There was also an interesting boxing bout between two lads of the parish which ended in a draw. The sports are to be completed next Monday night when the Freetown tug of war team will again meet Albany. On last Monday Freetown did not have their full team present but they will be there next Monday night. S.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. ANNIE G. McDONALD

There passed peacefully away early Saturday morning, October 22nd, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. L. Cotton, Kensington, Mrs. Annie G. McDonald.

Seldom can we record the passing of a home loving and unassuming character such as Mrs. McDonald and yet feel that at many points all over our Province from East to West the news of her death will be deeply regretted. Being of a general disposition, she was a favorite with young and old, with a ready greeting and a cheery smile for everyone.

Although laid aside from the active duties of life for some two and a half years, she maintained a lively interest in the welfare of church and community, not only in Kensington, where for the past ten years she made her home with her daughter, but also following with keen interest the activities in other parts of the province, where it had been her lot to live. Especially interested in Missions she held office in the Woman's Missionary Society, Central Lot 16, from the time of its organization until she left to reside in Kensington.

Mrs. McDonald spent the first ten years of her life in Summerside where she was born seventy-two years ago, the daughter of Robert McLaurin and Ann Glover. The late Robert McLaurin was born in Kilcregan, Scotland, coming to Canada with his family when a lad of about fourteen. He followed the trade of his father, that of ship building and was well known in Summerside in its early days. Ann Glover, his wife, was born in Kensington, where many of the name still live. About sixty-two years ago, Mr. McLaurin moved to Lot 16, taking over the duties of his father's farm, known as the Ferry Farm. There, Mrs. McDonald with her only sister spent a happy girlhood. Her short married life was spent at Rice Point, the home of her husband, the late John B. McDonald, who predeceased her some forty-two years ago. After her husband's death, Mrs. McDonald returned to her old home at the Ferry, where with loving care she attended her parents in their declining years and reared her family, also a niece and nephew who had been orphaned very early in life. They, although living across the border and unable to be present at the funeral, paid loving tribute to her memory by sending flowers. She loved flowers and lay sleeping beneath a mass of bloom, loving offerings from friends and neighbors.

She is survived by a family of three daughters and one son, Mrs. W. L. Cotton, Kensington, Mrs. Jas. A. Ramsay, Central, Lot 16; Mrs. Geo. L. Cotton, Winnipeg, and Corp. J. Robert McDonald, of the R. C. M. P., all of whom were home to see her laid to rest beside her home to the Baptist Church and was very largely attended. S.

"Two-Piece" Revived

NEW YORK, Nov. 1—October, before it disappears may be written down as the month which brought a revival of two-piece dresses. They are being seen these days in all the smartest places. The two-piece models of the current revival succeeded in combining smartness with utility, and appear in such varied fabrics as knitted wool and crinkly crepe. High-collared necklines usually distinguish them, and one smart model from Chanel in a local shop has attracted attention with a high swirling collar treatment accented in white, with wide drop shoulders and sleeve fullness massed at the elbows.

One young debutante at a Wednesday matinee wore a two-piece knitted dress in a striking gold combination, with a high neckline, a yoke detail which gave width below the shoulders, and a back-closing blouse with sleeve fullness between elbow and wrist.

Novely knitted and sheer woolen dresses seem to be gaining in popularity, having the advantage of being both chic and practical for school, bus and sportswear. Not only can they be worn without a coat, but in two-piece models of properly chosen shades they may be worn equally well under fur or fur-trimmed coats.

Knitted details also are becoming increasingly important in relation to woollen dresses and suits. Knitted blouses and collar and cuff details all themselves smartly with the new woollens.

Green, red, blue and brown combinations continue in favor as the smartest of fall colors.

Wife In Quandy

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1 — Describing herself as a "woman without a country," Mrs. George Ansell is torn today between an earnest desire to become a citizen and an intense conviction that for the sake of the career of her husband, a brilliant young composer, she should be with him in France right now.

Deprived of her Hungarian citizenship when she married the composer of "Transatlantique" and "Helen Retires," Mrs. Ansell — her first name is Boske — is here today in an effort to determine whether federal officials might be able to speed the processes of naturalization.

The earliest hearing on her application, she was advised cannot take place before February. She must remain here to establish legal residence, and in the meantime her husband is in France on a Guggenheim Fellowship, virtually the only means of support for the young couple, Mrs. Ansell said.

If Ansell returns to America for the length of time necessary for her to establish her citizenship residence, she said, the fellowship may lapse and with it their means of subsistence.

Novel Egg Canapes

4 hard boiled eggs.
1 salted herring or 2 kippered herrings.
1/4 cup thin cream.
1 tablespoon vinegar.
Mix yolks of boiled eggs with chopped herring. Then moisten the mixture with cream. Add the vinegar for tartness and flavor. Stuff the egg whites with this filling and let chill. When thoroughly cold, slice thin and serve on rounds of bread or toast. Garnish with rings of stuffed olives. This makes about sixteen canapes.
