TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

The morning service of Trinity United Church was attended in a body by the Girl Guides, Rangers, and Brownies of the Church. In his remarks, which were addressed chiefly to the visiting girls' organizations, Mr. Albert Dinning, Minister of the church, spoke of the nature and fundamental importance of religious education for the youth and gave as the highest aim and greatest service of a full understanding and acceptance of Jesus Christ and the Christian way of life. The anthem at this service, 'The Heavens are Declaring' was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Roy Cudmore. The evening anthem was Semple's splendid composition, 'I Will Feed My Flock.' Mr. Roy Cudmore sang the solo part of that anthem. At the evening worship the address was delivered by Rev. John Coburn D. D., Secretary of the United Church of Canada. The remarks of the minister were based upon three factors which he said were the heart of the matter, the dire and terrible effects of the liquor traffic, the face and ineffectiveness of Government Sale, and the superiority of the Prohibition Law even if ineffectively and poorly administered. He showed by figures, facts and statistics that the liquor traffic paralyzes the national efficiency, and crippled the war effort. He showed how other countries embroiled in the war had cut down the sale of alcoholic beverages as a war measure. Replying to the argument that Government Control will abolish the bootlegger, he quoted statements from municipal and provincial leaders in other provinces to prove that the bootleggers still flourished under liquor sale laws. He also said that there was a definite parallel between increase in assaults, highway accidents, broken homes, and domestic strife and increase in facilities for obtaining liquor. Further to this he showed that while there is drunkenness and excessive liquor consumption in this province, our record in these crimes associated with drink is far better than that of any other province. Mr. Coburn ended his address with an invocation for the people of Prince Edward Island to permit this free sale of liquor in this province, and thereby lower our contribution to the war effort. Said Dr. Coburn, 'A vote for liquor is a vote for Hitler.'

Daily War Survey

(By The Canadian Press)

An important factor in the present war situation is the distance advanced German columns are from their base of supplies. In the German advance of 1914 this factor worked to slow up the advance and make for the eventual French victory in the great five-day battle on the Marne which saved Paris from capture and France from annihilation. There can be little doubt that the prospect of keeping an advancing army fit and well supplied has been simplified by the development of mechanical transport. But the British air offensive on German lines of communication and supply depots is calculated to aggravate the problem of supply. Royal Air Force bombers by their repeated raids into Germany and on German lines in France and Belgium are giving important support to the French army upon which must fall the weight of the task of stopping the German push. The problem of the Allied armies is complicated by uncertainty as to the first objective of the Germans, the coast opposite Great Britain or Paris. In the face of that uncertainty, a powerful French counter-offensive based on an assumption that one of the two possible objectives was the aim of the Germans, might prove a trap in the event the Germans were aiming at the other objective.

Anti - Allied Feeling Still Shown In Italy

ROME, May 17 (AP)—Italians tonight declared the violent campaign against Allied contraband control apparently bore fruit today, but was not specific on whether it, too, had been exempted from contraband search. That anti-Allied feeling persisted, however, was indicated when Luigi Green, a New York photographer was attacked by Italians who objected to his photographing the Hotel Eden, from which the name plate had been removed. The Vatican City paper L'Osservatore Romano, subject of criticism by pro-German elements because of its war reports and comments, dropped political matter today. Italians who read it to get news that they cannot find in their own paper discovered only the regular war communiqués of the belligerents today. Although Yugoslavs have been manifesting fear of an Italian invasion, the subject has been ignored by officials and the press in Italy.

Will Complete Organization of 2nd Division

OTTAWA, May 17 (CP)—Defence Minister Rogers returned from overseas Monday, after a tour of assisting in directing the nation's war effort in the light of the latest developments in the zone of hostilities. As he will soon be called upon to make a statement on his trip to England and France in the House of Commons, the minister was retained in discussing the affairs of his department. He found the Canadian troops and their training in England in good condition and was impressed with the high regard entertained for Canada's war activities in the United Kingdom. 'I believe it is true to say that Canada has never stood higher in the esteem of the British people than now,' Mr. Rogers said. One of the first tasks confronting the minister is to complete the organization of the 2nd division of the Royal Canadian Service Force now in training in Canada at various centres. In a few weeks the division will be concentrated at a regular base, the whole organization moving into two or three camps for field training. Prior to that the divisional headquarters must be set up, and commanders must be appointed for the infantry brigades, for the artillery and for the engineers, and each commander must be supplied with a staff. Major-General Victor W. Odium, the divisional commander, returned from overseas with Mr. Rogers. While the minister went to see Canadian forces in England and consult with the whole military and air staff in England and France, General Odium went to study training methods employed in the British army and to see the latest military organization in actual operation. The gravity of the present situation in France and Belgium developed while Mr. Rogers and General Odium were on the Atlantic. The minister said there was reason for faith that the Allied forces would win the war. The German attack on Belgium and the advance of the Belgian border and saw the preparations made for the advance of the Allied forces to meet the German invader. The advance was practised several times by the British forces, moving from east to west on French territory over the same distance they eventually moved from west to east to take up their present positions in Belgium. Mr. Rogers reached Ottawa at noon and was at his place in the House of Commons in the afternoon.

