

The SUMMER SIDE GUARDIAN

AND PRINCE COUNTY CHRONICLE

MAY CALL MEN FOR SERVICE BEFORE REGISTRATION

THE WESTERN GUARDIAN

AGENT—Mrs. John Ford, 44 Water Street East—Phone 289 SUMMERSIDE and PRINCE COUNTY

News, Subscriptions, Advertising should be left with Mrs. Ford

The Guardian may be bought daily at any of the following stores in Summerside:

Bell Bookstore, Water St. Gourlies Drugstore, Water St.
Toronto Bakery, Water St. Mark Gaudet, 67 Granville St.

The Guardian will be delivered to any home in Summerside by Carrier Boy at 2c per day or 10c per week. Phone 289 for this service or give your order to the boy responsible for deliveries on your route.

—This column is reserved for news of local interest but advertising of a newsy nature may be inserted at 2 cents a word strictly payable in advance.

—BISMA-REX for stomach upsets at Taylor Drug Co., Kensington.

—ON THURSDAY, July 4, 10-12 a.m., a chest clinic will be held at the Town Hall, Summerside. L-119-7-3-21.

—COME TO the Institute for cream social Albert Moore's, New Annan, July 5. Proceeds for Red Cross. L-116-7-3-21.

—FOR BEST results bring your film to us for developing and printing. Gourlies Drug Store. L-145.

—FREE GLASSWARE—Your choice with each $1.00 purchase. This week, Enman's Drug Store, Summerside. L-147.

—GIRL GUIDES HOLD BINGO—The Girl Guides of St. Pauls Church held a bingo party on Tuesday evening. A large number of people attended to help the Guides along.—S.

—FOR WHITE Diarrhoea in chicks use our special remedy, 25c per bottle, Enman's Drug Co., L-147.

—GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCE—Two young men from the county were given a suspended sentence by Magistrate Darby when they were brought before him charged with stealing seed grain and selling it. The boys were given a suspended sentence as they told the Magistrate they were going to enlist.—S.

—DEATH OF MR. HENRY GRANVILLE MILL—There passed away at his home in Kensington on Sunday evening, Mr. Henry Granville Mill at 76 years of age, after an illness of some months. Mr. Mill was born at Clearmont, P.E.I., on July 20, 1863, and was the son of the late John Mill, who was a native of England. Mr. Mill was a very successful farmer, having early in life purchased a farm in the Kensington district. He was well known for his integrity in business, and his interest in community affairs. Mr. Mill was a staunch member of the Anglican Church at Kensington and will be much missed in the social life of the church. Mr. Mill was married twice, his first wife, Elizabeth Buchanan, died in 1914. His second wife Barbara MacKay of Bradabane survives. There were six children by the first marriage, three survive: Harry, who resides on a farm adjoining the home-stand; Bertram in Edmonton; Alberta, and Maurice in Summerside; also six sisters, and one son, Mr. Frank Mill of Marshfield. The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon from his late residence to St. Mark's Church, Rev. P. Cream officiating. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Hugh MacKay, Bruce Taylor, Stewart Moore, Aldin Monse, John Walker and Peter MacIntyre. Interment in the People's Cemetery, Kensington.

—RESERVE Saturday, July 13th for Ice Cream Social, sponsored by Home and School Association in aid of the Red Cross. On Kensington High School Grounds, L-140-7-4-11.

—THE UNITED Church Presbyterial will hold Missionary rallies in the following places: Brackley, July 4th; Margate, July 5th; Montague, July 5th; Bradabane, July 6th; Bideford, July 10th; Mount Stewart, July 10th; Tryon, August 8. Supper served at all places for 25c, except Brackley where the charge will be 20c. Special speakers at evening services. Two sessions 2 and 8 p. m. L-146.

—CUBS RETURN HOME—The Cubs of the 1st and 2nd Summerside Groups and Borden Cubs, 25 in all returned on Wednesday morning from a most enjoyable stay at Fernwood, camping headquarters for Prince County Scouts. The camp was in charge of Captain Kings assisted by Miss Wedge of Summerside; Miss Hayward, Miss MacMillan and Miss MacDonald, Charlottetown. Mr. Keith Millison was quartermaster. The Cubs went to camp on Saturday and returned yesterday.—S.

