BEAVER FLOUR

Requires Less Shortening

And it makes lighter, flakier Pie Crusts, Tarts, Doughnuts and Cookies than you ever got with Western Spring Wheat Flours.

"Beaver" Flour is milled of blended wheat. It contains Ontario Fall Wheat (famous for pastry making) blended with Western Spring Wheat to add strength.

You save shortening—and you get a flour that is always the same in quality and strength—when you use "Beaver" Flour, the only kind of flour that is equally good for Bread and Pastry.

—WEDDING BELLS—St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, Swift Current, Sask., was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday morning, the 16th inst., when Miss Margaret McEachern, of Souris, P. E. Island, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Otto Wolfadyen of Tompkins, Sask., by the Rev. Father Labourne, Parish Priest. The bride who was prettily attired in a suit of blue gabardine with black picture hat and grey Alaska sable fur, the gift of the groom's sister, Miss Alma Wolfadyen, who wore a suit of green broadcloth, with green velvet hat and white furs, the gift of the groom. The groom was ably supported by his brother Frank Wolfadyen. After the marriage ceremony the party motored to the Empress Hotel, where dinner was served, after which the happy couple took the east-bound train for their honeymoon to Jamestown, Fargo, Minneapolis, and other American cities. The bride travelled in old rose silk, trimmed with white Duchesse satin and a Hudson seal coat, the gift of the groom. The Swift Current News joins with their many friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Wolfadyen many years of wedded happiness.

—PROFITABLE MEETING—A meeting of the Bedeque Farmers' Institute was held at Central Bedeque on Saturday evening January 13th and considering the adverse state of the weather and roads was well attended. Prof. Theodore Ross gave a very instructive address on the "Rotation of Farm Crops" explaining the rotation practiced on his own farm. His address was practical throughout and full of suggestions which farmers might well put into practice. At the close of his address a lively discussion followed participated in by nearly all present.—X.

CHARLOTTETOWN GIRL CURED OF PNEUMONIA

This is the season when pneumonia gets in its deadly work. Happy is the family that possesses a Farador and knows how to make use of it when that dread disease visits the home. The Farador has rescued many Island people from the jaws of death and will continue to do so if given a chance. The following letter exemplifies the grand work of the Farador:

Charlottetown, Jan. 8, 1917.
Dear Sir,—On two occasions the Farador has been applied to my little daughter for pneumonia. The first time was in February, 1915, and the second time in May, 1916. Both times the child was very ill and the temperature was very high, but the Farador reduced the fever in a few hours and in three days she was cured. In consequence of these splendid results I strongly recommend the Farador, especially in cases of pneumonia and fever. It not only cures sickness in a clean and reliable way, but also saves much expense. I am satisfied that it saved my child's life.
WILLIAM McDONALD,
19 Gerald St.

The above letter is addressed to W. E. Enman, Farador Agent, 226 Richmond Street, Charlottetown. 4213-1-30MELL.

VEXATION OF SPIRIT.

So long and earnestly I've wrought, pursued the heastly grind, I've ringed spayins on my mind. The ghastly fear of evil times, of poverty when old, has kept me humping after dimes, for gold and still more gold. I have a package put away, where none can jar it loose; and sometimes, at the close of day, I wonder what's the use. When I have left this busy sphere, where only man is vile, some able lawyer will appear, and gather in my pile. Through-out this weary worldly jaunt I've skinned and saved and pared; I've done without the things I want, the things for which I cared. To add one large round dollar more to what I have in brine, I've made existence sad and sore, and what reward is mine? Why do I slave and toil and grind, why do I toil and spin? I'll have to leave my oil behind, for others to blow in. These words seem ever ringing loud, like some decree of doom: "There is no pocket in a shroud, no cash-box in a tomb." When I no longer am alive but sleeping 'neath the sod, some learned attorney will arrive, and hook on to my wad.—Walt Mason.

STILL HAD HOPES.

She was a poor lone widow once more, for she had just buried a husband for the third time. Calling to console the bereaved parishoner the minister touched on the many gifts and graces of her dear departed, and said, by way of parting words: "Be comforted, dear madam, in your great affliction. It is doubtless a heavy burden to bear, but it must be a source of great consolation to you that you do not sorrow as one who has no hope. "Deed it is, minister," said the bereaved lady, drying her eyes. "He was a good man, was John; but I'm not that auld yet, an', as you say, I've aye the hopes o' gettin' a nither ane."

