Pie Traynor Confident Of Pennant Win

By Alan Randal, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—Pie Traynor says not to worry about his Pittsburgh Pirates—they're going to hop right in there and win the National League pennant. "We're steaming at our proper pace now," says Pie. "Don't worry about us We can take care of ourselves."

Ray Dumont, president of the national semi-pro baseball congress, reports plans underway for the 1939 championship series between the United States and England. Alfred Grogan, representative of the English National Baseball Association, says more than 200 teams are playing organized ball in England now.

Tennis men say Jack Bromwich should be hot enough next year to lead the Australians to victory in the Davis Cup play. That is, of course, provided Don Budge turns pro. There are those who consider Budge a cinch to beat Ellsworth Vines and Fred Perry if and when Don enters the play-for-pay ranks.

Paul Derringer, Cincinnati's top hurler, figures Johnny Mize of St Louis is the best hitter in the National League.

Sam Snead, Canadian open champion, leads Paul Runyan, United States professional golfing association champion, by 37 points in the race for the Harry Vardon memorial trophy. Snead has 379.

Pennant Will Be Decided In Crucial Pirate - Cub Series Opening Today

(By Charles Dunkley)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Sept. 26—The hysterical and perhaps historical National Baseball League pennant race will be decided in the three game series between the pursuing Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates opening here tomorrow. After those all-important three games it will be all over.

This situation has made a gambler out of Gabby Hartnett, manager of the Cubs, he has been gambling all through the three weeks' winning streak in which the Cubs have won 17 out of their last 20 games and he is going to gamble again tomorrow on his pitching selection, saving his two aces, Clay Bryant and big Bill Lee for the games with Pittsburgh Wednesday and Thursday. Each will have had to days rest by that time. Thus Hartnett is gambling only on tomorrow's game.

Hartnett gambled in sending Lee against the Cardinals today and won 6-3. He gambled by booking a doubleheader with Philadelphia last Friday and won. He has gambled with pitchers that didn't figure to win and he won. He has gambled by using his two aces with only two days rest and he won.

For tomorrow, Hartnett is mulling over a choice between Larry French, Tex Carleton with Dizzy Dean, who has pitched less than seven innings in five weeks, a possibility.

Hartnett was elated over the performance of Lee in turning back the Cardinals today but the task of driving to a pennant with two pitchers is wearing him down.

"We're taking these games on one at a time," he bellowed, "and we will mow down the Pirates the same way."

That's the same kind of talk you hear from Pie Traynor, Pittsburgh manager.

"Don't worry about us," says Pie. "We can take care of ourselves."

Meantime the Cubs drew a half game closer to the Pirates by whipping St. Louis.

Stan Hack and Frank Demaree were the big guns in the Cub attack. Lee became the league's first pitcher to turn in 21 triumphs.

Hack collected three hits, including a double and a triple, and scored four times. Demaree had a perfect day with three singles, which drove in Hack three times. The two accounted for all but three of the nine Chicago hits off two former Cub hurlers, Curt Davis and Lon Warneke.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 — Rookie pitcher Steve Sundra yanked New York Yankees out of the doldrums today by beating Boston Red Sox 4-3 for the American League baseball champions' second victory in their last 10 games.

Joe Glenn, second string catcher who replaced Bill Dickey, ill with ptomaine poisoning, contributed the big blow of the Yanks' winning three-run rally in the sixth inning. He doubled scoring George Selkirk and Joe Gordon and tallied when Pinky Higgins threw Sunda's grounder past first.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

"OFF-GUARD" PICTURES

MOST people like to have their pictures taken. In fact, they like it so well that when they see the camera they put on a special "picture expression." And as a rule this special "picture face" isn't what we want at all.

There's a way to keep your subjects from seeming camera-conscious. Briefly, it is—"Catch them when they aren't looking." Don't let them know their picture is being taken.

Pictures so taken are known as "off-guard" snapshots. Such snaps attract attention because they picture the subject in a natural, characteristic pose and get away from the usual look-at-the-camera-and-smile type of picture with which we are all too familiar. An "off-guard" picture can tell a real story while the other type tends to be just a record picture.

