SOCIAL GATHERING; On Friday evening Feb. 1st. The Harrington Women's Institute and friends in Harrington met at the home of the newly-married couple Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacIntyre to bid them welcome to our neighborhood. After the arrival of about forty guests, Mrs. A. E. Phillips on behalf of the Harrington Women's Institute and friends presented read an appropriate "Address of Welcome" including the best wishes of many happy years of wedded bliss and prosperity in their new home. At this convenient time Mrs. A. J. Wise on behalf of the Institute presented Mr. and Mrs. MacIntyre with a beautiful Chinese clock, for which Mr. MacIntyre on behalf of his amicable partner thanked the donors for this pleasing gift with other complimentary remarks. He then favored all to several violin selections; then all joined in games which was much enjoyed by all present. When the hour arrived luncheon was served by the ladies, this too, was an added enjoyment. After singing "For they're jolly good fellows," all dispersed to their respective homes much enthused with the incident and the sociability of Mr. and Mrs. MacIntyre which made all feel that they had always known them. We welcome this couple to Harrington accompanied by the wish of many happy years of wedded life.

WEDDING BELLS—A very pretty wedding took place at Carleton on Wednesday, Jan. 30th, when Miss Helen de Greayer Campbell, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Montague Campbell of that place became the bride of Julian L. Herring of Murray Harbor. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ewen McDougall of Charlottetown, in the presence of the immediate friends of the family. The youthful bride looked charming in a gown of rose and silver transparent velvet and carried a shower bouquet of cream roses and maiden hair fern. The couple were unattended. The presents were numerous and beautiful consisting of silver, cut glass, linen, cheques, etc. The happy couple left the following morning for Boston and other American cities, the bride travelling in a cocoa brown velvet and printed transparent georgette and a Canadian northern muskrat coat, the gift of her parents. The Guardian joins with a host of friends in wishing this popular young couple many happy days of wedded bliss. The bridegroom is a popular employee of the C. N. Railway.—A

STELLA STEWART

WESTVILLE, N. S., Feb. 5.—Particularly sad was the death of Stella Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stewart, formerly of Lewis, Lot 66, P.E.I., which took place at Aberdeen Hospital on January 20th. The deceased was only 20 years of age, a girl of great ability and much promise. She was active in the O. G. I. T. groups of the United Church, being one of the leaders of the Intermediate C. G. I. T. She was a leader above the ordinary, having attended the Leaders Camp at Wallace, where she learned the art of leading the groups. She had been suffering lately from heart trouble, but was doing well. At Christmas time she returned to Mr. Harris' store and engaged in her work of clerk. Unfortunately, she contracted a heavy cold which turned to pneumonia, and this proved too much for her and she quietly took her departure from this life on Sunday, Jan. 20th. Her passing is all the more sad, as it is but four months since her sister Georgina, a girl of 14 years of age, passed away. Stella Stewart was a very popular girl with all who knew her, and her death has cast a gloom over the community. She leaves to mourn their loss her father and mother, one sister, Norma, and four brothers, Harlin, Wesley, Keith and Gordon, all at home. The sincerest sympathy of all friends of the family is extended to them at this time of their bereavement.

The funeral was held at the home on Tuesday, Jan. 22nd, at 2 o'clock. The service was conducted by Rev. W. S. Godfrey. The United Church choir led in the singing of favorite hymns of the deceased.

The floral gifts from the following friends were beautiful testimonials to the high esteem in which the deceased was held:

Pillow, The Family, Sprays, Grandma and family; Uncle Rod and Aunt Eva; Ira and Aunt Georgie; Cousin May and Thomas; C.G.I.T., United Church; United Church Bible Class; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hale and Ted; Mr. and Mrs. Grant Porter and Sutherland family; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chanell; Mary Chanell; Cut Flowers, Mr. and Mrs. George Harris; Mr. and Mrs. George McLeod; Flora MacRae; Dorothy and Viola; John and Catherine Livingstone; Wreath, Mrs. S. Marroff; Mrs. J. Chanell.

The pall bearers were Thomas McKinnon, Charles Porter, Warren Livingstone, David Porter, Dan Livingstone and Grant Porter. Interment was made in Auburn Cemetery.

