The SNAPSHOT GUILD Questions on Lighting

TAKING proper exposure for granted, right lighting, whether it be daylight or artificial, is the principal quality which distinguishes the photographic work of art from the ordinary haphazard snapshot.

Suppose we are photographing a person, do we take the pains to avoid harsh front lighting, which makes our subject squint and casts deep shadows into eyes and from the nose.

Do we observe the tone of the principal object of interest? If the object is dark do we note whether it is in such deep shadow that it is in danger of merging with the background when the negative is developed and the print made?

light to an almost unbelievable degree. When working with artificial light, they may use thousands of watts on such a seemingly easily photographed subject as a basket of eggs.

Obviously, there can be no rigid rules for selecting or arranging light effects, considering the infinite variety of picture subjects, often quite differently affected by similar light conditions.

But there is one general rule, and that is to seek contrast in the high lights and shadows that compose the outline, substance and background of the principal object of interest.

Winnipeg, Jan. 20—(CP)—Bursts of selling that found few buyers around to take up the slack imparted pronounced weakness to wheat prices on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

Today's export sales of Canadian wheat totalled only 250,000 bushels, insufficient to absorb the offerings as weary holders dumped their wheat into the market.

GRAIN

Winnipeg, Jan. 20—(CP)—Bursts of selling that found few buyers around to take up the slack imparted pronounced weakness to wheat prices on the Winnipeg grain exchange today.

The close was unchanged to 5-8 cent lower after a session in which values fluctuated widely within a 2 1-2-cent range.

Today's export sales of Canadian wheat totalled only 250,000 bushels, insufficient to absorb the offerings as weary holders dumped their wheat into the market.

Predictions of severe cold weather caused anxiety about domestic winter wheat. This was the case in particular regarding central areas where there has recently been much rain.

INDIAN RIVER W. I.

The January meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. MacDonald.

Meeting opened with It's A Good Time to Get Acquainted. Nine members responded to roll call with a description of their wedding dress.

The minutes of the December meeting were read. It was reported that $9.50 was made on the Christmas concert.

Mrs. Wm. MacDonald reported having visited two sick people in the district. Mrs. Edgar Hickey and Mary Shea were appointed to visit the sick for the next month.

Some correspondence was read and a motion was carried in favor of donating two pairs of pillow cases to the Prince County Hospital.

One questionnaire was filled out. Naming a tree in our vicinity was selected as a tree to be named for the next meeting, which will be held at the home of Mrs. John A. MacLellan.

Lunch was then served by the hostess and meeting closed with God Save the King.

HAZELBROOK W. I. FLOATSMAN AND JETSMAN

The regular meeting of the Hazelbrook Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Holden Wood on Tuesday, January 14th.

Meeting opened in usual way followed by reports of different committees. Sick committee's bill of $2.70 for flowers sent Mrs. Cosdy was presented and paid.

Discussion took place as to holding a parlor social in the near future. definite arrangements to be made later. Two members joined the Institute, making a total of sixteen.

Mrs. Russell Jones invited February meeting roll call to be answered by naming a premier of a province of Canada.

Collection amounted to 85 cents. The meeting then adjourned, followed by a delicious lunch, after which contests and a musical program was enjoyed.

Hundreds of old boatmen and retired fishermen spend the winter looking for treasure on Britain's beaches, says the London Daily Express.

Sometimes they may search from dawn until dusk for days without finding anything.

But when there has been a storm or a shipwreck in the neighborhood, their finds may range from a tin of soap to a case of spirits.

Timber, coal and other useful odds and ends do a great deal to help a poor family through the winter.

PEACE In our occupations try to possess your soul in peace. It is not a good plan to be in haste to perform any action that it may soon be over. On the contrary you should accustom yourself to do whatever you have to do with tranquility in order that you may retain the possession of yourself and of settled peace.
