DANCE ENJOYED—A most enjoyable soiree was held at the Casino Monday night under the auspices of St. Charles Auxiliary. A large number enjoyed the dancing while the card tables were also filled. During the evening refreshments were served. An enjoyable feature of the evening was the vote taken for "Miss Charlottetown" which resulted in a tie vote between Misses Mary Moore, Mary Blanchard and Adele McLellan. Miss Moore won the draw and modestly received the golden crown amid great applause. The chapesses for the enjoyable event were: Mrs. (Dr.) Croken, Mrs. (Dr.) Mc Guigan and Mrs. J. J. Johnson.

CARD OF THANKS—I hereby desire to thank all friends and neighbors who gathered and by hard labour succeeded in saving my dwelling house and other small buildings during the recent bad fire which destroyed my two large barns, together with all the horses, two cows, machinery, etc. I also take this opportunity of thanking the public for the very valuable contributions which have already been given me, in cash, seed, etc. Messrs Hyndman and Co., Insurance agents, also have my sincere thanks for prompt settlement of all claims. Signed W. S. McNeill, Fairview.

Gloria Swanson Scores Triumph

Charming Star Makes Hit in "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew"

Gloria Swanson not only upheld the claim that she is the best dressed woman on the screen, at the Prince Edward Theatre last evening, but she showed a greater depth of emotion than has characterized any of her former pictures. The occasion was the initial presentation of her new Paramount photoplay, "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew," which, adapted from a novel by David Lisle, was given a most forceful direction by Sam Wood.

It will be recalled that Miss Swanson went to Paris recently for the purpose of purchasing garments for use in her forthcoming Paramount productions, and it is evident that the picture presented last evening bore the first fruits of this trip. At all events, it was the most lavishly dressed picture seen here in many months. In the role of a woman tricked into a divorce by her husband, and separated from the child she loved more than life itself, the star was given the greatest emotional opportunity of her career, and she has made the most of it.

Conrad Nagel is quite effective as leading man in the role of a young novelist, who alone believed in "Mrs. Bellew," while Robert Cain does a striking piece of work as the despotic husband. The two Moore brothers, Pat and Mickey appear as "Lance Bellew" as he was at two different ages, and both are all that one usually expects of them. Others that stand out in a splendid cast are Herbert Standing, June Elvidge, Richard Wayne and Helen Dunbar.

Four Valuable Gold Properties Now Under Single Management

Claims numbering 22 aggregating 840 acres merged. Arrangement fair and equitable. Reasonably capitalized

The property of the Matachewan Canadian Gold, Limited, on which additional development work is to be proceeded with at an early date, comprises 22 mining claims of 840 acres, which were brought together under one management on a valuation basis fair and acceptable to all owners interested, according to a statement issued by the President, Senator G. D. Robertson. The price paid, he added, was equitable from the standpoint of acreage and development work done.

The properties now included under the one management sure 80 acres owned by Matachewan Gold 440 by Matachewan Rand Gold, 160 by a syndicate of which Joseph Qualey was the manager and 160 owned by H. H. Sutherland.

If these various properties had retained separate entities, it would possibly have meant four different companies operating with a total combined capital of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, each of which would have to go through the same process of financing to carry development work to the point where production could be attained. It would also have meant separate staffs and duplication of overhead cost and effort.

The merger has a capitalization of $5,000,000, of which $1,700,000 remained in the treasury for future development work. The various interests which entered the merger received 3,250,000 shares for their property. It is considered, taking into account the amount of property involved and the amount of development work already done, that is one of the most reasonably capitalized propositions in the mining field.

"Broke," Says Doctor Lorenz

(Headlines in a morning paper)

BY THOS. A. BUCKNER, VICE-PRESIDENT, NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

Dr. Lorenz, the famous Austrian surgeon who operated a number of years ago on Lolita Armour and brought her back to health, spoke the other evening on the economic condition of our country, saying that the nation was dependent on the bounty of America.

In his thirty-five years of medical practice, he said, he had saved $25,000 which had now dwindled in value to $1.50, forcing him to come to the United States to try to "keep my chimney smoking during my old age."

His expression beautifully pictures what life insurance does, or may do, for those who take this sensible and systematic way of laying aside, little by little, as the years go by, a fund that grows and accumulates like a snowball rolling down hill, finally becoming at the end of the period a veritable comforter and sustainer that will accomplish for those who take it just what the famous doctor hopes at this late day to do—keep the chimney smoking during his old age.

The doctor is an avowed expression. No finer picture of what life insurance means could be put in words. It "keeps the chimney smoking" as one goes down the western slope, providing bodily and mental comfort, relief and sustenance in one's declining years. We thank Doctor Lorenz for his apt expression.