—PERSONALS—Mr. J. E. D'Eon, Meteghan River, N. S., is a guest at Westview Lodge, North Tryon.

—Mr. and Mrs. David Pringle and daughter Louise of Fredericton, N.B., and Miss Janet Pringle of Stanley, N.B., are spending their holidays at Edgewater.—S.

—Mr. James Warren and his sister, Mrs. Dorothy White have returned to Moncton after visiting in Summerside. On their return they were accompanied by Miss Jeanette White.—S.

—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoar of Moncton, N.B., arrived on Sunday to stay at Edgewater during their vacation.—S.

—Mr. Schurman of Toronto is spending his vacation with his sister, Miss Bertha Schurman, Summerside.—S.

—Miss Pauline Hill is spending her vacation at her home in Berwick, N. S.—S.

—Mr. Wm. H. Holden, Rehoboth, Mass., U. S. A., and Mr. Wesley Sharpe of Rumford, R. I., who have been guests at Westview Lodge, North Tryon returned home Friday morning.

Stratocliners To Go On Miami So. America Run

MIAMI, Fla., July 3 (AP)—The United States' first fleet of stratocliners will go into service between Miami and Latin America, providing faster passenger service and bringing six-day-a-week mail service to every capital in South America.

Three 20-ton, four-engine land planes will provide the key to Pan-American Airways' new service by cutting travelling time between Miami and Barranquilla, Columbia, from two days to about six hours.

These planes will maintain fast schedules by flying high above bad weather, at about four miles altitude. They have air-conditioned cabins.

NABS TWO NAZI SPIES—His bride of 10 months was "thrilled to death" when she heard that Sgt. R. S. Brennan of Kensington had helped stop two German spies while in France. Brennan, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brennan of Gananoque, is in the Canadian Regiment. He joined five years ago and went overseas with the first contingent in December. His pretty wife, formerly Thelma Faus, is shown with him.

FREE GLASSWARE TONIGHT

All this week with every $1.00 purchase Your Choice Of SUGAR BOWL BUTTER DISH SALT SHAKER BONBON DISH PEPPER SHAKER CREAM JUG SPOON HOLDER

Enman's Drugstore

Summerside L-148.

Kensington And Vicinity

Mr. Charles Cook was a business visitor to Summerside on Tuesday.

Mr. Harry James of Charlottetown was a visitor to Kensington on Tuesday.

Among the business visitors to Charlottetown on Tuesday were Mr. Archibald MacKenzie, Mr. Percy McCarville and Mr. William Cameron.

Mr. Preston Toombs has a number of men busily engaged in erecting a new barn on his farm here.

Mr. Leigh Crane one of our local painters is now busily engaged in painting the residence of Mr. Gordon Glover.

Mr. George Brookins one of our popular business men and sportsman is at the present time compelled to get around with the use of crutches due to a badly wrenched ankle suffered in a bad spill he received on Dominion Day at the Alberton Races when driving Scotty Watson, his own entry in the 227 class. George a general favorite has the sincere wishes of his many friends for a speedy recovery.

A large number of our younger element attended the Dominion Day Dance held in the Marie Leaf Gardens, Summerside, on Monday evening.

The new list brought the total to 25 dead since the 1st Division arrived in England in December, and reduced the missing to 10.

GERMANS

(Continued from page 1)

and southwest England, most of them of the hit-and-run variety.

British Airmen Fight Back

The air history in various bulletins related how Britain's ever-alert airmen took to the skies and fought off the Nazi fliers.

Three Spitfire pilots attacked two Dorniers off the east coast and saw one burst into flames, turn on its back and crash into the sea. The other fled badly damaged.

Off the Aberdeenshire coast Spitfires tackled a bomber believed to be a Heinkel III which was forced down into the sea and then abandoned by its crew after offering stiff resistance. A Junkers 88 also was engaged and downed in the sea off Scotland.

A Dornier "Flying Pencil" was intercepted and downed by a patroling Spitfire off the southeast coast of England. Another enemy bomber was brought down in flames after a brief fight over the sea.

Hurricanes damaged a Heinkel over the English Channel and a Dornier off the east coast in engagements while another Dornier was hit by a hall of machine-gun fire from a fighter off the north-east coast and fell into a cloud.

Caught in terrific anti-aircraft fire one raider unloaded 12 heavy bombs over the poor quarter of a town but only two persons were injured.