FAULT FINDING.

There is a disposition in some to view unfavorably everything that falls under their notice. They seek to gain confidence by always differing from others in judgment, and to depreciate what they allow to be worthy in itself by hinting at some mistake or imperfection in the performance. You are too lofty or too low in your manners; you are frugal or too profuse in your expenditure; you are too taciturn or too free in your speech; and so of the rest. Now guard against this tendency. Nothing will conduce more to your uncomplaisance than living in the neighborhood of ill-nature and being familiar with discontent. The disposition grows with indulgence, and is low and base in itself; and if any should be ready to pride themselves on skill and facility in this science, let them remember that the acquisition is cheap and easy, a child can deface and destroy dullness and stupidity, which seldom lack inclination or means, can cavil and find fault and everything can furnish ignorance, prejudice and envy, with a handle of reproach. Oh, Prof. Theodore Ross gave a very instructive address on the "Rotation of Farm Crops" explaining the rotation practiced on his own farm. His address was practical throughout and full of suggestions which farmers might well put into practice. At the close of his address a lively discussion followed participated in by nearly all present.—X.

SYMPATHY.

From a richly-stored greenhouse, despoiled and neglected,
Sad, injured and broken, a lily was thrown
Once loved by its owner, now coldly rejected;
Once tended with care, now abandoned in scorn.
From the cold, piercing wind, from the tempest unshielded,
The sorrowing plant soon had withered and died.
When this heart full of sympathy, tenderly yielded,
The kindly affection, its owner denied.
Though the hand that should foster had injured the blossom,
And left the lone plant to a merciless doom,
Yet the dewdrop of pity, infused on its bosom,
Revived it again to a flourishing bloom.

And now o'er the land that with tenderness cherished,
The plant that had suffered so cruel a part,
The buds gaily opened, that well-nigh had perished,
Dropped the nectar of gratitude warm from the heart.
Ah! so with myself, when once sad, broken-hearted
The labouring sigh all my sorrow betrayed;
Such the sweet consolation of friendship imparted,
To heal the deep wound that misfortune had made.

And such be for ever the loved recollection,
Of balm kindly poured in this bosom of woe;
And such be the tribute of grateful affection,
While life's purple stream in my bosom shall flow.

Indian Economy

MANY careful people have found that Red Rose Tea is very economical—that it yields more cups to the pound. That is because it consists largely of Assam-Indian teas, which are famous for their full-bodied richness and strength. They make Red Rose Tea go farther.

EVOLUTION OF THE GROCER.

Nothing is so necessary in any community, nothing so unescapable as the grocer. It is the first business of the frontier settlement, and it plays the most important role in the business drama of any town. One can hardly imagine a city, in any age, in which there were no grocery stores, and yet the institution is a comparatively modern one. Do you know how groceries originated?

Only a few hundred years ago certain foresighted tradesmen in France went about the country buying up bargain lots of merchandise. They bought fire damaged goods, bankrupt stocks, all sorts of commodities. They bought these things "en gros" and made money out of them. The trade was carried to England, where a man who brought hardware, thread, furniture, vegetables "en gros," or in large quantities, called himself an "engrosser." This was later shortened to "grocer," but the term was still applied to the proprietor of a general business. The grocery was a sort of racket shop, like the modern 10-cent store.

Gradually, it appears, the "grocer" found it more profitable to deal in tea, coffee, spices, fruits and non-perishable foodstuffs, and he confined his attention to these things. He took over the business of the "spicer"—and in France the shop which we call a grocery is still known as an "epicerie."

So far was the original meaning of the term lost sight of that a man who deals exclusively in fresh vegetables came to be known as a "green grocer." The dealer in foodstuffs has not long been a grocer. Out on our Western frontier the saloon was formerly known as the grocery. It sounds strange to read in the border letters of 75 years ago, "The groceries are the curse of our camp." Perhaps the proprietor of such a place adopted that name as a blind for his relatives back in the States—but this is a mere supposition.—Tacoma Tribune.
