WEALTH FOR SOCIALISM.
Allen Freeman of East Orange, N. J., one of the wealthiest of socialists, is said to be intending to give his wealth to assist in promulgating his social theories. His father, Joseph Freeman, was treasurer of the Standard Oil Company. Mr. Freeman is not, however, so much concerned in any particular socialistic program as in spreading free thought and in encouraging men and women to consider how the production of wealth can be made more profitable and pleasant for all concerned.
Keeping house is not a torment for the woman who knows how. It is a pleasure and a comfort she would not be without for any consideration.
To the good housekeeper home is a word for which there is no substitute. She is miserable when in a hotel or boarding house with strangers. Women who prefer hotel life to a home are merely those who have never known how to run a home well enough to enjoy it or who have never tried.
Possibly they have been frightened at the prospect on account of the boggy tales they have heard from housekeeping failures.
The keeping of a servant may entail some out of the ordinary qualities, such as tact and knowledge of human nature, but the woman who does her own housework needs not common sense.
In the first place, rugs have proved more of a stumbling block to the weary housekeeper than anything else—that is, rugs on bare floors. The only way bare floors can be kept decently clean is by going down on your hands and knees, wiping the dust of them (which collects again before the day is over) and applying floor wax. This is enough to wear out any woman, and therefore it is the first thing the sensible woman should cut out.
"But I have rugs," I hear some one say, "and I don't want to use carpets because we may move, and then they will be no use in the next house."
By all means have rugs, but first cover all your floors with an eight-inch burliap, which comes in all colors, but perhaps looks best in brown, as that is the natural color of floors and shows up the rugs to better advantage.

THE SEX OF PESSIMISM.
In a recent book, "The Old Wives' Tale," the author has invented, or rather, revealed a wonderfully cute expression, "black joy," a concentrated paraphrase of the earlier written "in the adversity of our best friends there is often something which does not displease us." Years ago, too, Robert Burns reiterated the fact that "man was made to mourn."
A clearer insight into human nature would have made the poet declare that it was woman, no man, even though this closer truth interfered with his meter. Men are temperamentally more hopeful than women, some say because of their widened sense of humor, but even this, granting equal depression, masculine pessimism has a heavier tone than feminine, says the Youth's Companion.
It is rarely a man who, meeting an acquaintance on the street, exclaims, "Are you sick? What have you been doing to yourself?" or, having heard of illness, he shakes his head dubiously and hopes things will

Her Face and Body Were Litterly Covered With "BOILS."
Burdock Blood Bitters Cured Them.
Mrs. John H. King, Johnston, N.B., writes:—"Last summer I was very much troubled with boils, and my face and body were literally covered with them. A friend advised me to take Burdock Blood Bitters. I got three bottles, and before I had taken all the first one my boils began to go away. I had just taken a few doses out of the last one when they all disappeared. My husband has also used Burdock Blood Bitters with much benefit."
Boils in themselves are not a dangerous trouble, but still, at the same time, are very painful. They are caused entirely by bad blood, and to get rid of them it is necessary to put the blood in good condition, and for this purpose there is nothing to equal that old and tried remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters.

go well, but doubts the possibility very much.
Does the more contracted life of a woman, which deepens her sympathy, narrow them into an uncheerful point of view? Like the New England lady of tradition, "who enjoys poor health," most women like a little disturbance, a little tragedy, a little bustle about misfortune; it deepens the interest of their lives.
The antidote is a widened view. Just as McCauley's washerwoman with six children could not spare time to do a broken heart, so interests that stimulate and fill up existence, changing it into life, will produce a brisk, glowing optimism.
Once a harsh critic somewhat sharply defined women as being "optimists in pessimism because they hoped for the worse and were glad when it happened"; but undoubtedly properly applied mental industry might even change this "black joy" into a chastened content on viewing the happiness of others.

MATRIMONY.
Matrimony is the joint stock company which a minister propped up as a side line and a lawyer throwed into bankruptcy with the feminine stockholder as the preferred creditor.
It is the boot which induced a girl to swap a hundred-dollar salary for a forty dollar man. 'Tis a neckyoke which maketh two collars to chafe as one.
Matrimony is ascribed to softening of the brain or heart, or purse itch. Exactly what causeth it the Lord only knoweth, but time will tell when it is too late.
By matrimony the Optimist expecteth to get a silent partner who fearth not the cook or staying alone at night. The Pessimist hopeth only to dodge the Suffragette when he maketh his choice, and to escape with light alimony.

The benefits of matrimony are many (saith the promoter). For mending broken nobility it is without a rival. Through it a man acquirith a good cook and housekeeper—sometimes. And a woman obtaineth a meal ticket—occasionally. And when she doth, although issued for life, she frequently loseth it before it expirith.
Matrimony resulteth variously—in happiness, trouble or even children. The latter though the least frequent, seem to be the most dreaded.
Is matrimony a failure? The neighbor on thy right hand saith, "Yea it is hell," and the one on thy left, "Nay, it is heaven." And verily, both are wrong—it is earth.
In the blessed Realm there is no marrying or rivving alimony. Angels being wise, are prudently fearful. Wherefore, only by rushing in and investigating for ourselves can we learn what matrimony hath in store for us.
Brethren, let us take a chance.
