CHAPTER 67 HER BACK TO THE WALL

Dorothy made a pretty picture that morning, seated in a bay-window of her studio, with a green-and-white striped awning to shut out the sun and a background of window-boxes filled with scarlet geraniums.

"How nice of you to be so prompt," she said, as she greeted Farquhar. Her brow was fair and unclouded and her eyes had a look of innocence that made Farquhar wonder how he'd dared accuse her of duplicity.

"I'm afraid I repay your hospitality rather badly by trying to put you on the witness-stand the moment I've broken your bread, but the fact is, I must know certain things. Who are you?"

"And Lila's best friend, now and always."

"I'm sure of that," he remarked dryly. "But why this masquerade?" Dorothy had had time to prepare a lucid explanation.

"That Lila might see you outside of public restaurants, we arranged this masquerade as you call it, since the real Mrs. Ware was not available."

"I see," he said at last. It wouldn't have been proper for Lila to receive me alone in a house from which the mistress was absent, so you came there to play chaperon?"

"Yes," he said at last. It wouldn't have been proper for Lila to receive me alone in a house from which the mistress was absent, so you came there to play chaperon?"

Ups and Downs In Tryon and Vicinity

"Spud" time has once more rolled around and it scarcely seems more than a few (very few) weeks since potato-picking time last year—and yet we are one year older and let us hope wiser.

Mr. and Mrs. Alder Callbeck, who passed the summer very pleasantly with relatives in Tryon and vicinity, left on Monday morning for their home in the Golden West.

Visitors to Summerside on Saturday evening, from Tryon and vicinity were: The Misses Violet Clarke, Katy Carr, Marion Howatt, Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon Clarke, Mrs. Elmer Dawson, Mrs. Donald Bell, and the Messrs. Albert Callbeck, Eldon Lord, Lorne Mabey, and Eldon Dawson.

Miss Ida Collett of Bedeque is visiting her friend, Miss Elma Inman, of Augustine Cove, this week.

Mr. Willard Thomas recently disposed of his 1928 model Chevrolet sedan, and purchased a new Pontiac truck, which he is well pleased with.

Also Messrs. Kenneth McDonald, Roy Dawson and William Rogerson are (so it is reported) expecting new Ford trucks within the next few days, which will doubtless come in handy this Fall with so many potatoes to be hauled to market.

A motor party from Bedeque, Mrs. Henderson, Miss Sophie Henderson, Mrs. W. T. Downes and daughter, Miss Helen, and Miss Pearl Ramsay, were visitors to Tryon on Saturday, where they attended the school fair.

Miss Helen Holland, E.N., who has spent the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Holland, of West Tryon, left last week for Boston, Mass., where she will resume her duties.

Miss Edith Lord and Mr. William Lea, of the staff of R. T. Holman Ltd., were Sunday visitors to Tryon at their respective homes.

The many friends of Mrs. Wendell Lea will regret to learn that she is quite seriously ill and is undergoing treatment in the P. E. Island Hospital. It is hoped that she will have a speedy recovery to health and strength.

Mr. Arthur Orgon, of Mt. Allison College, Sackville, N.B., has conducted services in the United church pastorate at Tryon and Crapaud, during the absence of our regular minister, the Rev. G. Somers, who is visiting his brother in Western Canada.

Mr. Samuel Gillis, of Rose Valley, made a flying visit to Tryon on Sunday evening.

Well, I guess that's all the news for this time. Maybe if I go to bed and rest I could think of some more. Let's go!

SINGS AT 106 (British United Press.) CLELAND, (Lanarkshire.) Sept. 20.—The oldest woman in Scotland, and probably the oldest in the British Isles, is living in this remote Scottish village.

She is Mrs. Mary Paterson, and she has just had a birthday party, at which she delighted her guests—all of whom were more than eighty years of age—by singing her favorite love song, "I'm Sitting on the Stile, Mary."

Mrs. Paterson was born in Ireland in 1822, when George IV. was on the throne, and has lived in Scotland for more than a hundred years.

"I enjoyed the time when I was a girl," she said, "but these modern girls have an even better time." Her grandfather was 108 years old when he died, and her grandmother 103, so longevity is evidently hereditary in the family.

Why is there always so much bravery displayed after the danger is past.

SULTAN OF MUSCAT CHANGES HIS ATTIRE

London, Sept. 20.—The Sultan of Muscat and Oman arrived in London Saturday to be the guest of the Government during a month's visit. He had shaved off his beard and doffed his royal robes and one who knew his Highness, Sayid, Talmur Bin Faisal Bin Turki, in Muscat, would hardly have recognized him there. The crowds which met his train saw instead of a bejeweled monarch, a neatly-dressed visitor attired in grey morning suit and silk hat.

Muscat and Oman is a rather extensive portion of the Arabian coast, considered to be the hottest country in the world. The Sultan expects to spend some time in Ireland and Scotland. He is a cricket fan and will be taken to the oval, Tuesday and will see the season's final match there.