How to take them? It's easy. Just learn to handle your camera unobtrusively. Wait until your subject is paying no attention to you. Then casually snap his picture. It's all a matter of using your camera nonchalantly and efficiently. The better you can do that, the more easily you can capture snapshots that are truly "off-guard."

If you use a focusing camera, with fast lens, try to anticipate picture opportunities, and set the camera in advance for distance and proper exposure. Then when the snapshot chance develops, all you need do is shoot.

For example, to take the picture above, the camera was set in advance for six feet. Lens and shutter were set for an exposure of 1/50 second at f.11—less than normal, because the bright, sunny beach was reflecting plenty of light. On a grassy lawn, which reflects little light, exposure would have been 1/50 at f.8. With his camera pre-set, all the picture taker had to do was wait for the melon to be cut, and catch his companion's delighted expression. It was just a matter of lifting the camera and snapping the shutter.

If you haven't tried taking "off-guard" shots, try it. It's fun, and the results are a delight.

Nat. League Starts On November 3

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

TORONTO, Sept. 25—Established on a new seven-club single-group basis, the National Hockey League will start its 1938-39 schedule Nov. 3 and eliminate only one team from a chance at the Stanley Cup when the race ends March 19.

The League decided at its annual meeting here Saturday that the first six teams in the standing would enter playoffs for the Stanley Cup, symbolic of the world's professional championship. The top club, however, will be declared N. H. L. champion and will take the Prince of Wales Cup. The second team will get the O'Brien Cup.

The new set-up was the most important development of a quiet closed meeting at which numerous rules changes were made.

The first and second clubs will meet in series "A" of the Stanley Cup series, to be decided on a seven-game basis. First team to win four games will enter Stanley Cup finals.

The third and fourth finishers will meet in series "B" to be decided on a best-of-three game basis. The fifth and sixth will play in series "C" also on a best-of-three basis. The survivors of "B" and "C" will meet in series "D"—on a best-of-three plan—for the right to meet the league champions in the cup finals, a best-of-seven round.

League President Frank Calder told reporters after the closed sessions that the season probably would extend little longer than in former years, despite the fact that the league finals and Stanley Cup finals previously have been played on the best-of-five plan. The schedule, starting in Chicago and Toronto, will have the earliest opening in its history.

The league adopted all playing rules changes advised by a special committee. They include a new basis of calling offsides, under which the player's skates and not his body will determine whether he is offside. Fifteen players, exclusive of the goaltender, may be dressed for a game, rather than the old standard of 14.

Instead of two referees there will be a referee and a linesman. The referee will have charge of the game and the linesman's only duties will be to call offsides and rule when the puck is "iced."

CHALLENGE

I hereby challenge George Graham to a return bout at his earliest convenience.

Signed
GEORGE LESLIE.

Intermediate Series Starts On Thursday

The first game of a best out of three series between the Charlottetown Plymouth All Stars and the Logieville Maroons for the N. B.-P. E. I. Intermediate Baseball championship will take place in Logieville on Thursday, local officials announced last night.

The game will start at 4 o'clock and local fandom will be waiting eagerly for reports on the game. It is a number of years since an Intermediate team of Seniors played on the mainland so the All Stars progress will be watched with more than ordinary interest.

The boys are at present attempting to raise enough money to make the trip and citizens are asked to co-operate as much as possible.

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

REGINA, Sept. 26—The Saskatchewan Curling Association will use a new system next year to determine the British Consols winner, the rink to represent the province in the Macdonald's Brier Canadian championship bonspiel.

The Association decided at an executive meeting Saturday to divide the province into 28 districts with from 12 to 20 clubs in each zone. In each district a primary playdown will be held with each club sending one rink.

District winners, 14 in the south and 14 in the north, will be augmented by finalists in the British Consols event at Regina and Saskatoon bonspiels and the 16 survivors in each section will play off in a round-robin competition, winners of each section to meet in the provincial finals.
