Old Dutch Says

"For your family's protection the bathroom should always be healthfully clean." This is accomplished by cleaning the tub and washbowl after each using, because Old Dutch not only removes the visible dirt, but the often-dangerous impurities, as well.

For greater economy Old Dutch is unequalled. No cleaning preparation does so much as Old Dutch and none can do it so well.

The Surest Way for a Man to Lose His Wife is to Deny Her a Home of Her Own—Why Some Wives Lose Their Husbands—May a Promise be Broken?

Dear Miss Dix—When Bud and I were married two years ago we went to live with his family because we did not have enough money to set up for ourselves. But now Bud has a steady job and we have saved up some money, and I am determined to go to housekeeping, but Bud doesn't want to do it. His mother is the finest and most likable woman I know. If she hadn't been we would have been actually fighting long ago, but you know two women can't live together all of the time and get along well, and now his sister, who is a school teacher, is coming home to live, and I think it is time for us to get out, don't you? NORMA.

Answer: It certainly is, Norma. If, as has been said, no house has ever been built big enough to house two women in peace, be sure that three women would scrap like the Kilkenny cats if they lived together in an apartment with 2000 rooms.

So follow your hunch and go while the going is good, while you are still on amiable terms with your mother-in-law and you and your sister-in-law have had no words between you. Thus shall you always maintain a pleasant relationship with your husband's family. The reason most in-laws get on each other's nerves is because they see each other too often. It takes distance to give them a perspective on each other's virtues.

I am strong, as I have said a thousand times before, for every young married couple setting up their own home, no matter if it is just in one room and all the furniture is bought on the installment plan. I think that it binds them together as nothing else does, that it enormously increases their chances of making a success out of marriage, that it gives them a purpose in life and makes them a better man and woman and better citizens, and that it is the one greatest single factor in their happiness.

There are endless reasons why it is best that every young husband and wife should build their own nest. One is that if they are alone during the period of adjustment they are much more apt to hit it off together, and compromise differences, then they are if there is an outsider around. Of course they are going to have their little quarrels because no two persons of different sexes, with different characteristics and reared in a different environment, are going to have the same tastes, habits and points of view on the same thing. But when they spat, if nobody is around they will kiss and make it up and no harm will be done.

But far different is the situation if the family is standing around on the sideline cheering on the combatants and telling Mary not to be bossed, and urging John to assert himself as the head of the house. Many a tiff that would have ended in a burst of tears on Mary's part and John calling himself a brute grows into an estrangement that ends in divorce—simply because Mary and John quarreled in public and their pride forbade a public apology.

Then a husband and wife who live alone are thrown on each other for society and amusement and grow much closer together than those who live among other people and are always in a group. All the little intimacy, talking of everything over is done away with when there are other people around.

Then the home develops the wife as nothing else does. Unless a girl keeps on with her job after she is married she has nothing to do unless she has a home, and Satan finds work for idle feminine hands to do even quicker than he does for men. It is the young wives who are living with their parents, or their husband's parents, who get peevish and fretful and discontented because they have nothing with which to occupy their minds, and nothing to think about except how many things they would like to buy, and how many thrills they could get out of a flirtation with some other man.

It is the homeless, idle young wives who spend their days prying things in department stores and going to the movies, and who pick up strange men and go jorjiding with them. A man who doesn't provide his wife with a home of her own that will keep her busy keeping it, adorning it, planning for it has taken the surest way of wrecking his marriage.

And a home is a good financial investment because it makes a young couple save money to pay for their furniture, and that leads them to saving money to pay for the home itself. It is a common saying, and a true one, that if you never go to housekeeping you never have anything, because the temptation to spend on foolishness is greater than most people can resist. They have to have a definite object for which to save.

And furthermore, there is no greater fun than there is in establishing a home. The man who misses that has missed the thrill that you get but once in a lifetime. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Is it foolish to be jealous of one's own children? My wife and I have been married more than ten years and have quite a large family. She has always been undemonstrative toward me, but she always finds time to love and pet the children, but she never shows me any tenderness. I love her whether she loves me or not, but it hurts and worries me wondering whether she cares for me. K.

Answer: The French have a saying that some women are all wife, while others are all mother. Evidently your wife belongs to this latter class, and there are very many like her.

There is a large class of women who never seem to think of their husbands as men, but only as their children's father. They never realize that their husbands crave love or tenderness or any attention, or even companionship. They are themselves so absorbed in their children that they think their husbands are satisfied to see all of their kisses given to the baby, all of their interest focused on little Johnny, all of their time devoted to the nursery.

They think that their husbands will not be disillusioned by seeing them go about in sloppy clothes because they don't take time to dress up and fix their hair on account of the babies. They think their husbands won't mind staying at home, or going out alone, because they don't like to leave the children just with a servant.

These women have not ceased to really love their husbands, but the maternal passion is so great it overwhelms everything else in the world, and they forget that they have any duty or obligation to the men they have married, or that their husbands may have just as great need of their petting as their babies.

And that is where women make their most fatal mistake. Most couples are devoted to each other until the arrival of the first baby. Then, in innumerable cases, comes the first breach between them.