RICHARD STEAD

Mr. Richard Stead who died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Henry McQuarrie, North Winsloe, on the evening of January 23rd came to Wheatley River eight years ago. He Winsloe from his former home in was widely and favorably known as a progressive farmer, and took great delight in his favorite horses till he was suddenly seized by the fatal illness a week before his death. A splendid friend and helpful neighbor he was highly respected in both his home community and in that in which he latterly made his home. He and his family were consistent supporters and members of the Methodist Church at Wheatley River, and at Winsloe the late Mr. Stead continued to support both the local and missionary work of the United Church. In spite of every care and loving attention he failed to rally from the sudden heart attack and passed away in full realization of his great danger and with confident Christian faith. He is survived by one son, John in Saskatchewan and by five daughters: Mrs. Robert Roberts and Mrs. Henry McQuarrie of Winsloe; Mrs. Ida Hume and Mrs. Herbert Negus of New Bedford, Mass. and Mrs. Claude Lutes of Winnipeg. Mr. Robert Stead of Wheatley River now in his 83rd year is his only surviving brother. Another son William Wallace predeceased his father a few years ago. The funeral services on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 26th were held from the residence of Mr. McQuarrie to the United Church Cemetery at Wheatley River and were largely attended in spite of the difficult roads. Rev. G. A. Grant assisted by the Choir of the North Winsloe Church conducted the services at the house and at the grave, Rev. A. E. Chapman assisted by Mr. Grant conducted the committal. The following acted as pallbearers; Messrs. Richard, Nelson and Ernest Stead, nephews of the deceased, and Malcolm Ross, John McInnis and Alexander McRae. Mr. D. M. McLeod, Funeral Director of Hunter River very capably took charge of the arrangements.

London Past And Future

By: Julian Hall

At a recent dinner in the City Lord Melchett spoke of London's long sustained beauty and importance. It is time that London had its due. No great town has of late received fewer tributes, and none is more deserving; for, as Lord Melchett pointed out, it combines an international importance with a long national tradition of its own.

Contemporary writers have had little to say of London. Mayfair certainly has been Mr. Arlen's happy hunting-ground; but even with him you are apt to find yourself at Cannes or in the Place Vendome before you can say 'Iris Storm'. Mr. Bennett, once the poet of Bursley counting-houses and King's Cross bookshops, now looks for inspiration to the continental train de luxe and the millionaire's yacht on the Mediterranean. Mr. Wells' fancy prefers either to conjure up an island as imaginary as Crusoe's, or else to deal with the whole world in terms of history and economics. Mr. Maughan has eyes only for China and Malay and islands in the Pacific where the rain seems eternal and the missionary, if he is wise, will leave unvisited. Even the Forsyte Saga—that chronicle of a family which could never have been happily outside London—has reached its last chapter; and who knows what new country Mr. Galsworthy may now explore?

Lord Melchett has recently been exploring Wall Street; but the trip served only to convince him that London is still "the pulse and centre of the entire world." The record of London is unique. It is the only one of the great towns of mediaeval and Renaissance Europe which has developed into a centre of modern world-enterprise. Consider the fate which has befallen the other centres of mediaeval commerce and culture. Florence, Venice, Nuremberg, Prague, the Hanse towns—what are they now but the sum total of their monuments and picture galleries? Such economic importance as they retain is an importance merely provincial. Such is their charm and such is their misfortune.

How different is the record of Brennan, Dorothy Lafferty, Margaret McEntee, Eileen DesRoches. The following pupils of Progressive Series of Music secured an average of 90% in written tests—K. Rooney, A. Pigot, A. Dalton, M. McCarron, A. McGuigan, M. Brown, E. Gaudet, F. Gaudet, S. Murphy, M.E. Gaudet, M. MacDonald, M. Carmichael, M. Mahar, A. Murphy, E. Muldine, N. McMillan, M. Houston, I. Peters, R. Flood, M. Large.

The Pekin Gazette in Pekin, China, claims to be the worlds oldest and most fatal newspaper, more than 1,500 of its editors having been executed in its more than 1,000 years of continuous publication.

Because of the frequent reference to the Valuation Roll, which shows the value of property in the city, the librarian of Edinburgh, Scotland free library, says the book is becoming a nuisance and should be withdrawn.

Men in charge of the gambling tables at Monte Carlo are complaining that they are having trouble in distinguishing the new British pound notes from their own mille notes, whose value is nearly eight pounds.

Because she denied the existence of Santa Claus and told her pupils that the gifts found in their stockings on Christmas morning were placed there by either their father or mother, a teacher at Sunderland, England, has aroused the parents ire and faces expulsion.

London, and how fascinating to trace its development since it superseded Winchester as the capital! We see it as the turbulent mediaeval town extracting its charter from the King and regulating its guilds and 'mysteries' as the London of the 16th and 17th centuries—the London of Shakespeare and the 'Mermald Tavern', the supporter of Henry VIII and Elizabeth against the Pope and of Parliament against their successors, London of the Plague and the Fire, of the Civil War and the Glorious Revolution; again we see it as London of the 18th century—the coffee-house London of Dr. Johnson and Sheridan and the Pitts father and son; as London of the Reform Bill and of the Peoples Charter, of Charles Dickens and of the Queen's Jubilee; and now as postwar London, the capital of the workshop of the Empire, the centre of international commerce and of imperial industry. What a pageant, and how many scenes yet more imposing are to follow! What a history lies behind us and what a destiny before us!

That Bagdad, Iraq, will become the air junction for Karachi, Teheran, Angora, Aleppo, Damascus, Jerusalem and Cairo is predicted with the starting of a movement to establish an airport there.

Because they retire and rise early in the period from April to October, laborers of the province of Alicante, Spain, have devised the plan of discontinuing an electric service in their homes during that time.
