THE BYE-ELECTION IN QUEENS COUNTY.

The result of the bye-election in the Second District of Queen's County on Wednesday of this week was the return of Mr. McPhee, the Liberal candidate by a reduced majority of 33 votes. It was by so much a Liberal victory, and a most important one, because it assures a Liberal majority in the House during the approaching session. The deep interest taken in the contest was shown by the large vote polled, which was 100 beyond that of the general election, an increase of 6 per cent.

The District is ordinarily a strongly Liberal one, and Mr. Laird's majority of 126 at the general election was only exceeded in the case of the Hon. John Richards and Hon. D. P. Irving among the Liberal candidates then elected. The Opposition will doubtless claim a moral victory in that this majority is reduced by two-thirds, but the constitution takes no account of moral victories or the size of majorities. Both parties had candidates who were quite acceptable to them, who are possessed of good abilities and who exerted themselves manfully during the brief campaign.

Mr. McPhee is to be congratulated on the victory which crowns his first political campaign. The heavy handicap he carried and over which he won was not his own political sins, but those of a Government twenty years in power. He will be a distinct accession to the debating strength of his party in the House. Mr. Buntin has shown a large measure of personal strength and popularity in the District and in the close contest just ended has so acquitted himself as to be assured of another chance when the next general election shall come around, which may not be far in the future.

In several respects the result of the bye-election is satisfactory. The reduced majority doubtless reflects the growing dissatisfaction of the electorate with certain conditions in which the rights and welfare of the Province have been disregarded. It sounds a note of warning to which both the federal and provincial Governments will do well to give heed. Had the electorate gone a little farther and returned the Opposition candidate, it would have forced on a general election before either party could have been assured of a working majority in the session now due. This would not be desirable. It would be better that a change of Government, whenever it shall come, shall be the result of a general election rather than of a bye-election in a single District.

At the general election of 1908 the City of Charlottetown returned two Liberal representatives to the Legislature by acclamation. The fourteen rural constituencies collectively, in all of which the elections were contested, returned fourteen Liberals and fourteen Conservatives. But the Liberal majorities averaged larger than the Conservative majorities, so that the Liberal majority in the electorate was larger proportionately than its representation in the House. The total number of Liberal votes cast for Assembliesmen was 9,026 and the total of Conservative votes 8,482, showing a Liberal majority among those who voted of 544.

How far the reduced majority in the Second District of Queen's is indicative of a like change of sentiment throughout the Province can only be guessed. Most general elections show some changes both ways, in unexpected victories and unexpected defeats. But we are forced to conclude that there has been of late a trend of sentiment against the Government which if not checked by timely amendment may result in its overthrow. There is yet time at the coming session to give the working men of Charlottetown the protection of the ballot and to correct the gross inequalities of the income tax at least.

CONSERVATIVES MAY OPPOSE.

The Ottawa Citizen, Conservative finds that present appearances indicate flat-footed opposition to the reciprocity agreement by the Conservatives in Parliament. It admits that a number of these members especially from the west, were inclined to favor reciprocity, but thinks they will be found in line in opposing the general principle of the agreement. It is quite clear that a strong effort will be made to whip them into this course.

The Citizen remarks that Hon. Clifford Sifton is now silent and keeping his own counsel, although it is known that he is opposed to reciprocity. He has said so plainly in addresses delivered before Canadian clubs and is also alleged to have spoken out even more emphatically in private conversation. The Orange Sentinel is of opinion that he will bolt from the Liberal party on this issue, but at present he seems to be watching developments and saying nothing.

In some respects it would be better for the country to have one party opposed to reciprocity. It would give a clear line of demarcation on principle between the two parties, which has not been apparent for a good while past. But it would spell another inevitable defeat for Mr. Borden and his following.

THE WINTER STEAMERS.

Down to the present winter there had been no real test of the effectiveness of the Earl Grey as an ice-breaking steamer. Last winter was too mild to demonstrate what the steamer was capable of, although good work was done in keeping open the direct route from Charlottetown to Pictou. This year the weather has been much more severe and it is pleasing to know that so far, with the Strait full of ice, the Earl Grey has done good service and is now our main dependence.

These are a number of requisites for an ice-breaker, but one of the most important is abundant propelling power. It is power that chiefly distinguishes the Earl Grey over the Stanley and Minto and enables the new steamer to force her way through the rafted ice in a manner impossible to the older winter steamers. But for the fact that we have the new steamer we should now be subjected to the same long interruptions of the winter service experienced in the midwinters of past years. Another Earl Grey, or a still more powerful steamer to replace the Minto is obviously required for our winter service. The Minto was never as effective a winter boat as even the Stanley and should be replaced by a more modern and much more powerful boat.

Both winter steamers are commanded by able and experienced captains who have had an almost marvellous success in escaping disaster, during a long term of most arduous and trying service. So long as the Government persists in delaying and refusing the one obvious and sovereign remedy for our winter ills, all-rail connection with the Mainland by the construction of the Tunnel—they are bound to give us the best service that can be given by powerful steamers fitted for the almost impossible task of forcing their way through the heavy ice of the Straits in midwinter. To that end another steamer at least as powerful as the Grey is imperatively needed.

The credit should be given to Minister Brodeur for having provided so effective a steamer as the Earl Grey, in response to the popular demand. What the Grey has done has demonstrated the need of a sister ship. Personally we do not believe that steamers can ever supply the continuous communication stipulated for in the terms of union or necessary to our winter trade. But it is now demonstrated that for thirty-seven years past not half has been done that might have been done by means of steamers to that end. We have a right to demand the best that can be done hereafter in that way till the Tunnel shall be built.
