hooper sang most effectively two recitatives, "And God Said: Let the Earth Bring Forth," and "Straight Opening." The trio "On These each living soul awaits," was sung splendidly by Mrs. W. E. Fletcher, Mr. Elmer Ritchie and Mr. Parker Hooper.

But, in this as in all oratorios, the choruses are the crowning glory. And in these the work of the Choir was beyond all praise. In "Awake the Harp" there is a difficult vocal fugue, which they took with an ease which bespoke careful training and faithful work. Of course, they did the familiar number "The Heaven are Telling" splendidly. Mrs. Roy Cudmore and Messrs. Ritchie and Hooper taking the solos. The chorus "Achieved is the Glorious Work," which is, perhaps, the finest in the oratorio, was given a splendid performance, and in the fortissimo passage of the concluding number "Sing to Lord ye Voices All" the seventy voices which composed the choir ran out with a truly thrilling effect. A word of praise, too, must be said to the fine solo work of Mrs. H.S. Henderson in this piece.

In conclusion, one can only say that it is to be hoped that the two choirs, under their capable director will go on to yet greater things. In deed, it is quite on the cards that they will together try the Bach Matthey Passion. Should they do so and bring to their task the same faithful effort which they have brought to this, one feels that the undertaking will be crowned by a equal success.
