Prince Edward Island Officer Describes
Horrors Of German Concentration Camp

Three Canadian Officers, Flt. Lieut. Ian MacKenzie on the left, the cruelest doctors in Germany. A load of bodies in rear.

Another grave crowded with bodies.

Flight Lieut. D. Ian MacKenzie of the R. C. A. F., attached to the Second British Army with a unit of the R. A. F., son of Major MacKenzie of this City, has been mentioned in despatches. He was in charge of the unit escorting His Majesty around the lines on his visit to Holland. His Majesty afterwards sent for Lieut. MacKenzie and congratulated him on the fine appearance of his escort. The Lieut. went into Belsen Horror Concentration Camp of which he wrote: "A person could not begin to explain the horrors of this camp. People die while you are watching them. I have seen several graves similar to the ones pictures of which have appeared in the press. It was horrible. I think every S.S. trooper and the Gestapo should be killed; in fact I often think the world would be better if we exterminated the entire German race now to prevent any repetition of such bestial horrors. It is a cruel thought, but some of the sights I have seen in this camp makes me feel that way. This camp and its horrors cannot be explained, one has to see it. Then after you have seen it you wonder if what you have seen is real." There were three Canadian officers with the unit, and all were of the same opinion as Lieut. MacKenzie regarding its horror. The bodies were gathered by the Gestapo and S.S. troops and thrown in lime pits for burial, men, women and children.

Died In Action
Mr. H. E. Sims, Malpeque Road, has received official notice from Ottawa that his son, Flight Sergeant George Robert Sims, is now for official purposes presumed to have died on active service overseas on July 15, 1944.

Flt.-Sgt. Sims, who was in his 25th year, went overseas in the R. C. A. F. from Winnipeg, Sept. 10, 1943, and saw a great deal of active service over Germany. Before going into the services Flt.-Sgt. Sims was employed in the Bank of Nova Scotia, Kensington, and received many promotions going from P. E. I. to Ferry Sound, Ont., to work for the Defence Industries Ltd., and was later transferred to Winnipeg as Assistant Supervisor for the same company.

Many friends hold fond memories of the deceased who made his home with his grandmother, Mrs. Lydia Sims in Kensington. He leaves besides his father, one brother, Mr. William R. Sims, and three sisters in this city, and his aged grandmother in Kensington.

IN MEMORIAM
MRS. LELAND M. STEEVES
There passed peacefully away on Sunday, May 21, in the P. E. I. Hospital, Leith Mary Ward, beloved wife of Leland M. Steeves and dear mother of Mrs. L. E. Steeves, Taylor Village, N.B. Her husband, Mr. L. M. Steeves, died in the hospital on the previous Tuesday for observation and in indifferent health only recently. She was a devoted wife and mother and shortly her usual good health would be restored. Little did her family and loved ones realize that her sojourn on earth was over when drawing rapidly to its close. On the Sabbath, which quietly ushered in a new week, her peaceful spirit was released from its earthly bondage and as the evening shadows lengthened, softly and silently winged its way to Him, who "leadeth beside still waters."

Possessed of a kind and generous nature, she was always affectionate and loyal to those who treasured her friendship. Hospitable and charitable in her home, she was interested and helpful in community affairs. Her sudden passing therefore occasioned much regret, not only in her own family and in other parts of the Island, but also in Moncton, her husband's native town, where she was well known and favorably known. Some of her earlier years were spent with relatives in the U. S. and she later resided in the village of Kingston, about ten years ago the couple came to the Island to take up residence in the village of Kingston, not far from her childhood home. It is in this place her presence will be sadly missed. Neighbors will look in vain for her engaging smile and they shall also miss her bright and encouraging words.

The funeral was held from her former home on Wednesday, May 30, 1945, and the large number of relatives, friends and acquaintances, from near and far who gathered to pay their last respects testified to the esteem in which she was held. The service was conducted by the Rev. J. R. Skinner of Cornwall United Church, assisted by the Rev. A. E. Todd of the North River Baptist Church, both of whom brought messages of comfort and hope to the bereaved family and friends. Her favorite hymns, she sang so sweetly in life were chosen for her funeral service. "The Lord Is My Shepherd," "Rock of Ages" and "Aidie With Me." Burial was in the cemetery at Kingston and there, near the home where she spent the most of her happy married life, all that was mortal of a kind and dutiful daughter, an affectionate wife and sister was tenderly laid to rest by loving hands "till the day dawn and the shadows flee away." The pall bearers were six of her cousins: Cecil, Elmer, Chester, Ira and Louis Ward, Charlottetown, and Earl Ward of Kingston.

Cornwall
(By F. G. MacArthur)
MONCTON, N. B. — That old maxim: "If in need of a good shave go to a good barber" didn't mean much in my case, for when one finds oneself in a strange city there's no telling the good barber from the bad one.

My fighting stars were with me, however, for dropping into the first shop which caught my eye, I can't say I was disappointed. I had a long and pleasant experience under the hand of Samuel MacLeod. MacLeod not only proved to be a good barber, but a good judge of the horses as we were, and his following race-tracks and I soon discovered that he knew the game from A to Z; knew the horses and the boys who drove 'em — our Col. D. A. MacKinnon and Joe O'Brien were as well known to him as they are to your correspondent.

My next call was at The Royal Oak — fruit and novelty store operated by G. D. Montgomery, a former resident of Summerside. Mr. Montgomery claims kinship with our late beloved Lucy Maude Montgomery, and that in itself is quite a distinction. He kindly invited me to accompany him and his wife on an auto trip in the country, but owing to the severe thunder and lightning storm which struck up about the hour of our contemplated departure, I was obliged to cancel the invitation. It has always been a source of regret to me that I happen to belong to that class of mortals who must of necessity keep dry, at least on the outside. Towards late afternoon the sun came from under his cloud and I nosed downtown to police headquarters, where I met Lieut. Freddie Murphy. Fred has been on Moncton's police force for twenty-six years and, according to the information gleaned from citizens, he is a very popular and efficient officer. He formerly belonged to Millview, P.E.I. That he never forgets the land of his birth can be gathered from the fact that he always manages to visit the Island during Old Home Week. I had only reached home when
