

CANADIANS OF NEW ENGLAND

The Chief Element Among the Foreign-born. City of Boston's Big Contingent. Many Captains of Industry Among Them.

BOSTON, Dec. 17. — If the Canadian population of the New England States could be induced to pack up and move back to Canada for the purpose of founding a new city, it would be the largest in the Dominion. Montreal would be little more than half its size. In fact, it would be greater than the city of Boston, for it is now estimated there are 700,000 Canadians resident in the New England States.

giving the percentage and nationality of the foreign-born in Massachusetts. In this table Canada ranks higher than any other country, even Ireland, which has led until now, having to take second place.

Such a city could be equipped from the ranks of Canadians here with men and women from every profession, every trade, every line of business needed. Stephen O'Meara, Commissioner of Boston police, who is an old Prince Edward Island boy, could take charge of the police department; lawyers, doctors would be found in plenty; and more than enough dentists; carpenters and builders fortunately about among Canadians here, with architects and house specialists of all sorts.

president of the International formerly of Prince Edward Island, Club, and a member last year of the Senate of Massachusetts, with Chas. H. McIntyre, a prominent Boston lawyer from New Brunswick, would direct the political affairs of this city. There would be plenty of nurses, young women for all kinds of work. In offices or elsewhere. Some actors, a few artists, newspapermen galore, and not many out of the whole lot that would not be glad to be back in Canada.

This is the largest element in Massachusetts. In 1875 the Irish headed the list with 55.99 per cent., Canada having contributed at that date only 20.54 per cent. In 1845 Ireland still led with a percentage of 32.86. England having then, as now, not more than 10 per cent. Today Ireland takes second place with 25.75 per cent. against Canada's 30.86. Of the native-born in the state, however, 600,000 are of parents born in Ireland.

"ARMADA'S" CRUISE HAS CAUSED "FLEETITIS"

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—The combined salaries of 17,000 ministers for one year would be needed to pay the expenses of the present cruise around the world of the United States fleet, according to Chas. H. Beals, of the American Peace Society, of Boston, who is in Chicago.
