Don't Shut the Door in the Face of Business

Why do you slam the door in the face of a customer—the door on your desk or wall—we mean the phone? Are you on a party line?

Would you like to know how many times the operators have to report "line busy" in a day or week—would it interest you to know how many dollars passed your door to your competitor through this false economy?

Put yourself in your customer's place—look at your business from the outside. If at the last moment you telephoned for some article or information in a hurry, on different occasions, and in reply received "Line Busy".

Would you or could you do otherwise than to phone to where you get the best service—not if you are a thrifty business man or an industrious woman.

On request we can tell you the number of times the line was reported busy in a day or week. Give your customers a square deal and you will be assured of the very best class of trade.

Better phone Contract Department now—right now, before you forget it—there may be someone at this very moment trying to get admission through the business door and the operator has to again report "Line Busy".

STOCK MARKET DULL IN NARROW

NEW YORK, March 15—The tightening of the world's credit facilities is the feature of the present financial situation, and that factor underlies the constraint of the day's market in New York, although more superficial influences also played a part.

Customs collections continue large on account of the sustained heavy import movement of merchandise. Notwithstanding the purchase of parts of New York bond issue by foreigners, demand for remittances abroad are sufficient to have turned rates of foreign exchange upward again. All of the exchanges today, in fact, turned in favor of London in response to the rising discounts there and the expectation that the Bank of England rate will be advanced this week.
