TRIAL OF MURDERER.

NEW YORK, May 15—All the fortitude with which Patrick Quinn had steeled himself to undergo the ordeal of being tried for murder fled when his youngest son, Hugh, twelve years old, was called to the witness stand to testify against him in the Court of General Sessions. Rising, the man screamed out, apparently regardless of consequence:—

"My God! My God! don't do that Isn't this misery enough as it is."

The case produced a profound impression on court, jurors and auditors. The intense silence was broken in a minute or two by the loud sobbing of Quinn, who had dropped into his chair with his head buried in his arms on the table. Assistant District Attorney Moss said, in a modulated voice:—

All right. I won't call him."

It was the second day of the trial On the first day Mrs. Quinn had testified that after her husband had beaten her on a day in November last, she had felt compelled to go to the police and have him locked up When he was released, which was on the night of January 13 last, he met her in Ninth avenue, followed her to her home where he drew a revolver She screamed and her children rushed to her aid. As the father fired his son, William, twenty-one years old, leaned forward as if to wrest the revolver from his father's hand. The bullet struck him in the abdomen and he died the next day. Quian also wounded his wife with additional shots.

To all this testimony Quinn listened with some degree of composure. Then his son, Charles, eighteen years old, testified yesterday morning. But when Hugh was vcalled it seemed to much for the accused father. He seemed unable to listen to further evidence against him. Some of the jurors were also affected, and Judge Malone therefore ordered a recess.

When court reconvened for the afternoon session Mr, Martin, of counsel for the defence, said his client wished to withdraw his plea of not guilty of murder in the first degree and substitute for it guilty of murder in the second degree. He said he did this because he felt it to be his duty.

"The prisoner is the victim of drink," he said, "and to-day stands before you at the bar of justice an object lesson to every one who indulges in liquor."

Judge Malone accepted the plea. He immediately sentenced Quinn to Sing Sing for not less than twenty years. Mrs. Quinn fainted and had to be carried from the room.

HOPE IN LAWSUIT.

LONDON, May 15—Anthony Hope, the novelist, and Lean Ashwell, the famous actress, figure prominently in an amusing law suit in the London courts today wherein curious incidents at the masquerade ball of the Three Arts Club last December are described. The suit is for slander, the plaintiff being G. S. Elliott, a caterer, and Mayor of Islington, who sued Dr. Simpson, husband of Lena Ashwell.

Elliott, who was supplying the refreshments for the ball, objected to guests smuggling their own champagne, etc., into the boxes, which violated his contract. He found twenty-eight bottles in the box Dr. Simpson and his wife occupied. Laton on Dr. Simpson accused Elliott of stealing from the box and called a police inspector, who refused to take Elliott into custody. Anthony Hope was stopped by Elliott as he was taking a hamper into the ball and an altercation ensued between the author and the Mayor. Mr. Hope, on the witness stand, said he took the hamper containing food and beer to the ball. Inside the hall he met Elliott, who asked him what there was in the hamper. Hope answered that there was some provisions. Elliott told him they couldn't come in. A discussion ensued during which Elliott remarked:—

"I have just done the same thing to Lean Ashwell."

BEES ON JOY RIDE.

CONCORD, May 15—Just because they did not like the idea of taking a joy ride to Worcester, a hive of bees raised ructions with Ira G. Farnsworth of the Overland Express and his horses. The bees belonged to Herbert Smith, and there were five hives. One of them had been overturned and the exit was left open. They were placed in the covered wagon. Near Canaffee Village the bees attacked Farnsworth and he was badly stung.

NO FOOD FOR 31 DAYS.

BOSTON, May 15—Agostine Levanzin has been starved for thirty-one days at the netrition laboratory of the Carnegie Foundation in Roxbury. Whether the starving, which was started as a voluntary fast, is going on with the consent of the victim, or whether in his ewakened condition he craves for food, cannot be confirmed or denied by application at the laboratory on Vila street, Roxbury. No human being is now allowed to see him.

Director Francis Gano Benedict, today laid hands upon the first person who tried to find out whether the victim is dead or alive.

"Get out," he shouted to the reporter. "The press cannot get any information as to what goes on within these walls. It is nobody's business but our own.

"I refuse to recognize the right of anybody to make inquiries here. I will tell nothing about our experiment upon Levanzin. You get out of here."

When the reporter had made certain that that man was actually the director of the laboratory, and not the janitor, he left the laboratory, and continued his inquiries in the vicinity.

Mr. Levanzin has not been allowed to communicate to the outside world since he entered the laboratory, and no knowledge of his condition has been allowed to get out. The whisperings of employes, however, make it appear that Levanzin is in a critical condition and may even dies as a result of the experiments.

The experiments which have been made upon this man include respiration, blood pressure, loss of weight, dynamomentric measurements, and clinical observations.

