WOMENS' NEGLECT
SUFFERING THE SURE PENALTY
Health Thus Lost Is Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? We hear every day the same story over and over again. "I do not feel well; I am so tired all the time!"

More than likely you speak the same words yourself, and no doubt you feel far from well. The cause may be easily traced to some derangement of the female organs which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, backache, bearing-down pains, flatulency, nervousness, sleeplessness or other female weakness.

These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result.

The never-failing remedy for all these symptoms is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Clara Beaubien, of Beauport, Quebec, writes:
Dear Mrs. Pinkham:
"For several years I have suffered with a female weakness which proved a serious drain on my vitality, sapping my strength and causing severe headaches, bearing-down pains and a general worn-out feeling, until I really had no desire to live. I tried many medicines, but did not get permanent relief until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In two months I was much better and stronger, and in four months I was well; no more disagreeable discharge, no more pain. So I have every reason to praise the Vegetable Compound, and I consider it without equal for the ills of women."

For twenty-five years Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, has under her direction and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge. Her advice is free and always helpful. Address, Lynn, Mass.

AN EX-OVERSEER TELLS ABOUT SOME ROAD ACT TROUBLES

It is No Fun To Be a Road Overseer—Some of The Ways In Which Road Duties Are Avoided.

SIR,—I see in your issue of the 7th inst., a letter by the Commissioner of Public Works re the duties of overseers in looking after the roads in winter. Now, I don't think the trouble lies in the overseers not knowing their duties, nor in wilful neglect—not in all cases at any rate—but in their inability to fulfil the task imposed on them. As the writer has held the office of overseer for a number of years he is in a position to know.

Here are some of the experiences of an overseer after a snow storm. In the first place there is always a lot of extra work around a farm after a storm, such as shovelling snow, etc., and an overseer's compensation—namely exemption from paying road tax—is not sufficient to induce him to neglect his own work. He then proceeds to turn out the neighbors, to break the roads. Here, he meets with the following excuses: Cattle have had no water during the storm and must be attended to before he can leave; another—his wood has run out and he cannot leave the family without fire, so he must cut a little fire-wood first and in other cases sickness in the family or some other reasonable excuse for not leaving their homes. The Road Act says, fine them for neglect of duty, but no humane overseer would think of doing so. Then there is another class, who when they expect the overseer get away to the woods or some place to their work where they cannot be found. And still another plan to outwit the overseer. I went to a house one morning saw the mistress of the house and enquired for Mr. So-and-So. Well he wasn't home just at present. Is he far away? She didn't just know where he was—but that man (or whatever you like to call him) was at home and in the house. However an overseer does not go armed with a search warrant so it is very easy for people to get clear of breaking roads if they are so inclined. And the blame falls on the overseer—he is the scape-goat the guilty man—the tool for the people. About two years ago there were a couple of men called at my house one night between eight and nine o'clock. They asked if I were overseer? I told them I was. Well why haven't you got the roads broke? They were driving with a wagon and it was the first snow-storm of the season. I informed them that it was storming very bad at dark, and that we didn't break roads until the storm was over. Well, they said the storm is over now, and they were anxious to get on and there were some bad banks on the road. I don't know where they were going but I could guess as it was before the Prohibition Law was in force. However I went and helped them through some of the drifts, and they went on their way rejoicing. Another case. A man came along the first day of April with a waggon and although there was a fairly good road through the fields where everybody was travelling he preferred driving through the road where there was six feet of snow. He broke some part of his waggon got mad and went and fined the overseer. Although there was a host of evidence to show there was a good road through the field the J P said the overseer was guilty of gross neglect in not having the highway opened for a waggon to pass through. He found it his duty to impose a fine on the overseer. Although the Act said "highways and winter roads" the J P would not recognize the road through the fields that had been used as a winter road for over thirty years. He said "he only had the highways to deal with and no matter how good the travelling was through the fields if the highways were blocked with snow the overseer was liable to a fine. The overseer he said had power to order out the inhabitants to clear the highways and if they couldn't do it in one day he could keep them out a week if necessary. In this case it would take nearly a week with the help available in the district at that time. Now, Sir, there seems to be something wrong somewhere either in the Road Act or in the judgment of the J. P. However, guilty or not guilty, the writer had to pay the fine which with costs amounted to more than the gains from the office. Since then I have refused to act as overseer although I know I am liable to a fine in not accepting. But of the two evils I choose the lesser.

With regard to slues and pitches which are generally at the worst in March when people are busy hauling mud—imagine an overseer ordering out a fleet of mud haulers to level pitches when mud-hauling is up to fever heat. I think they would consign the overseer to a place where his feet would never be cold. Now Sir, why cannot the office of overseers be worth looking for like other Government offices? And why can't the overseer be employed to hire two or three men to look after the roads in winter?

I could offer a good many suggestions that I think would be an improvement on the present system, but space will not permit and it might be out of place for me to dictate. It is for this purpose we are sending the "brain of the country" to Charlottetown to make our laws, and I think it would be an easy matter to improve on the Road Act or rather to make a new one for the old one is out of date and ought to be laid away with the "pod auger." For of the 1040 overseers, that are now in office I will venture to say there are not forty (40) who are in favor of it.

EX-OVERSEER.

Exhausted Nerves Lead to Insanity
IT IS WISE TO KEEP THE NERVOUS SYSTEM IN FULL HEALTH AND VIGOR BY USING

Dr Chase's Nerve Food

The leading artist of a great New York newspaper committed suicide recently because on his return home he found his apartments in disorder, the painters and decorators being in possession.

This is an illustration of overwrought nerves leading to insanity, and, whatever may be the last straw to unbalance the mind, there can be no doubt that exhaustion of the nerves is always a cause of mental collapse.

Diseases of the nerves are common to all walks of life, and the earlier symptoms are sleeplessness, nervous headaches, loss of memory, inability to concentrate the mind, indigestion, tired anguid feelings, discouragement and despondency.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures diseases of the nerves in the only natural way, by naturally increasing the amount of nerve-force in the body.

By its regular and persistent use the most severe forms of nervous exhaustion such as partial paralysis, prostration, and locomotor ataxia, are thoroughly and completely cured.

Mrs. Willis Taylor, Hensley Street, Charlottetown, P.E.I., states:—"I suffered from nervous prostration, could not sleep, and frequently had attacks of nervous headache, in fact, my whole system was run down and my health was in anything but a satisfactory condition. Since having used three boxes of Chase's Nerve Food I can say that I never tried any medicine that did me so much good. It has built up my system, strengthened the nerves and enabled me to sleep and rest well. It is now a considerable time since I had a headache, and I can truthfully recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a splendid preparation."

If you would feel strong and well and avoid all the ills and weakness so common at this season, enrich your blood and revitalize your nerves by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