Elsewhere, a heavy bomb fell two yards from the air raid shelter of Sir John Anderson, Minister for home security, without damaging it.

British Strike Naas

Britain in turn struck last night at the Nazi island air base of Texel, the Netherlands and at Ummudens in northern Holland. It was announced. Other R. A. F. planes rained the German Ruhr, Westphalia, flew as far north as Denmark and strafed the German-held Belgian port of Zebrugghe.

Flown by the coastal command, Hudson-Loekheed bombers attacked in the Netherlands last night. One Briton brought down a German Messerschmitt fighter with his rear gun, near Amsterdam. The R. A. F. lost one plane.

The German attacks, while possibly aimed at military objectives, fell chiefly on towns and countryside, injuring civilians.

A baby and her grandmother were killed today in a town in Suffolk by a bomb which struck a house. Six persons were hurt.

Women were among the 16 injured in the northern industrial areas of England and Scotland.

A large building was set afire in the southeast. Other bombs fell on dwellings, in gardens, on beaches, in open country and into the sea.

Bitter Air Battles

Bitter air battles were fought, and almost without pause, anti-aircraft batteries and fighting planes were in action.

Five tonight one flight of Spitfire fighters got on the tail of a raider on the southeast coast and

Premier King Tells Commons Plans Incomplete

OTTAWA, July 3.—(CP)—Calling of men for service with the Canadian Defence Forces will not await general registration of citizens, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today.

In reply to a question from G. S. White (Con. Hastings-Peterborough) concerning registration and the time when the first call might be made for defence forces under the Mobilization Act, the Prime Minister said:

"Until the Department of National Defence has made the regulations which it deems essential with respect to the calling up of men, it would be premature on my part to attempt to say just when that calling up will take place."

Asked if there would be a registration before the men were called, Mr. King said, "I think I can say that the calling up of men will not necessarily await registration. As a matter of fact, I think I might say that it will not await registration."

Reports by the committee on registration, presenting a suggested questionnaire and a method of registration are now before the government for decision, Pensions Minister Ian MacKenzie said in an interview.

The minister said he was not at liberty to discuss a report that the questionnaire would secure information from all citizens from 16 to 60 on age, income, qualifications and experience, number of dependents, and that data might be fixed for registration throughout the country.

This report said that the general election machinery with the voters' list used last March 26 might be employed as a basis for registration and that each person who registered would be given a card to prove that he had conformed with the law.

Penalties, it indicated would be provided for failure to register.

Late in the first Great War a registration of Canada's human resources was taken at which persons from 16 to 60, male and female, listed their qualifications. Registration was made at 4,000,000 of offices set up throughout the country for just this purpose and a total of some 5,000,000 persons were listed.

Already, under the direction of Dr. H. M. Tory, head of the technical section of the voluntary registration bureau, some 15,000 names of skilled men have been listed according to qualifications. The Labor Department also has a list of many thousands of skilled workers in the registry of the employment service of Canada.

BRITAIN FIRM

(Continued from page 1)

made against the background of disclosures that Japan's dominant army leaders were complaining of the Government's new "Asiatic sphere" policy.

They were understood to have protested that not even this declaration for Japan's dominance in the Orient—in a sort of far eastern Monroe Doctrine—was sufficiently advanced.

Rather, it was said, they had wanted clear encouragement of Germany in a sort of notice to the world that the redistribution of resources is a pre-condition to general peace.

Says French, English Should Be Compulsory

OTTAWA, July 3.—(CP)—Mastery of both French and English languages should be compulsory in all Canadian schools, T. J. O'Neill (Lib. Kamloops) declared in the House of Commons today.

During his speech in the budget debate Mr. O'Neill spoke of his experience at the international labor conference in Geneva last year where 90 per cent delegates from all parts of the world spoke at least two languages and in most cases the extra language was French.

PORT UNDER MILITARY CONTROL

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—(AP)—The port of Philadelphia went under military control today to the accompaniment of the most stringent regulations since the first Great War. Commander Lester E. Wells of the United States Coast Guard was named captain of the port.

NO. 1 WILLKIE MAN

Wendell Willkie, candidate for the U. S. presidency, has no more ardent supporter than his sister, who listened to the convention proceedings in a St. Catharines hotel room. She is Julia Willkie, employed as a chemical technologist in St. Catharines, Ont.

