CYCLIST'S DEATH

YARMOUTH, July 13.—Arthur Jefferson Saulnier, of Wellington, in this county, aged eighteen years and six months, is dead as a result of an accident which took place near town on Friday evening, Saulnier, in company with another young fellow was coming to town on a bicycle. His companion, who had a light, was in the lead. About half a mile from town on the Pond road, he swung out with the intention of crossing to the other side, not noticing a team coming in the opposite direction. He struck the team and was thrown off with great force. He fell on his handle-bars in such a way that he suffered internal injuries, resulting in death.

No explosions have occurred and it is hoped and believed there will be none, and that in due time conditions will become normal. It is hoped they will be able to get in the mine within three weeks, though it may be longer than that ere work is resumed. In the meantime the men employed there are being distributed in other collieries.

THINK MORE OF THE HARVEST.

"Think more of the harvest and less of the labor," said good Farmer Smith to his neighbor one day. Who paused on the hillside, both stony and sterile, To chat with the deacon, hard-handed and gray.

The prospect seemed cheerless where even weeds wilted, And oft would the husbandman growl and lament, Yet still he worked on with heart unconfiding, Vexation his portion instead of content.

Soft dews and warm rains, on the hillside descended; A capital crop blest the young farmer's eyes. "O, fool that I am," in the autumn he murmured, "My summer-time doubt I now heily despise!"

"I might have been spared all the fretting and worry; The deacon was right, and my duty was clear—

"Think more of the harvest and less of the labor," I'll sing both in spring and in autumn next year."

"Think more of the harvest and less of the labor," Should be the grand motto of all as they toil; For God will bless those who act nobly and wisely, And flowers will spring from unpromising soil. —S. E. World."

John Forrest was in the chair. Rev. Mr. Cohoe was the first speaker dwelling on the need of the nurse as a profession of others who deal with humanity, making their work personal and not impersonal. The danger is that this work be allowed to become merely a trade. If it were the nurse herself is hurt and falls far short of the ideal. Rev. Dr. Foley, in a thoughtful address, emphasized the importance of such service and yet not one medical doctor is volunteering for the work. Rev. V. E. Harris read the scripture, Rev. Dr. Bond offered prayer and Rev. A. C. Chute pronounced the benediction at the close of the meeting. Dr. Grierson spoke of the need of meeting.
