People who are willing to help in distributing this literature should call at the Salvation Army Citadel or 170 Queen St. (up-stairs).

Complaint has reached this office to the effect that the night boat used by the Rocky Point people in cases of emergency after the steamer has made its last trip for the night, is broken up and has not been replaced by the Government. On Tuesday night last a little girl was taken seriously ill with bleeding at the nose and only through the kindness of young men who rowed to this city in an old boat for the doctor. He hastened to give relief, or a serious ending might have resulted. The people want the fault remedied.

Rev. Dr. Smith of St. Dunstan's College gave his instructive lecture on the Passion Play to a large and appreciative audience in the Corran Ban Hall on the evening of the 11th inst. Dr. Smith was assisted by Walter Burke of Charlottetown, who furnished about one hundred stereopticon views. The lecture which was under the auspices of St. Michael's Altar Society, was indeed a rare literary treat, and the reverend gentleman presented his matter so clearly and concisely that he led his audience unobtrusively through the development of his subject. The views furnished by Mr. Burke were actual photographs of O'Peramergan production, and apart from the intellectual phases of the lecture, formed an emphatic background.
