Mr. & Mrs. B.J. Simmons Of Wilmot Valley Celebrate 25th Wedding Anniversary

On Friday evening, Sept. 28th, a large number of neighbors and friends gathered at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks J. Simmons of Wilmot Valley in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary.

Following is the address: To Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Simmons, Wilmot.

Dear Friends, — Your neighbors deem it their very agreeable duty to express to you and your family in a tangible manner, the esteem in which you are held.

Mr. Henry L. Crozier acted as chairman and called upon Mr. J. Clark McQuarrie to read an address which was suitably replied to by Mr. Simmons.

Later Mrs. Maxwell Robertson, sister of the bride, made the presentation of a beautifully decorated wedding cake, the gift of Mrs. Simmons' friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Simmons were overwhelmed with the kindness showered upon them, but very graciously thanked one and all for the gifts and expressed the hope that they would all live to enjoy another twenty-five years of comradeship together.

We, as your friends, glory in your success. You have done your part and taken your place as a man among men. Your interesting young family in the near future will become men and women.

However, these would be only momentarily, as they are now merely a recollection of the forgotten past and only to be recalled on occasions of this nature when our minds and thoughts revert to the scenes and events of by-gone days.

May your course be full of joy to others, and when your own star shall set, let it be close to that of a morning star, which goeth not down behind the darkened West, but melts away into the brightness of Heaven.

Good Market For Canadian Poultry

(By The Canadian Press) — SAINT JOHN, N. B., Oct. 4. — With Great Britain offering an excellent market for poultry, no part of Canada is more favorably situated for this export trade than the Maritime Provinces, according to a letter received by the Saint John Board of Trade from W. A. Brown, chief of the service of live stock branch, department of agriculture, Ottawa.

"The problem at the moment, as we see it, is to secure dressed poultry in sufficient volume to make the proposition commercially feasible," Mr. Brown wrote.

During the first six months of this year there was a satisfactory movement of Canadian poultry to Great Britain, "with all available exportable surplus of the quality and weights desired" being sent at "reasonably satisfactory prices" he remarked.

One disadvantage to Canadian poultrymen was that Britons prefer a small chicken, weighing less than four pounds. Higher prices for the larger birds, however, partly compensated for the smaller market. With other parts of the empire endeavoring to supply the light weight market, Mr. Brown said, it had been suggested that Canadians would find it profitable to continue shipping the heavier type of chicken.

NO TRACE OF WOMAN'S SLAYER

OAKLAND, Calif., Oct. 5 (AP) — — James of Louis Shaver, sought for the slaying of his wife, Lillian, here Sept. 12, has been found, Oakland police said today.

Mrs. Shaver, a native of Saint John, N.B., was found dead, her body hacked and beaten, in a cubby hole under the stairs at the Shaver home by a newspaper photographer who was seeking a picture of the youngest of the couple's three children.

Shaver had left the child, Louis, Jr., four, in a park the day before with a note giving his name and address pinned to his clothes. Police took the child home but made no investigation. The child told the officers next day, after the slaying was discovered, that Shaver stabbed his wife with a butcher knife and beat her with a chair.

Little Louis and the other children, Frances, 11, and Richard, six, were alone in the house with the body when it was discovered.

RAINBOW SKIPPER IN LONDON

Refuses to Discuss Recent Race Series For the America's Cup.

(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) LONDON, Oct. 4.—Still dodging any controversy relative to the recent yachting unpleasantness, Harold G. Vanderbilt slipped unheralded into London today for a three weeks vacation.

Accompanied by Mrs. Vanderbilt, the skipper of the Rainbow, which defeated the British yacht Endeavour for the America's Cup, arrived at Southampton and was given a special pullman car to London in order to avoid detection.

Found later by the Associated Press, Vanderbilt smiled broadly when asked if he had any feelings regarding the cup series.

"There are no bad feelings so far as I am concerned," he replied. "I don't know how others feel. In any event, I have no intention of making derogatory remarks in a foreign country about any of its citizens."

Deliberately ignoring a reminder that T. O. M. Sopwith, owner and skipper of the Endeavour, had made some rather pointed remarks on sailing from the United States, Vanderbilt preferred instead to laud the British boat.

"The Endeavour is undoubtedly the finest British challenger that ever crossed the Atlantic and the fastest boat we have ever had to compete against," he said.

Only once did Vanderbilt show a trace of annoyance. That was when he declared: "My boat certainly complied with the rules and regulations governing the cup contest. The rules are not my affair. But I am prepared to discuss the question of their modification. They've been altered comparatively recently."

Leave of absence from the Ottawa Fire Department, it was indicated.

Manager Tommy Gorman stated Maroons would carry but 14 men this season and as a result one goal-keeper, two defencemen, a forward line with one extra winger will be farmed out. Five minor league teams have asked Maroons for players on loan. They are Quebec, Windsor, Providence, London and St. Louis.

Dave Kerr and Connell will fight at training camp for the latter goal tending berth. Of six defencemen, Lionel Conacher, Wentworth, Evans, Shields, Starr and MacKenzie, two will go. The first and second forward lines will be kept intact. Gorman said. They are Hookey Smith, Jimmy Ward and Lawrence Northcott as one unit, and Blincoe, Dave Trotter and Robinson on the other.

Seven forwards will compete for positions on the third line: Paul Haynes, Sammy McMapus, Aubrey Webster, Dutch Gainer, Gus Marker, Herb Cain and Toe Blake.

W. C. T. U. Notes

THANKSGIVING

A national thanksgiving is not only a matter of duty, but it is also a rational recognition of God's gracious Fatherly care for the human family.

