—MALPEQUE UNITED CHURCH —Rev. James Ramsay, D. D., pastor of Moncton United Church occupied the pulpit at both services on Sunday last. Rev. Mr. Ramsay chose as his theme, "What good is the Church? What has it done for me? There would be no Christian Institution, no Civilization, no Democracy, no Christians to-day but for the Church. We owe a debt to the Church, said the learned speaker, we shall never discharge, but God only can discharge that debt. We delight to get together, and as long as we are human we crave the fellowship. The Church freed the world from slavery and built up what we call Civilization. Human life would indeed be very black, but for the Church; which has produced the kind of men the world needs. I call on you to warm up to your Church as members, may we be lifted up mentally and spiritually. Christ loved the Church so much that he gave his life for the Church. Do We?" A duet "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning" was sung with expression and feeling by Mrs. Wallace MacNutt and Mrs. Joseph MacGregor. The evening subject by Dr. Ramsay was the City Four-Square. Are we living our lives four-square? The length of life is not measured in years, but a broadened life. Are we living a balanced life to reach the goal? Young people get ready now to go forward, and you will be a complete success. When men and women crown Him their King, then brotherly love on earth will be manifested. Will you see to it that you live on the life Four-Square? Receive the spirit of Jesus length, breadth, and height of Heaven. Admit this Proportionate Person in your life. The choir sang the Anthem "My Redeemer". Malpeque congregation happily welcome Dr. Ramsay, who was brought up in this community.—Con.

assassination and violence continue in the occupied zone.

De Brinon gave this dramatic account of the affair:—

"The Marseillaise just had been sung for the first time in the occupied zone since the armistice.

"I had left the barracks. Laval and Deat were behind me. Suddenly five shots rang out, three in rapid succession followed by two more.

"I turned and saw Laval stumbling along and holding his side, with legionnaires all round him.

"I called my car quickly and rushed Laval to the Municipal Hospital. In the other car we put Deat who never stopped protesting: 'It's nothing it's nothing'."

Other reports said that when Laval was reeling toward de Brinon's car a crowd shouted, "Death to him! Death to him!"

Laval was struck four times, some reports said. The most serious wounds were in the region of the throat and just over the heart.

Deat was struck near the throat and one bullet lodged in an intestine. It was not until early today that physicians dared to operate upon Deat, the man who is known throughout France as a pro-German pacifist and who penned the "Why Die for Danzig?" article just before the war broke out.

Surgeons sent by German authorities operated upon Laval and although in a weakened condition, the former premier and one-time heir to Marshal Petain's Vichy leadership was able to telephone his wife.

Mme. Laval left her Chateldon estate near Vichy at once for Versailles.

The other two men wounded were identified as Colonel Drux, commander of the barracks, and a legionnaire named Besset.

Collette, a native of Calvados, a Normandy department, was said to have hidden beneath a balcony biding his time until Laval, Deat and the others left the speaker's platform to pass near him en route to the door.

The setting of the shooting was not far from where allied leaders signed the Versailles Peace Treaty June 28, 1919.

Laval had delivered a pep-talk to the anti-Soviet volunteers who have been promised good pay and new uniforms with red, white and blue arm bands stamped with the word: "France."

Laval has had no official status since Marshal Petain ousted him as vice-premier in Vichy last December supposedly for going over the Marshal's head in dealing with German collaborators.

But he nevertheless has been in constant touch with German occupation authorities in an influential behind-the-scenes capacity.

Deat, a former air minister who moved steadily to the right since his rise as a pacifist left-wing orator, sat beside Laval. He is editor of the reconstituted Paris newspaper L'Ouevre and has prodded the Vichy regime consistently for not moving fast enough along the road to a "new order" with Germany.

Observe 100th Anniversary of Port Hill Parish

The 100th anniversary of the Port Hill Anglican Parish was observed yesterday in the century old church at Port Hill, when a marble tablet was unveiled and dedicated to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the church which was built in 1841 by the early settlers. The service was held in the old church and the marble tablet unveiled there by Edmund Birch, the oldest member of the congregation.

Ven. Archdeacon G. R. Harrison, rector of St. Mary's Church, Summerside, dedicated the tablet and gave a short address speaking of the steadfastness of the early settlers in their Christian faith and of the rich heritage which they left for the people of Port Hill on whose shoulders lies the responsibility and privilege to see that the church is maintained and extended for the glory of God.

