

Wolverines Blank Nicklin Hawks 2-0

Sargeant, Halifax Goalie Sensational In Moncton Shutout.

(Canadian Press) in on top of the Halifax cage, but Sargeant got in front of everything. Something of a record was established when the teams went 28 minutes before the first penalty was called. The Hawks suffered most. They took 11 of the 15 penalties, doing 22 to eight for the locals.

Three thousand enthusiastic customers, who applauded every minute of play and there were many outstanding performances, left the rink talking about the prowess of Sargeant, whose exhibition of goal-guarding last night not only saved the Wolverines but was the finest thing a goalie has ever shown in Halifax.

Snappy play featured the match. Although there were some dull moments, the game, on the whole, was up to standard.

CONNOLLY STARS Bert Connolly, who subbed for Dud James on the Hawks' first line, was next to Sargeant, the outstanding player. His whistling drives from all angles and positions, his dashing rushes along the two wings and up centre ice and his all-round smart hockey was the talk of the town.

TWO PRETTY GOALS The Wolves caged two very pretty goals, the first in the first period when both teams were at full strength and the second when the Hawks had two men with the penalty timers. Wolverines jumped in to an early lead. Goalie Jimmie Foster had not touched the rubber at all when Vince Ferguson fought his way in close and laid a perfect pass onto Moshers' stick. The centre player fired point-blank at the Moncton cage. The time was one minute and three seconds.

Frankie Graham slapped in the second corner when the Hawks were short-handed. He worked his way up centre ice, feinted, first to right and then to left, scrambled through the defence and slid a low one past Foster. That ended the scoring. The Hawks threw everything they had at the Wolverine cage in the final 20 minutes, but the Sargeant-Lavigne-Graham rear-guard was unbeatable. Forced to shoot from well out, the Hawks could not beat the jumping, darting figure of Sargeant.

SARGENT GREAT When the Wolverines lost men on penalties in the final ten minutes Sargeant was at his very best. Several times the Hawks were right

LOOKING 'EM OVER

BY "TEC" ADOPT SOME N. H. L. RULES

The overconfident Moncton Hawks absorbed a good trimming from Halifax' Wolves last night. For instance they have an anti-defensive rule that prohibits a team from playing more than two men behind its own blue-line. A third man going into that zone for defensive purpose is liable to be penalized if he doesn't get back quickly, and if a fourth man crosses into the defensive zone he is promptly given two minutes.

ESTABROOKS GOING GOOD Stevie Estabrooks, former Abbie left winger, is going great guns with the St. John Beavers, according to mainland hockey reports. Stevie's many friends in this city will be pleased to learn that he is doing so well in the Southern League hockey wars.

MALPEQUE CHRISTMAS CONCERT On the evening of December 21st a very successful concert and Christmas tree was put on by the pupils and teachers of Fanning School in Malpeque Hall. The stage was suitably decorated for the occasion, and a tree well laden with gifts for teachers and pupils was the chief centre of attraction.

Halifax has a fast team. The Fortress town will present a forward line, sporting possibly the hardest shots for forwards in Big Three hockey. Daddy Bubar will have his work cut out to get in the way of Vince Ferguson's booming drives, not to mention those of McGlashen, Lennon, and what have you.

A Halifax sports writer of plecting "winnahs" fame states that Graham and Lavigne are the best defense in the M. H. L. We don't agree with him and think you won't either when you come to see the Abbie linesmen step around and through them.

The trouble in the past has been that the goaler Sargeant was so good that a stone wall might have been built across the net without a different result. But Coach O'Connor has got McArthur and the rest of the boys shooting where the goaler isn't, so the Sargeant "Star" may not shine so brightly Friday night.

Last time Halifax played here the season's best hockey was dished up. Many "wise birds" remained home to miss a treat. Wise men make mistakes but wise men do not make the same error twice. Fans, let's see the Abbies attempt to humble the Wolves on Friday night, as Canada's premier amateur circuit once again swings into action.

A Moncton exchange says: With the opening of the second section of the Maritime Hockey League, referees should receive instructions as to enforcing penalties. The C. A. H. A. suggests that three minutes should be given for deliberate tripping of an opponent. Two minutes is too light when a player is tripped to save an opponent's sure goal. Such a sentence is simply an inducement for players to trip when but two minutes is handed out no matter how often he offends. In Friday's game, Gill was off the ice no less than six times for cross checking, knee checks, tripping, charging, using the elbow, and in each instance, despite the increase in the number of offences, was handed only a couple of minutes up to the very end. Such playing is detrimental to a team, but if penalties were made more severe, it would make the offender more careful.

RIGHT, SO FAR Jimmie Smith, Halifax sports writer, had this to say previous to the Halifax-Moncton game: "Moncton Hawks and the Halifax Wolverines open the second round of the Maritime Hockey League at the Forum tonight and in the writer's way of thinking the Valmen will come out on top. Still I don't pick the Wolves to finish the week at the top of the heap. I hand the palm to the Charlottetown Abbies who have only one game to play. You've guessed it. I think the Hawks will humble the locals at Moncton and the Abbies will duplicate the feat on Island ice. After the first week, however, anything can happen with a great finish for the sectional championship—unless my deductions are all astray."