However, it is not possible to render thanks for a year full of innumerable and constant benefits to the complexity of the human organism, in one yearly short thanksgiving service. Rather should this act of gratitude be cultivated by a daily recognition of the Divine solicitude. One W.C.T.U. member suggests a daily repetition of the angelic praise song: "Glory to God in the Highest, and on earth peace and good will towards men."

Many turn to earnest supplication when every other aid in trouble fails. But when the answer comes thankfulness is forgotten.

When a meeting was called in Regina, Sask., to consider a day of prayer for the relief of the threatened locusts of "hoppers" last April, John Kerr reminded the gathering of a day held throughout Minnesota, April, 1877, to pray for the riddance of locusts. The day following the sun came out clear and hot, and the young locusts crawled to the surface, attracted by the warmth. On top of this came a cold spell freezing the moist earth and with it the larvae of the locusts.

The question is: was a day of thanksgiving held in acknowledgement of this deliverance? One of humanity's common failures is a forgetfulness of an acknowledgment of answered prayer.

"Borrowing trouble" is a much cultivated habit. Today's anxieties are frequently forgotten when the morrow arrives, only to be repeated thought to the cares of tomorrow. "If it should happen," is constantly on the lip and in the heart of numbers who profess to be followers of the Christ who taught the roadside disciples of Nazareth and Galilee to give no worrying thought to the cares of tomorrow.

It is also an all too common experience to dwell on the side of life where physical circumstances and mental conditions do not measure up to the entertained hopes of worldly well being and success in life's career; forswearing of the good things with which life is packed. The Apostle James, warning the dispersed Jews, penned the following: "Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your lusts."

Man is an endowed mentally and placed in dominion over lower creatures, and as a commander of a multiplicity of natural forces urging him on to investigate and scientifically develop a treasure house surpassing even present-day imaginings.

"Give unto the Lord, ye kindreds of the people, give unto the Lord glory and strength. "Give unto the Lord the glory due unto His name: bring an offering, and come before him: worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness."

A GENERAL PROTEST AGAINST THE GAMBLING SPIRIT

The rage of the gambling spirit in every form has become so common as to provoke a protest.

Before the Ottawa House vetoed the sweepstakes bill, much was appearing in press, platform and pulp in warning against the morally unhealthy influence of this all too popular habit.

Mr. Young states that the outcome was "the most sweeping prohibition of lotteries that has ever become law in England." To quote in part: "It is provided that every person who prints, sells, distributes, offers, advertises or has in his possession for sale or distribution any lottery ticket; or who prints, publishes or distributes any advertisement of a lottery, or any matter or descriptive of a drawing or intended drawing, or any list of prize winners. Offenders will render themselves liable to heavy penalties."

This bill also makes it unlawful for a newspaper or trading firm to conduct any competition in which prizes are offered for forecasting the results of events or any other competition, success in which does not depend to a substantial degree upon the exercise of skill.

It will be recalled by many who keep an anxious eye on this "get-rich-quick business" that last spring a Nova Scotia man won $123,000 by this popular mode of taking a chance. It should also be remembered that the Commissioner of Income Tax disposed of the transaction by stating: "A winning bet is not income within the meaning of the act. Money bet and lost is not allowed as a deduction from income and money so won is not regarded as income."

At the same time it was press-commented: "Had the $123,000 been subject to tax, it would have reduced the 1933 federal deficit by about $36,000."

Gambling is begotten by the hope of making financial gain through chance, and what does a gambler give to the social betterment of humanity, or to his country, when he is not even taxed on this chance money, and in many cases large sums?

Gambling is a grabbing scheme of enrichment and does not belong to the winner by the great standard of righteousness. But there is a conscience in Christian countries stirring against it.

Recently the Saskatchewan Government was not prepared to legalize hospital sweepstakes, although the Union of Urban Municipalities had previously voted unanimously in favor.

Another remarkable occurrence was the fact that in 1933 there was a drop of $5,577,940 on Canadian race tracks.

However, there needs to be a cultivation of public sentiment to render it sensitive to many forms of gambling.

An Ontario City Mothers' Club recently sought the privilege of distributing raffle tickets among public school scholars to sell for an object commendable in itself, but the Board of Education furnished explanations of the regulations covering this matter that made the granting of the request impossible.

Declares Shark Splendid Eating

GLACE BAY, N. S., Oct. 4.—WHY you have a portion of broiled bluefish for dinner? It tastes a little like lamb, is firm and delicious and has been considered a sweet morsel in the southern countries for years, but very few Canadians have eaten it.

We on the Atlantic shore have such a wonderful choice of seafoods, from smelt to sword, and from peri-winkle to lobster, that we never bother with skate, or codfish or squid or shark. These are all good foods and are eaten in the southern European countries.

The blue sharks are on the Maritime shores in great numbers this year and are bothering the trawls and nets. Many are killed and thrown back into the sea; and some are brought ashore as a curiosity; and some of the old timers say that it is splendid eating, and should be put on the market.

Swordfish was unknown in the western hemisphere, as a food, until the start of this century and even today there is no market in Ontario or the west for swordfish. Montreal takes a few. New York takes a few. Boston gobbles up about 300,000 pounds a week from the first of August to the end of October every year, and the swordfish, which, like the shark, was a nuisance to the cod and herring fishermen is now as big an industry as either.

Over 1200 boats were in the Glace Bay had a fleet of from 100 to 200 using the harbor as headquarters and South Bay Ingonish, Dingwall, Lousburg and Port. Mercey were also shipping centres for swordfish. A fleet of motor-driven freight boats carried some of these fish to Boston, and the express company handled several carloads a day to Saint John and shipped from there by boat to Boston.

If some of the hotel chefs would experiment on broiled cooking and give the shark a little favorable publicity as a food there is little doubt that the folks would eat it.