Rev. Dr. H. H. Walsh of Dartmouth, N. S., a son of the late George Walsh of the Port Hill parish gave a short address on the early history of the parish. Rev. G. Stavert Tanton, rector, conducted the service and spoke briefly.

There was a very large attendance many coming from other parishes for the occasion. The ladies served a delicious supper in the new shed nearby later in the afternoon. The congregations of Lot 11 and Ellerslie attended and assisted in entertaining the visitors. —S.

surroundings would have been "vacated automatically."

The witness said he did not favor the use of force to evacuate strikers from the plant itself, but did favor "the use of force to clear the factory surroundings so that those who wanted to work could have entered the plant unmolested."

Labelle, whose testimony took up most of the day's sitting, said that in his opinion the strike was caused by the "dissatisfaction of the men with wages and working conditions."

"I am of the opinion that there was no outside intervention and that the strike was spontaneous." Explaining that the men get paid on the eighth and 23rd day of each month, Labelle said that the small pay cheque the men received on the eve of July 24th, when the strike began, was in his opinion the cause of the strike.

"The cheque was small," he said, "because the bonus the men receive for production was lower than usual and because several new deductions were made. The unemployment insurance tax was taken off for the first time and the national defence tax rate was increased from two to five per cent and from five to seven per cent. Besides the taxes, there were deductions for insurance and the pension fund."

"I have the greatest confidence that there is no subversive element among the workers. The continuous inquiries we make have never revealed any outside elements or agitators in the factory. We take all precautions so that there are no agitators among our workers."

On two or three occasions, he said, company officials received information about individuals "with a tendency for subversive activities." In each case an investigation was made and the men were fired.

"At the present time," he testified," there are 141 non-British subjects from European countries working in the plant along with 30 citizens of the United States. Of 2,158 workers in the aluminum plant, 95 per cent of them are French-Canadians."

Interpreting The War

struggle well into the autumn. Execution of the Nazi threat to raze the second Soviet city in a manner of Warsaw and Belgrade may be a long and costly undertaking.

To a degree which the Russians have carefully kept secret, the ground and anti-aircraft defences of Leningrad have been reinforced substantially since Hitler came to power in Germany and put the finger on Red Russia as the Nazis' ultimate foe.

The nearby island base of Kronstadt, which guards the Baltic Sea approach, has been made as nearly impregnable as Russian engineers knew how.

Vorosilov has had weeks to prepare bunkers, barricades and batteries for the defence of the city itself.

The northern wing commander is credited with a force of 1,000,000 men aside from civilians from the city's 3,200,000 population who have rallied to Leningrad's defence.

Concentration there of the manufacture of munitions, machinery, precision tools and other vital products makes Leningrad a military prize second in importance only to the Ukraine, aside from political and other considerations.

The city could not be given up without imperilling the whole Red army's main defence line, of which it is the northern anchor.

Of vital importance too is the fate of the Soviet Baltic sea fleet, which is tied up directly with that of Kronstadt and Leningrad. Capture or destruction of this force would make the strategic Baltic a complete axis lake and solve many of the invaders' transport difficulties.

Whispering Campaign Under way?

MONTREAL, Aug. 27 —(CP) — Ernest Bertrand, Liberal member of Parliament for Montreal Laurier, said in a broadcast address tonight that a "whispering campaign to the effect that we are now ruining ourselves to save Bolshevism is going around in certain quarters."

"I have been asked by supposedly intelligent persons what Russia's participation was going to cost us," he added. "These intelligent persons could not see what a tremendous advantage it is going to be for our cause."

The address, over the National Network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, was the second by Mr. Bertrand on fifth column activities. Last Wednesday he read excerpts from documents which he said had been seized before the war from an "agent" of one of the axis governments.

In tonight's broadcast, Mr. Bertrand said that the problems of the communistic element "somewhat changes face" now that Russia is fighting alongside the Allies.

"Our sympathy to invaded Russia is being shown in a tangible way. The whole British Empire and the United States do realize that Hitler is the common enemy of the three parties. But because Hitler has chosen to attack the Russian bear before turning all of his mighty brutal forces against England is no reason to sacrifice our sacred cause to Bolshevism."

Insofar as the Defence of Canada regulations are concerned, said Mr. Bertrand, the "new" situation will have to be solved with "only one object in view, the safety of the state."

Every case should be examined on its own merit. The militant communist against Canada's war effort two months ago might still be dangerous to the safety of the state. Public opinion should not be led astray by communist newspapers, pamphlets or other forms of propaganda.

