THE MORNING GUARDIAN

FRIDAY, JULY 24, 1903

The New England seaside resorts complain that the mosquito pest is worse than in any previous year.

Regina is about to establish water works, sewerage and electric lighting, all to be owned by the city, at an estimated cost of $200,000.

Some time ago after the fire Ottawa City Council resolved that "the lumber piles must go." But the piles are still there, as dangerous as ever and the mill-owners decline to move them.

British ship-builders claim that there is a strong contrast between the thoroughness and durability of their work and that of the American shipyards. In proof of this they cite the case of the two crack American liners, Philadelphia and New York.

If the railway policy of the Government is adhered to Mr. Blair will oppose it in Parliament. If it passes Parliament it will then become the principal issue at the general election, and Mr. Blair will be practically compelled to oppose the measure before the people.

The steam turbine is coming rapidly to the front as an improvement on the ordinary steam engine for propelling ships. The new torpedo boat destroyers which have made such remarkable speed, breaking all ocean records, have turbine engines.

The new substance, radium, which possesses such remarkable powers, is described as of a brown color, resembling granulated tobacco in appearance. The little radium so far produced is extremely costly, representing millions of dollars to the pound weight.

A few years ago the hopes of those in search of a language adapted for universal use were based on Volapuk, but now one seldom hears it mentioned or sees the name in print. A new universal language had been taken its place and is known as Esperanto.

The powder puff may help to hide the ravages of time but it avails little to hide the ravages of disease. When the face is disfigured by eruptions, the treatment must go below the surface to the blood, which is corrupt and impure.

SPONGE

Marks the dividing line between the animal and vegetable life. What we call sponges are the skeletons of what science calls compound infusorians.

SPONGE

When first gathered, is an unsightly pulpy mass that must be put through several processes before ready for use. It is often spoiled in the making.

SPONGES

Must be bought carefully. We buy carefully that you may buy safely. Our Sponges are rightly graded and, quality considered, our prices are always the lowest to be had.
