The fate of a British convoy reported attacked by a German raider in mid-Atlantic was uncertain. No further word was forthcoming from the 16,698-ton liner Rangitiki (ABOVE) and freighter Cornish City after they reported themselves Nov. 5, as "being gunned by an enemy ship of the Graf Spee type. Both vessels sailed recently from an eastern Canadian port, and the Rangitiki was believed to have civilian passengers on board.

Credit Union Chapter Meets At Rollo Bay

"The age of competition is past. We are now living in an age of monopoly," stated Rev. George McCormac, of the Extension Department of St. Dunstan's University, at a Credit Union Chapter meeting held at Rollo Bay Hall last night.

The solution of this problem, and the solution of many other problems, in the view of Father McCormac, is co-operative work, based on a program of adult education. Father McCormac stressed the responsibilities of members of Co-operatives in understanding the movements, first of all, then in spreading co-operatives over the province. Time after time, Father McCormac stressed that the co-operative movement is the expression of the Christian spirit in our economic life.

Credit Union members from Rollo Bay, Souris, St. Margaret's and St. George's were present at this meeting. In addition to the main address of Father McCormac, they witnessed a showing of the motion picture film, "The New Crusade," the story of co-operative movement in Nova Scotia. This film was shown through the courtesy of the Prince Edward Island Library.

Mr. H. B. Chandler, superintendent of the Prince Edward Island Library, told of the connection between adult education and the Libraries. He invited to read and to understand the meaning of the written word is essential for the management of co-operative business.

Dr. J. T. Croteau told of the work of the Credit Union League in organizing Chapters. These are most effective media for adult education and their development is being watched with considerable satisfaction by the directors of the Credit Union League according to Dr. Croteau. He also told of the new manual of instruction for Supervisory committees which is to be re-issued shortly by the Inspector of Credit Unions. Dr. Croteau also spoke of the work of Supervisory committees.

Mr. W. F. Rose, of the Extension Department of St. Dunstan's University, told of the work of processing that is going on in the Island Co-operatives. Mr. Rose spoke of encouraging reception of co-operative products in the markets. He also spoke of other work that is being carried on at Mt. Stewart.

An interesting discussion developed from the address. Among those taking part were Messrs. Peter Conway, T. J. Kieckham and Andrew Peters.

Noted French Novelist To Visit Canada

(By Leog Edel)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—(CP)—Jules Romains, noted French novelist and author of the monumental "Men of Good Will," leaves for Canada Sunday on what he calls "just a preliminary visit. There are going to be many more."

He will go to Montreal first, then probably to Quebec and later to Toronto. He is going to Canada to meet some friends, perhaps make a few informal speeches, but above all because in this world of crisis a man of letters must not shut himself out from the world, but must get about, see and hear, and fight for the ideas in which he believes.

He explained, he is continuing his political activities, working for a free France, although he could, if he wishes, shut himself in his comfortable periphery and continue to write peacefully.

"I have just returned from recording a speech which will be broadcast by the British Broadcasting Corporation to the people of Nice," he said. "I know Nice well, and I have told them of the threats of Italian domination that lie ahead. I know they will hear this speech. The two previous speeches, which I addressed to all France, were heard. My limited mail from abroad tells me that. It's amazing to what extent the people of the occupied areas, though forbidden to turn their radios to the words of the outside world, succeed nevertheless in doing just that."

"SUBSCRIPTIONS to the Charlottetown Guardian may be handed to their Rept. Archie Hume."

Incendiary bombs and fire have gutted London's historic Holland House, but readers still trudge to its library. The famous London landmark on Kensington Road was built in 1607. Its library contains many books written by authors who once lived there, including Joseph Addison, founder of the Spectator, Sheridan, Sir Walter Scott, and Lord Macaulay. Other famous residents were Oliver Cromwell and the Prince of Wales who later became George VI.

Cities Stronger For Roosevelt Than Rural Areas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—(AP)—President Roosevelt, a survey showed today, received 60.3 per cent of the votes cast last Tuesday in the country's 18 major cities, and piled up a 2,414,366-vote popular plurality in these population centres.