"We all know the self-styled loyal leader, suffering persecution at the hands of what he calls imperialist state, who overnight becomes a bitter anti-Fascist. Is he a militant anti-democrat? This is the question."

Well known Island native Dies at Montreal

There passed away in the Royal Victoria Hospital on Tuesday night, Mrs. D. R. Morrison of Summerside after a short illness. Mrs. Morrison was born at Ross Corner and was the daughter of the late Murdock Ross of that place.

After receiving her education Mrs. Morrison went to the Royal Victoria Hospital to train for a nurse, she continued nursing there and afterwards became matron of the Prince Edward Island Hospital, Charlottetown, and later was matron of the Prince County Hospital, Summerside, resigning her position there to marry Mr. D. R. Morrison of Summerside.

Mrs. Morrison had exceptional ability and was very highly thought of by the medical profession and fulfilled her duties as matron in the two leading Island hospitals with a very high degree of efficiency. Nurses who were privileged to train under her will always remember her for her kindliness and cheery smile which brightened many a sickroom. Mrs. Morrison had many personal friends who will learn with much regret of her passing.

Mrs. Morrison had been in poor health for the last two years and for sometime after her husband's death had spent her winters either in Florida or Montreal. Last winter she spent in Montreal, returning in May to her old home in Bedeque. Shortly after she became ill and returned to Montreal for an operation from which she never fully recovered.

These are left to cherish her memory: two brothers, Rev. Theodore Ross of Black River, N. B., and Mr. George Ross in Calgary, two sisters, Mrs. Cogswell in western Canada and Mrs. MacCutchern of Vancouver, B. C.—S.

the lower Ukraine thus would be flooded.)

Russia has acknowledged the fall of both Smolensk and Gomel to the Germans but the communique indicated the Red army still has its lines in those general areas.

A tremendous toll was exacted of the Germans in the Gomel fighting, Maj.-Gen. I. Berezovsky declared in the first detailed study of the battle. He said the Nazis lost 80,000 killed and wounded men before they could take the city, which then was empty of its civilian and martial population.

Both Leningrad, where the Red army commander has appealed for a civilian army and where redoubts have been thrown up for street fighting, and Odessa are working continually on defence measures.

Front-line Russian dispatches last night said the Germans were driven far back after standing for more than a month in the outskirts of "K."

The city was not identified except by the initial. (It might be Kiev.)

This account was published in Izvestia, the official government newspaper. Izvestia also published a radio telephone conversation between its editors and the secretary of the Communist party of besieged Odessa.

"The factories are working full blast and producing even better than usual because of the high spirit of the workers," the secretary said.

Princess Juliana On surprise visit To Saint John

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Aug. 27 — (CP)— Crown Princess Juliana of the Netherlands slipped quietly into Saint John tonight on a vacation motor tour. Accompanied by her secretary, W. Van Tets, and his wife, they motored here from Pictou, N. S.

A large number of spectators were disappointed when the Princess, unaware that her expected arrival had become known, entered the hotel by a side entrance.

Charmed with the countryside she motored through, she later paused to say: "I am happy to be here and I am sorry that my children are not with me. But I am speaking for them as well when I say your happy life here, free from the horrors of war, should be an example to build a happier world."

When she learned of the disappointed spectators, Princess Juliana expressed her surprise and regret. She announced that her party would be leaving Saint John tomorrow at 10.30 a. m. when another opportunity would be afforded those interested in obtaining a glimpse of her.

SEEK MAN'S BODY

HALIFAX, Aug. 27—(CP)—The body of Allen Fraser, 67, former news photographer here, was sought tonight in nearby Fraser Lake following the discovery of his clothes beside the lake.

Fraser left the home of a sister near the lake Tuesday, saying he was going for a walk. Last night, his clothes were found a quarter mile away, where he had apparently entered the lake for a swim.

Cost Of Living

Aug. 1, 1939.

Part time employees and full time employees earning less than $1,296 a year and who are not heads of households will receive a percentage bonus, based on one per cent of the total compensation received by the employee for each one-per-cent increase in the cost of living. In the first instance the maximum bonus will be 11 per cent of total compensation.

In no case may the percentage bonus received by any employee exceed the bonus which would be payable under the flat-rate.

The order-in-council providing for the bonus to civil servants was made public today, along with an explanatory memorandum from the finance department.

"A definition of the public service of Canada, provided in the order-in-council, specifically excludes the Canadian National Railway Company, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the Bank of Canada, the military, naval, air and auxiliary forces of Canada and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police," this memorandum said.