Up to then the husband has been the chief concern to the wife. She has devoted herself to him and to trying to please him. She has been tender,

WHO ARE YOU? A Baldwin?
The Romance of Your Name
By RUBY HASKINS ELLIS

Baldwin is a name of early Norman-French origin and the meaning is "bold in battle". The earliest bearer of the name was Baldwin I, Count of Flanders. He was the chief forester of Havelbeck, in Flanders, and was created Count by his father-in-law, to whose daughter, Judith, he was third husband. Richard Baldwin, of Dunbridge, England, in 1552 married Ellen Apoc. His great-grandson, Nathaniel Baldwin, immigrated to America in 1639 and married Joanna Westcott, a widow. Their son, Samuel, born in Fairfield, Conn., married Abigail, daughter of John, Sr. and Mary Bruen Baldwin. It is through Mary Bruen's line that many American descendants trace their ancestry to 1200 connecting with many royal lines in Europe. A number of Baldwins are Barons of Nunnymeade. Samuel Baldwin was deacon of Guilford, Goshen and Litchfield, Conn., and also served as treasurer and representative of the Colony.

Other early settlers were John Baldwin, who came over from England about 1640 and settled in Woburn, Mass., and Richard Baldwin, who came in 1675 in the "Maitin" and settled in Milford, Conn. Among the Southern Baldwins of the present day is James Mark Baldwin, an eminent psychologist, of South Carolina.

Don't live to regret HALF-CLEAN TEETH!

More surface brushing isn't sufficient protection—it takes Colgate's penetrating foam to wash away particles from tiny crevices where decay starts.

ECONOMICAL!
The 25c tube of Colgate's contains more toothpaste than any other leading brand at that price.

Here is why Colgate cleans better

The real test of a toothpaste, say dentists, is "How well does it clean?"

For no dentifrice can do anything but clean. Claims to "cure" pyorrhea; acid mouth; soft gums are all false and misleading, according to high dental authorities.

Colgate's cleans best—because of the remarkable action of its unique penetrating foam which sweeps down into the tiny crevices of teeth and gums where food particles collect and where ordinary pasty dentifrices can't reach.

Don't risk half-clean teeth by leaving these crevices uncleaned. Use Colgate's which not only polishes the outer surfaces of teeth, but gets down into the hard-to-clean places, cleansing and purifying—giving your teeth an extra protection exactly where it is most needed.

Etiquette
By Roberta Lee

Q. "Thank you ever so much," or, "much obliged," when thanking someone for a favor?
A. No; the correct phrase is "thank you."
Q. Is it correct for one to refuse an invitation to a dinner when it has been received a day or two before the day set?
A. Yes; because the invitations should be issued at least ten days ahead of the date set.
Q. When drinking tea or coffee, where should the spoon be placed?
A. It should be placed in the saucer; never leave it in the cup.

A Morning Smile
AN ANECDOTE

Mrs. Selby: "Good morning, Mrs. Wilks! Going to London to do a little shopping?"
Mrs. Wilks, whose husband had suddenly become rich: "No, I've just returned. I bought a nice Rubens this morning, and I declare, when I called at my husband's office, he told me he had bought a Rembrandt by the same artist yesterday afternoon!"

Children's Croupy Colds Quickly Relieved

Take a saucepan or pitcher of water; place it on a spirit stove or lamp. Add half a teaspoonful of Catarrhose to a pint of water which is brought to a boil. Let the steam from the kettle fill the room so that medicated air is breathed in by the child. The distressing cough is relieved. The inflammation is reduced. Good results are quickly noticeable from using Catarrhose in this manner. Even for small infants this treatment is ideal. Every good drug store sells Catarrhose in 50c bottles.

IMPROVE YOUR HEALTH

MRS. G. W. POSLIFF
263 Huron St., Stratford, Ontario
"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a good medicine. Anyone who is in poor health should not hesitate to try it. When I was taking the Compound I tried the sample Liver Pills I found in the package. I have taken them every night since and I can feel myself improving. I am thankful for the good they do me that I have told several women about it."—Mrs. G. W. Posliff.

"Years ago when I had a sick father and a nursing baby to care for, I got all run down and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to get strength to do my work. Another time at Change of Life, I had severe headaches and felt tired all the time. I took seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound and felt like a new woman. I recommend it to any woman who is at this age."—Mrs. T. E. Sleeman.

For The Cook

DOUGHNUTS IN RHYME
One cup of sugar, 1 cup of milk;
Two eggs, beaten fine as silk;
Salt and nutmeg (lemon will do);
Of baking powder teaspoons two;
Slightly stir the flour in;
Roll on pie-board not too thin;
Cut in diamonds, twists or rings,
Drop with care the doughy things
Into the fat that swiftly swells
Evenly the spongy cells;
Watch with care the time for turning,
Fry them brown, just short of burning;
Roll in sugar, serve when cool,
This is the never failing rule.

Household Hints

New Shoes
To relieve the pinch of new shoes, wring a cloth from hot water and lay it across the tight spot while the shoe is on the foot, changing as it cools. This will make the leather shape to the foot.

Radishes
If radishes are planted among melons they will claim the attention of affectionate, fathering, but with the arrival of the baby husband's nose is put permanently out of joint. All the kisses, all the attentions are baby's, mother dresses for baby. Mother spends her evenings watching baby sleep and is actually relieved when husband goes out of an evening so she can perform her acts of child worship undisturbed. And only too often husband finds another lady who is willing to play around with him and pet him, and who holds his hand while mother is holding the baby's hand.

Mr. John E. Greenslade Tells How Cuticura Healed Scalp Trouble.

"First my hair became dry and brittle and then my scalp became covered with scales. I also had pimples on my scalp which were very itchy and caused me to scratch. My hair was falling out fast. The irritation caused loss of sleep.
"I tried several other remedies without success. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and got some relief after the first application. I kept on using them for three weeks and the scales, pimples and irritation completely disappeared. I was healed." (Signed) John E. Greenslade, Carlton, Saskatchewan.
