—ADDRESS ON SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK—Sunday School teachers and others interested in the work of the Sunday School met in St. Mary's hall on Tuesday evening to hear Rev. Mr. Hart-Davies outline the work of the G.B.R.E. of the Anglican Church in Canada. Ven. Archdeacon C. deW. White, D.D., presided and after opening the meeting with prayer introduced Rev. Mr. Hart-Davies. The speaker explained that he was speaking in place of his wife, who had to attend a meeting of Girl Guides. Rev. Mr. Hart-Davies explained that the object of the G.B.R.E. was to assist Sunday School teachers in their work. They have two watchwords, one was "What is the Church's Primary Task?" and "How are we doing that task?" The church's greatest asset is the children and it was the first duty of the church to claim the child for the church. The church cannot shift this responsibility onto any other organization. The object of Rev. W. J. Bradbury's was to organize a Sunday School Association on Prince Edward Island for Anglican Churches. Rev. Mr. Bradbury will address a meeting at Port Hill and will preach in St. Eleanors and Kensington on Sunday and in St. Mary's Hall next week. A general discussion on Sunday School work followed. Major F. F. May spoke briefly, expressed appreciation of the interest being taken in Sunday School work. He felt that such an organization was very necessary if the work of the Sunday School is to flourish. He was sure that a better spirit of co-operation between the parishes would be beneficial to all. Ven. Archdeacon White in extending a vote of thanks to Rev. Mr. Hart-Davies said, he quite agreed with Major May that a Sunday School Association would help to solve many difficulties and would be the means of creating more interest in Sunday School work among the congregation. St. Eleanors Sunday School was represented a 100 per cent. The meeting closed with prayer.—S.

resistance in the Toledo sector. The Fascist leaders ordered a "cleansing" of Toledo to make that city "the whitest in Spain."

(The Insurgent high command at Burgos asserted its forces had encircled Madrid and said the fall of the Government capital was "imminent.")

(Other reports given out at Burgos said troops under General Emilio Mola, Fascist conqueror of Irun and San Sebastian, pierced the Government defences around Bilbao, last major northeastern coastal city held by the Government.)

Within Toledo, the Insurgent liberators of the men, women and children, besieged for 72 days in the Alcazar fortress, ordered all inhabitants to surrender their arms.

Fascist leaders tersely announced 74 Government militiamen holding out in the San Juan hospital across the Tagus river from the Alcazar had been killed or captured.

secretary-general of the League by the Council.

The steering committee of the League Assembly decided to convoke the Assembly's disarmament committee and authorized it to summon a meeting of the general committee on the disarmament conference.

The move was seen as representing an attempt to revive the disarmament conference which expired because of its failure to achieve results.

The Assembly itself heard Lawrence Tazaz, Ethiopian delegate, declare that Emperor Haile Selassie was ready "to sacrifice a considerable portion of his rights under the League Covenant" to effect settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian problem.

The announcement before the Assembly that Emperor Haile Selassie was ready for sacrifices under the League Covenant was interpreted as meaning the Negus was ready to "settle" by accepting some part of Ethiopia as a national home for the Ethiopian people.

Germany Ready To Co-operate

BERLIN, Sept. 30—(AP)—Germany refuses to be stamped into devaluation, it was emphasized tonight in authoritative quarters, but will not cling stubbornly to its present gold parity if "genuine" international stabilization can be achieved through negotiations.

High quarters interpreted Dr. Schacht's remarks as leaving little doubt that Germany is ready to bargain with the other powers for stabilization—on her own terms. In this connection, Dr. Schacht's words "raw materials" and "colonies", which dropped into the stream of his comment, suggested that Germany would like to be "encouraged" to cooperate.

CANADA'S STANDPOINT

solution, and in fact nearly every decision has been unanimous. This result is all the more remarkable as the problems dealt with arise sometimes on one side and sometimes on the other side of the boundary and involve very large commercial and other interests.

Wide Powers

The Commission has very wide powers, which it derives from a Treaty signed at Washington in 1909. Under one clause of that treaty it has final jurisdiction over matters involving the use of boundary waters. Under another it has the same authority over works in rivers crossing the boundary, or in rivers flowing from boundary waters.

A third section of the treaty makes it a body to investigate large questions referred to it by the Canadian and American governments. And under a fourth it becomes an International Court of Appeal to which the two countries can refer any matter of difference arising between them.

The Commission has decided many problems arising as various places along the international boundary, and has in the last few years dealt with several questions on the St. John and St. Croix rivers, such as the development of water power at Grand Falls, and the approval of certain dams and other works in the St. Croix. As an investigatory body it has examined into and reported upon such problems as the St. Lawrence Deep Waterway, the Pollution of Boundary Waters, the regulation of water levels in the Lake of the Woods and the effects of fumes from the smelter at Trail, B.C., on farms and orchards in the state of Washington. Matters that come before it for consideration or decision may, of course, arise anywhere along the three thousand miles of boundary that divide—or, as President Roosevelt has happily put it, that unite Canada and the United States, from Passamaquoddy Bay to the Straits of Georgia. The Commission has, in fact, decided cases involving works on the St. Lawrence, the Niagara and Detroit rivers, St. Clair river, St. Mary's river between Lake Superior and Lake Huron, Rainy lake, Rainy river and the Lake of the Woods, Roseau river on the Manitoba boundary, the St. Mary and Milk rivers in Alberta and Montana, and the Columbia and Kootenay rivers west of the Rockies.

Present Commissioners

The present Canadian Commissioners are Hon. Charles Stewart, formerly Minister of the Interior in the Dominion Government, Sir William Hearst, formerly Prime Minister of Ontario, and George W. Kyle, K.C., of St. Peter's, N.S., formerly Chief Liberal Whip in the House of Commons. Mr. Kyle succeeded the late Henry A. Powell, K. C., of St. John, who had been one of the original Commissioners appointed in 1912. Mr. Stewart is Canadian Chairman of the Commission, having this year succeeded Charles A. Magrath, who had filled the same office for many years, and who had also been Chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario. Other former Canadian Commissioners were P. B. Mignault, who resigned on his appointment some years ago to the Supreme Court of Canada, and Hon. T. Chase Casgrain, who became Postmaster General. The present American Commissioners are Hon. A. O. Stanley, who was formerly United States Senator from Kentucky; John H. Bartlett, formerly Governor of New Hampshire; and Eugene Lorton, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, pro-

Unique Conditions

Mr. Burpee added that Mr. King's speech in the Assembly of the League of Nations on Tuesday gave point to the fact that a wide difference existed between conditions in Europe and in North America. It was possible to accomplish here what could not be done in the European atmosphere of suspicion and distrust. Canadians and Americans spoke the same language; had much the same social, economic and political point of view; had no reason to be jealous or suspicious of one another. Under such conditions it was possible to attain the maximum advantage from such an organization as the International Joint Commission.

TWO BID FOR FAME, FORTUNE IN AIR DERBY

Llewellyn and Scott Set Pace in England-Johannesburg Air Race.

(C. P. Cable By Guardian's Special Wire)

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa Sept. 30—The England-Johannesburg air race resolved tonight into a duel between two experienced long-distance fliers—David Llewellyn and C. W. A. Scott.

They were reported at the same time this afternoon on opposite sides of Lake Victoria in the heart of Africa approximately 2,000 miles from their goal.

Misfortune dogged other entrants in the race for the $50,000 prize award. Only five planes of the original nine remained in the running.

Capt. S. S. Halse was far in the lead when he crashed near Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia. The Johannesburg air club instructor was taken to hospital and his plane was damaged, putting him out of the race.