In the country as a whole, the President won a third term with 54.6 per cent of the vote, and a popular plurality of 4,484,151 on the basis of incomplete tabulations. Latest figures showed he received 27,297,788 votes to 21,813,637 with 120,417 of 127,245 precincts accounted for.

Every city in the over-400,000 population class went for Mr. Roosevelt, except perhaps Cincinnati. Wendell Willkie carried Hamilton County, Ohio, which includes Cincinnati and surrounding area, by a vote of 155,111 to 148,402. Separate figures for Cincinnati were not available.

Big city votes were directly responsible, too, for carrying some of the larger states into the Roosevelt column. Mr. Roosevelt for instance, carried New York State by 233,093 votes. The state's two largest cities, New York and Buffalo, gave him majorities of 729,836 and 37,312 respectively.

U-BOAT CAPTAIN HELPED VICTIMS

SWANSEA, Wales, Nov. 12—(CP)—A U-boat commander towed a lifeboat containing survivors of a ship he had torpedoed, gave them supplies and apologized for sinking their vessel in a manner contrasting strikingly with the usual behavior of U-boat men, according to Arthur Hulland.

Hulland was cook aboard the oil tanker British Fame torpedoed in the Atlantic last August. When the survivors in the lifeboat came alongside the submarine the commander asked "how many have I killed?" Hulland related. He was told three with the first torpedo.

The German said he was sorry and asked survivors to convey his regret to their families when they reached home.

Trackees Research In Empire's Name

OTTAWA, Nov. 11—(CP)—The War Technical and Scientific Development Committee is directing the money and effort toward the development of up-to-date war apparatus of all kinds, for advanced aeronautical studies and the furtherment of medical and physiological research upon men engaged in mortal combat.

Air Minister Power made this announcement in a statement prepared for the press. The statement said that Canada had taken over certain research work which would have been difficult to maintain in England under war conditions.

Assumption of the duty of parallel research for the empire would be relatively easy, the statement said, because of the active co-operation between Canada and the United Kingdom in recent years. "Canadian scientists have worked overseas and British scientists have studied with the Research Council in Canada. Stationed in Canada for the public service of the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research of Great Britain is Dr. R. H. Fowler, professor of physics at Cambridge."

Members of the War Technical and Scientific Development Committee are:—

For the Research Council—Dean C. J. MacKenzie, Sir Frederick Banting, Professor Otto Maas.

For the public service of Canada—Col. A. A. Magee, National Defence Department; J. S. Dancab, deputy air minister; R. A. C. Henry, minister of supply; Major-General L. R. Leffche, national war services; George Bonhard, agriculture; H. A. Keenleyside, external affairs.

The committee was formed by the statement said, to assure that funds placed at the disposal of the government for prosecuting the war would be put to the greatest use.

Air Minister Power wants $1,000,000 for research. He has already received $2,000,000. The air minister said that with these contributions a most important phase of the war activity will be pressed ahead, industrial and private wealth making it possible for science to serve to its fullest capacity without the check rems made virtually indispensable under government financing.

At a press conference the minister explained that in experimental research it sometimes happened that a great deal of money was spent with nothing tangible achieved except for the exploration of certain avenues of research. He said he could set all the money he needed for equipment and personnel in the air force from the government, but when it came to expending funds for something speculative, it was difficult to obtain.

"There you are," he added. "It is your duty to bring petrol into your country and it is mine to stop it. It is your turn this time. Perhaps it may be mine next."

The commander provided the survivors with food, water and tobacco and then took them in tow until the tow rope snapped. Not considering the spot a safe one for him to linger in, the commander then set the lifeboat a course to the Azores. The survivors reached there safely after five and a half days.

It was not until the development of the Turner Valley Field that crude oil production in Canada assumed important proportions. In the past year thirty-four new producing wells were drilled in the Alberta region and there is no indication that the area has been fully developed. (It is to be noted that the 1939 figures are under the production scheme.)