Standing six feet, one and a half inches, Willkie has never hesitated to speak his mind. Whether attacking Wall St. or the New Deal, which has become his "pet hate" in recent years, he goes into battle, as he terms it with his "dukes up." He says little attention to what he eats, is fond of "rat cheese," and smokes two packages of cigarettes a day. His life in New York has centered around his job and his chief recreations are talking, reading and pig-farming. He enjoys movie "thrillers." It took him seven years to graduate from the University of Indiana, chiefly because he spent so much time on outside work. Willkie and his charming wife, one son, Philip, 21, who failed to graduate from Princeton university this year after being chosen in his class as "most likely to succeed," the strapping and dynamic presidential nominee is shown the way delegates saw him at the convention.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Willkie Goes Into Battle With His "Dukes Up"

Standing six feet, one and a half inches, Willkie has never hesitated to speak his mind. Whether attacking Wall St. or the New Deal, which has become his "pet hate" in recent years, he goes into battle, as he terms it with his "dukes up." He says little attention to what he eats, is fond of "rat cheese," and smokes two packages of cigarettes a day. His life in New York has centered around his job and his chief recreations are talking, reading and pig-farming. He enjoys movie "thrillers." It took him seven years to graduate from the University of Indiana, chiefly because he spent so much time on outside work. Willkie and his charming wife, one son, Philip, 21, who failed to graduate from Princeton university this year after being chosen in his class as "most likely to succeed," the strapping and dynamic presidential nominee is shown the way delegates saw him at the convention.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Liberal M. P.

(Continued from page 1)

clared should be encouraged in every possible manner by government action.

The government had overlooked two sources of revenue when it failed to cut in half the interest rate on the public debt and place a heavy tax on radio and handbill advertising, said Anthony Hynka (ND Vergeville).

J. S. Roy, (Ind Cons. Gaspe) charged the government had failed to bring about sufficient development of natural resources to make Canada as strong as it might be. He urged a coordinated effort among all groups and sections to develop the dominion's potential resources and power.

A. M. Nicholson (C. C. F. MacKenzie) said the government should introduce legislation guaranteeing parity prices to farmers throughout Canada, so agriculture can enjoy a minimum standard of life on something of the same basis as other industries.

Mr. O'Neill said the budget, in several instances, indicated a loss of proportion. When the government maintained statutory pensions for retired public servants running up to $10,000 a year he could not feel that there was an equality of sacrifice in the imposition of the national defence tax on salaries of $600 or more.

WINDSORS EN ROUTE TO LISBON

LISBON, July 3.—(AP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, en route to Lisbon from Badajoz, Spain, were met today at the Portuguese border at Elvas by Secretary William Hogg of the British Embassy. The embassy car brought them here.

ALL FOODS ARE MY FRIENDS NOW

I used to hate the sight of radishes, onions, cucumbers and other acid-forming foods. But now I relish my meals without fear of indigestion because I took a tip from leading doctors and hospitals. I use Maclean Brand Stomach Powder and no longer suffer from agonizing stomach pains!

Be good to your stomach—take Maclean Brand Stomach Powder and eat what you like without paying a penalty.

MACLEAN Brand Stomach Powder

Look for this Signature—Alex. S. Maclean

OTTAWA, July 3.—(CP)—A returned tobed in the House of Commons today showed 127 members in the Canadian Active Service Force, five of whom are attached to the navy and 19 in the air force.

Eight air force chaplains are Roman Catholic, six, Church of England, three United Church, one Presbyterian and one Baptist.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt's expected try for a third term. Willkie voted for Roosevelt in 1932. Six months ago he was a political unknown. At 48, he looks back on a varied life as a farm boy, baker's boy, wheat harvester, oil field worker, soldier, tent hotel proprietor vegetable picker, corn husker, short order cook, high school teacher, lawyer and head of a $1,128,501.778 utilities corporation. When he doubled power sales, the corporation directors offered him an increase in his $75,000-a-year salary. He refused it saying, "That's more than the salary of the president of the United States; no one in America should earn more than the president." Here he takes a few minutes' rest in his hotel room, reading newspaper convention reports, after sweeping to the nomination over Sen. Robert Taft and Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket-buster.

Wendell Willkie, URBINE MAGNATE and former Democrat, is the Republican choice to oppose President Roosevelt