War Equipment Control Is Urged

LONDON, Ont. June 7—The importance of moral disarmament and of government control of the production and marketing of war equipment was emphasized at the annual executive sessions here of the Canadian Federation of University Women on Saturday. Mrs. Douglas Thom, of Regina, and other Dominion officers presented their annual reports.

A resolution was adopted urging the Government to instruct delegates to the Disarmament Conference to demand adoption of mutual agreements that governments represented will assume full control of the production and marketing of all lethal equipment or the appointment of an international commission to regulate such production and to inspect the factories concerned.

The federation also approved the work of the Radio Commission. The vacancy left by the resignation of Mrs. T. S. McMorran, of Ottawa, as vice-president, will be filled by Mrs. Casselman, of Edmonton. Mrs. J. W. Deb, Ferris, of Vancouver, was re-elected as delegate to the International Pan-Pacific Women's Association.

Miss L. Scott, of Toronto, reporting on international relations, commended the policy of the International Federation of University Women. It was essential, she said, constantly to emphasize the paramount importance of moral disarmament without which material disarmament would be impossible.

The scholarship report was read by Mrs. G. D. Ralston, of Regina, in the absence of the convener, Dr. A. V. Douglas, of Montreal.

Miss Constance McFarlane, of Charlottetown, was announced as the winner of this year's federation scholarship. A graduate of Dalhousie University in 1928, she later attended the University of Toronto as demonstrator in botany and worked for an M.A. degree there. She will use the scholarship to continue her studies at Liverpool Biological Station.

Mrs. Norman MacKenzie, of Toronto, said the vocations committee was working on a summary of professional courses given in Canada for women, and a survey of opportunities in each field. Five monographs have been prepared by outstanding women in certain fields. Telling of the work and opportunities for advancement and salaries these five include social service, advertising, dietetics, newspaper work and insurance.

In her presidential address, Mrs. Thom urged support of disarmament and interest in public questions, and that support be accorded to women who were able to make a real contribution in public life.

Gentleman Crook Dies In London

MONTREAL, June 8.—(C. P.) Known here 20 years ago as "Mr. Woods," one of the city's most polished and socially prominent hosts, who at the same time led a double life and robbed the rich and influential with whom he was associating, is dead in London where he was known by the name of Andrews.

His escapades furnished the material for the most successful stories written by a well-known mystery writer. His resource in hiding under the very bed that a detective was sitting on in a house where he was trapped bears eloquent testimony to the narrow escapes he had before he was apprehended.

His masquerade failed one day, however, and he was caught by Chief of Police Carpenter, who had long pursued him unsuccessfully, and arraigned before a judge with whom he had dined several times. He was convicted and sentenced to five years penal servitude. Thus ended the career of "Mr. Woods," Yale graduate, philanthropist and host to the elite.

When released he migrated to England to die peacefully as "Mr. Andrews." Before leaving he promised Archdeacon J. M. Almond he never again would break the law, for profit or for pleasure. His friends always contended he did it for pleasure. The Archdeacon simply announced recently Mr. Andrews or Mr. Wood had died.

THE GLEAM

God cannot—it is reverence itself that makes us say it—God cannot have made our human hearts as if expressly to contain and feed that light of a world else so dark, and yet permit the gleam to be extinguished like the toy-lamps launched on the Ganges, leaving them to go down the stream of eternity in the blackness of night.—Frances Power Cobbe.
