In Memoriam

Owen F. Sharkey
Many and sincere expressions of sympathy and regret are heard on the passing of Owen Francis, son of the late Edward Sharkey, of Corraville, whose early and lamented death followed a six weeks illness in St. Boniface Hospital, Winnipeg. Mr. Sharkey, whose home was in Kamsack, Sask., was for some years in the employ of the C. N. Railway and engaged for some months in service on the new branch soon to be completed to Hudson Bay. His fatal illness seized him there and terminated his career on August 17, in spite of every effort of devoted and skillful doctors and nurses and his family. The funeral was held Monday, the 19th, at 10 o'clock.

Will this do, Mother?

Work wanted by boy of sixteen, no experience but ambitious. Willing to do anything, must have position at once. References. Box ABC Journal.

WILL YOUR SON be writing such an advertisement for the want column of the newspaper some day? That little lad of yours—will he be the breadwinner of the family—taking a "blind alley" job to help his mother? Will she recall the days when you used to talk about a University course that would fit him for something worth while.

You intend your boy to go to College, and you will see to it—if you are here. If you are not, will anyone else see to it for you? Who else is there to take that interest in him but you? And even if you are with him, are you sure you will have the funds? A college education costs money.

Why not set all doubts at rest now—let us guarantee that the money will be on hand when needed to put your son, or daughter, through the University. The yearly deposits are small—about the same as interest on the sum required—and there are many other excellent protective features.