"Specific provision has been made in the order-in-council for the exclusion of the class Revenue Postmaster and staff of revenue post offices for whom a separate bonus plan is in course of preparation.

"A postmaster of a semi-staff post office who is a civil servant and his staff will receive bonus."

Cuts Country Apart

The first of these had overrun Tabriz, Iran's second city, and was proceeding within Iran to a depth of more than 60 miles.

The second, moving down near the coast of the Caspian Sea, was declared to have captured Dilman, only 100 miles short of Teheran itself, and in the process occupied the highway junction of Ardebil and the coastal town of Lissar.

Anxious For Settlement

Britain was anxious for a quick settlement of the Iranian problem, among other reasons for its effect on Turkey, whose leaders were reported tonight to be concerned over rumors that Germany would ask them to eject from Turkey all Russian and British engineers and technicians as a countermove to the invasion of Iran.

Turks were said to fear that if they failed to comply, Germany would march into Turkey from Thrace and seize control of the Dardanelles, entrance to the Black Sea, and Turkey's long Black Sea coast.

Neutral diplomats expressed similar fears, although these men expected Germany to await the outcome of her campaign in the Russian Ukraine. The entire situation in Iran and Turkey was regarded as closely connected with the German drive in the Ukraine.

If the campaign succeeds and the Germans reach Russia's Caucasus before winter, according to informed quarters, Turkey and Iran would be doomed to become battlegrounds on which the Germans would battle Russia and Britain for the Middle East's oil and the gateway to the Orient.

British forces continued to consolidate control of Iran's great western oil supplies, air-borne troops seizing at Haft Kel the northern end of a major pipeline whose southern terminus at Abadan on the Persian Gulf already was in British hands.

Navy Wiped Out

As to Iran's minute navy, it was reported substantially wiped out in a brush in the Gulf with British warships in which Iranian Admiral Balendor was killed, two Iranian sloops were sunk and four gunboats captured.

At least six of Iran's handful of warplanes—estimated to total 13 at the beginning of the invasion—were said to have been knocked out.

Gone, too, or substantially so, was the little country's control of its railroad and highway communications.

All this, said neutral observers here, was believed to have made Riza Shah Pahlevi realize that he must come to terms.

Probable Terms

These informants predicted a quick armistice on these general terms:—

The Shah allowed to keep power, but permitting the British and Russians to police the country for the duration of the war.

German technicians—whose presence in the country led to the invasion—to be replaced by British and Russians.

The Allies to have a right of way from the Persian Gulf to the Caspian Sea and the Russian Caucasus —a protected line over which would move British and American military supplies for the Russians.

frigerators, vacuum cleaners and washing machines and metal furniture for offices.

Curtailment of automobile manufacture has already been announced and it is expected further restrictions will apply in general to all metallic manufacture of commodities not essential to the war.

"We are undoubtedly faced with a situation where there will be definite curtailment of the use of certain raw materials for civilian needs," an official said. "There is an obligation on all industries supplying civilian needs to curtail their demands for raw materials."

Industries devoted to manufacture solely for civilian use also may be called upon to release more of their skilled workers to war industries, it was added.

The control mechanism of the Munitions and Supply Department now is in the course of reorganization. An official announcement from Munitions Minister Howe is expected shortly on the appointment of R. C. Berkinshaw, priorities officer, as chairman of the Wartime Industries Control Board.

QUEEN'S CANADIAN FUND DONATIONS FOR AIR RAID VICTIMS

Repeated bombing raids on British port areas and the industrial midlands has attracted fresh attention to the frightful suffering of the many thousands of civilians in Great Britain who are harried from shelter to shelter and finally driven into the open country by successive raids. Eventually places are found for them all, places of relative security, but their belongings of all kinds are destroyed. The task of emergency feeding alone is difficult. The task of setting them up once more with some quantity of clothing and bedding is much more difficult.

To meet these enormous needs, funds have been started in various parts of the world. Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth has permitted the use of her name in connection with the Dominion campaign, which is officially known as "The Queen's Canadian Fund for Air Raid Victims."

Every dollar contributed to the Queen's Canadian Fund goes without deduction to the Lord Mayor of London for distribution to the homeless and needy.

Contributions from this Province should be forwarded to the Royal Trust Company, Charlottetown, which reports the following receipts to date:

Received yesterday:—

Miss Laura Clapp, Charlottetown, $1.00

Grand View Women's Institute, $10.00.

Previously acknowledged $2,858.92.

Total $2,869.92.