RAGGING THE PUCK Officials of the Canadiens' team while at Moncton explained, when asked their interpretation of the ragging the puck rule, that in Montreal a player is not ragging the puck by skating around the middle zone. He may do that all night if the opposing team stands idly back and does not attempt to get possession of it. He may even return to his defense zone once, but only once. Should he retreat over the blue-line the second time he is "blown" and the face-off is called at the blue-line.

renounced our claim, amounting to more than one hundred and fifty million dollars. Any adjustment of reparations and war debts which may be made means loss and in no sense gain to the Canadian treasury, but we are none the less vitally interested in such an adjustment being made between debtor and creditor nations as will help to restore normal international credit conditions in the world.

"In the wider aspects of the world economic conference, we will contribute our best to the solution of these problems that concern us in common with the nations of the world. Meanwhile, we enjoy a favored position.

"One year ago I called attention to the proposed Imperial Economic Conference which has since been held in Ottawa. Those of us who were privileged to represent this country on that great occasion were conscious of a spirit of Empire co-operation and good-will. We succeeded at that conference in developing a plan of reciprocal preferential tariffs which makes available to each of its many parts the combined resources of the Empire as a whole. We were conscious that certain problems could only be solved by a world conference. We were aware from the beginning of our own limitations, but the opportunities available to us of the Empire, representing one-quarter of the human family, were not lost.

"For Canadian products of the farm, forest, sea and mine, we have provided wider markets, and we have secured the interest of the consumer by making available to him as a purchaser the products of the whole Empire.

"The benefits of wider Empire markets will not be fully realized until exchanges are stabilized and credit conditions permit of a greater measure of purchasing power throughout the world. It is fortunate that our plans for greater Empire trade were made in advance of world recovery.

"What we have accomplished at the Ottawa Conference in 1932 will enable Canada to take the fullest advantage of improved world conditions. We have maintained a sound money position in Canada. We have paid all our maturing obligations abroad. This country, it cannot be too often emphasized, has all to lose and nothing to gain by renunciation of debts, however burdensome their payment may be.

"Public men today face a difficult task. Of that we do not complain. With what measure of devotion to duty as serve you, will be for the future to determine.

"It has fallen to us, in the federal provincial and municipal fields, to provide assistance for those who, through world conditions, are unemployed. We must frankly consider the consequences of continued non-productive spending in unemployment relief. We shall have to reconsider our methods in financing unemployment. The financing we have to do for unemployment measuring during the depression will be a charge on the productive resources of tomorrow. Our ears are deafened and confused by the advocates of monetary nostrums. But there are also a few old-time fashioned prejudices. One of the latter is the notion that money or wealth can be separated from enterprise and cloistered in safe-keeping away from the call of industrial needs.

All Will Melt "If industry falls in this country, your wealth, savings, insurance and investments will melt like snow before your eyes. It is not unnatural that those possessing wealth should have to put it aside while a precipitate decline in prices was having now been definitely arrested and an upward trend being in evidence, it behooves all those who have available capital to turn it as far as possible to productive use.

"Recovery from the universal depression will not be sudden, but it is believed by competent observers that Canada is in the best position of any country in the world to take advantage of a return to enduring prosperity.

The death yesterday of Sergeant Thomas Taylor, former member of the city police force, brings deep regret to the citizens of Charlottetown. Born at Tryon 88 years ago, Sergeant Taylor was for 37 years a police officer who commanded the respect and had the confidence of all with whom he came in contact. Ten years ago Sergeant Taylor retired from public service with an excellent record.

Fredericton Trims Sussex 7-1

FREDERICTON, N. B., Jan. 2—By a score of 7-1, Fredericton Capitals here last night royally revenge their 2-1 beating at the hands of Sussex Dairy Kings in Sussex. It was a fast but ragged fixture of the Southern New Brunswick Hockey League, the visiting sticksters vainly attempting to make an impression on the smoothly working capital sextet.

Fredericton scored one goal in the first period, two in the second and four in the third, while LeClair unassisted, pushed in Dairy King's lone tally in the second. Charlie Wade handed out 14 minor penalties, four of which went to Lutz, Sussex defenceman. Five were in the first canto and eight in the second. There were seven offences in each side. Taylor receiving the only three-minute sentence.

CHRISTMAS CLOSING AT EAST POINT On the night of December 21st, the annual Christmas closing took place at East Point School. A very large number of rate-payers were present and these were supplemented by visitors from the adjoining districts, the school-building being crowded to the doors.

The class-room was very tastefully decorated for the occasion, Christmas holly and evergreens vieing with the well-laden and beautifully lighted Christmas tree in imparting a real hot day effect. The examination proved the remarkable success which attended the teacher's efforts and both Miss MacDonald and her pupils may well take pride on the showing made. A very interesting and varied program followed, consisting of dialogues, songs and recitations, an interesting feature of which was a song by Master D. A. Gillis, whose voice shows great promise for the future. Santa Clause made his appearance at the appropriate time, being impersonated by Mr. Joseph Holland and Santa well sustained his jovial reputation in the hands of