NAZI BRASSIERES CUT TO 10 TYPES

BERLIN, May 18 (CP)—And now brassieres are being re-made in Germany. There may be hereafter, only ten types, whereas there used to be hundreds. Although German women are restricted as to selection, the choice, authorities assert, remains adequate. The purpose, says the magazine Textiles, is to release machines for other tasks, and to save labor. Making 100 identical brassieres involves fewer motions than making 10 of varying designs. In this respect the German brassiere follows the German necktie, which was standardized some months ago.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

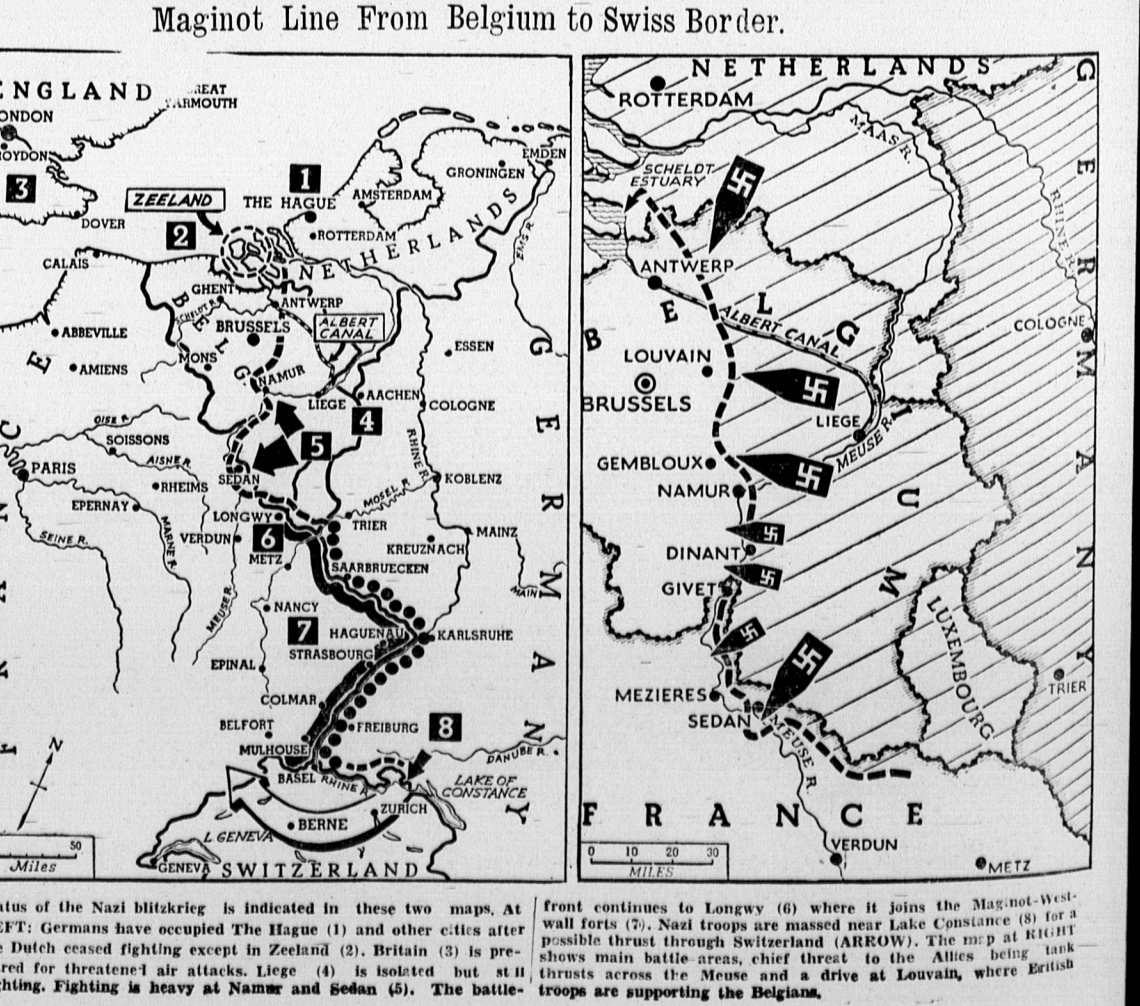

The Rev. John Coburn D. D., Secretary of the Social Service Committee of the United Church of Canada delivered the morning sermon. On this occasion he gave the first of a series of addresses to be delivered during the period preceding the jubilee. Dr. Coburn took up his text the words from the epistle of Saint James 'know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God? whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God. Explaining that Saint James' allusion to 'the world' referred to those worldly powers and influences opposed to God, the speaker stated that any social custom that is hostile to God is an enemy, which if we befriend, we become not neutral but enemies. The speaker dealt with the liquor traffic in the area of personal life and habits, in the area of the home and social relationships and in the area of citizenship. An eloquent appeal for the preservation of the principle of prohibition was made. The morning anthem was 'How Amiable are Thy Dwelling's' The Girl Guides, under Misses Yeo and Dawson were in attendance at this service. At the evening service the Rev. Harvey L. Denton B. D. delivered the third of the series of sermons on 'So This is YOU.' At this service the immediate subject was 'So YOU are to be Married.' An eloquent sermon, thoughtful, strong and wise was heard with close attention by a large congregation. The evening anthem was 'Brethren, James' Alr.' Jerome's 'Come Truly Spirit' was sung as a duet by Messrs. E. H. Cook, tenor, Russell Jones, Bass.

Status of the Nazi blitzkrieg is indicated in these two maps. At LEFT: Germans have occupied The Hague (1) and other cities after the Dutch ceased fighting except in Zeeland (2). Britain (3) is prepared for threatened air attacks. Liege (4) is isolated but still fighting. Fighting is heavy at Namur and Sedan (5). The battle front continues to Longwy (6) where it joins the Maginot-West-wall forts (7). Nazi troops are massed near Lake Constance (8) for a possible thrust through Switzerland (ARROW). The map at RIGHT shows main battle areas, chief threat to the Allies being tank thrusts across the Meuse and a drive at Louvain, where British troops are supporting the Belgians.