ALIENISTS' REPORT ON C.V. T. RICHESON

con without the Richeson case being even informally discussed. After adjournment some of the councillors asked the governor what the standing of the case was. Governor Foss answered that the case was exactly the same as it was when he appointed the commission of alienists and that until their report is received he would not know what his course of action would be, Richeson's fate, the governor explained, is in the hands of four medical judges upon whose report will depend whether the case will be referred to the council for action.

Of four alienists who have examined the prisoner only one, Dr. Briggs, has sent his finding to Governor Foss. His report has not been made public.

The govergor has received no intimation of any kind from any of the three brain experts as to their conclusions.

Richeson's first day in the death cell was spent calmly. After a hearty breakfast the prisoner read his Bible for some time, and then received a call from eRev. Herbert S. Johnson,, a Baptist minister, who has been requested by the prisoner to serve as his spititual adviser.

William A. Morse, the prisoner's lawyer, also called, and after leaving the prison Mr. Morse said that Richeson appeared better than he did immediately after his removal to the death cell last night, and was in a calmer mental state.

BOSTON, May 15—It was Richeson's removal from the Charles Strret Jail to the State Prison that first gave notice his fight for life had been lost. For it has been understood that Sheriff John Quinn would await the word from Governor Foss that there would be no reprieve before he subjected the prisoner to the agony of suspense and waiting in the death cell. When the sheriff, waiting in the rotunda of the jail, to which the prisoner had been summoned, said, gravely:

"Clarence Richeson, it is my duty to remove you to the State Prison at Charlestown."

Then Richeson knew that little hope remained.

He staggered at the words, as though under the weight of a heavy physical blow, then rallied, and through the swift minutes that followed, during the short ride, and until he was within the death cell itself, the pallor of his face gave the only hint of his terror.

But when the last door clanged behind him and he was alone with the men who will be his constant companions till the final moment, the weight of his doom seemed to settle down on the man. One of the guards said afterward, scornfully: "Not since Schidlofski have I seen so 'yellow' a prisoner."

STRIKE IN DARTMOUTH.

HALIFAX, May 15—The town of Darthouth operates a municipal ferry on Halifax Harbor, between this city and Dartmouth. The ferry has a strike on its hands, but this time it is the officers and not the men who are striking.

Four crews are employed in the service, and this afternoon all the officers left the boats. The superintendent of the commission, which operates the service, Captain Hunter, holds a master's certificate and he took charge of one of the steamers, keeping up a one-boat service this afternoon and tonight. The boat is being run without a certificated mate.

There are no signs of a settlement tonight, and what will happen tomorrow cannot be surmised tonight.

The trouble arose over the suspension of Captain Arnold, who commands one of the boats, on a charge that he allowed a passenger to go aboard without a ticket. He does not deny this, but that the money was paid on board and turned into the town. The passenger in question was intoxicated and got into an altercation on board.

PRESBYTERIANS MEET.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 15—Delegates to a total of nearly 900, including all of the high officers and manyof the leading ministers of the denomination, have arrived in Louisville to attend the 124th general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, which will open tomorrow in the Warren Memorial Church. The feature of the initial session will be the moderator, Rev. John F. Carson of Brroklyn.

Tomorrow afternoon the general assembly will select a new moderator, The two whose names appear to be most prominently mentioned in connection with the honor are Rev. Mark A. Matthews of Seattle and Rev. William L. McEwan of Pittsburgh. Rev. Matthews is pastor of a church with a membership of more than 3,000, one of the largest in the West. Rev. Dr. McEwan has been pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh for nearly 20 years. Another name to be presented is that of Rev. James G. K. McClure, president of McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago. Others who are looked upon as receptive candidates are Rev. Edgar P. Hill of Chicago, and Rev. Frank W. Sneed of Pittsburgh.

Several very important matters will come before the assembly this year for consideration and action. The committee appointed to confer with the directors and faculty of Union Theogdical Seminary, New York, regarding a possible plan of reunion, will make a report that will be eagerly heard. The Seminary has been separated from the jurisdiction of the assembly ever since 1892, the time of the Briggs heresy trial which was the direct cause of the rupture.

A HARMEESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur Makes Gray Hair Vanish—A Remedy for all Hair Trouble

Who does not know the value of Sage and Sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, Sulphur is a natural element of hair and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than Sage and Sulphur, if properly prepared.

The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put out an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, in which Sage and Sulphur are combined with other valuable remedies, for keeping the hair and scalp in clean, healthy condition.

If your hair is losing its color or constantly coming out, or if you are troubled with dandruff or dry, itchy scalp, get a fifty cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, use it according to simple directions, and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in the appearance of your hair.

All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. Special Agent, H. A. Foster, Sunnyside.
