THE TORTURES OF RHEUMATISM

Happily Stopped When He Began To Take "Fruit-a-tives"

"For a year, I suffered with Rheumatism, being forced to stay in bed for five months. I tried all kinds of medicine without relief and thought I would never be able to walk again. One day while lying in bed, I read about "Fruit-a-tives" the great fruit medicine; and it seemed just what I needed, so I decided to try it. The first box helped me, and I took the tablets regularly until every trace of the Rheumatism left me."

At the church, a requiem mass was said for the repose of his soul, by his pastor, Rev. Father K. Good, clean, wholesome novels, unique in plot and abounding in action, adventure, are the productions of H. A. Cody. His early experiences as a missionary in the Yukon district supplied him with material which he uses so successfully as the background of his books of Western life. As a clergyman who enters into the activities and daily problems of his community he has, in other stories, helped to show the place of the preacher and the church in the life of the people.

MRS. GORDON MCEACHERN

Passed peacefully to her eternal rest on Sabbath, Nov. 21st, 1920, Ethel May Campbell, beloved wife of Gordon McEachern of New Argyle and daughter of Neil and Mrs. Campbell of Canoe Cove, at the early age of 24 years. Mrs. McEachern had been in failing health for several months and her death was not unexpected. Her sweetness of disposition and guileless cheerfulness made her greatly beloved by all who knew her. She was a faithful and devoted member of the Church of Scotland and was brought to a saving knowledge of the truth in early life. When she realized that death was near, her resignation, which all through her sickness was remarkable, now instead of sinking into a sullen yielding to fate, burst into a constant flame of joy. When her body became so weak that all her strength seemed required for breathing, she joined in the singing and praises that were conducted in her room, with an inflow of life that seemed coming, certainly, from beyond her worn-out frame. Those who saw her face in her last sleep can never forget her expression—the radiant smile

Up to his last sickness, Mr. McNeill had been a very healthy and robust man. He was a well-informed man, a deep reader and familiar with the world's doings, and was also quite a politician. In politics he was a Liberal
