Attended by a large and enthusiastic gathering of Caledonian Club members and friends, St. Andrew's day banquet at the Canadian National Hotel last night proved a most enjoyable and inspiring function. Honouring the festival in traditional style, the postprandial speeches ranged far and wide over Scotland's achievements in history, song and story, and in wit and eloquence left little to be desired by the most exacting critics.

The spirit of the occasion was exemplified in the time-honoured fashion by the ushering in of the Haggis, preceded by Piper J. B. Manderson and borne aloft by veteran Clansman D. B. MacDonald. Burns spirited "address to the Haggis"—a classic never omitted on such occasions—was delivered amid rousing applause, by Clansman D. Edgar Shaw.

Rousing too was the reception accorded the reading of the St. Andrew's Day greetings from other Scottish organizations at home and abroad.

A new feature in the programme of speechmaking was the address of Master Ivan Roberts, of Highfield, Prince Edward Island representative at the recent oratorical contest at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, who despite his youth and previous inexperience, acquitted himself admirably.

President Neil McCannell capably officiated as toast-master.

Grace was asked by the Rev. Hugh Miller.

The news of the passing of Miss Aussie R. M. Stevenson, whose death occurred at her late home in Wheatley River on Sunday evening is deeply regretted by her host of relatives and friends. Death is sad at all times, but doubly so when taken at the early age of twenty years. Aussie was a beautiful girl and a general favorite with all who knew her. She will be sadly missed in the Young Peoples' Study Group where she took a keen interest, also the Wheatley River United Church, where she was a member. In the home where she was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevenson, the loss will be greatest. There are left to mourn, besides her loving parents, two younger brothers, William D. and Nelson, to whom deepest sympathy is extended. The funeral was held from her late home the following Tuesday at two o'clock, when a large concourse of people came for miles to pay their last respects. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. McQuarrie, who delivered a beautiful message to the bereaved. The assisting clergymen were Rev. W. G. Quigley, Rev. W. A. Paterson, and Rev. W. J. McLeod. By special request Mr. Richard Dickieson rendered the beautiful hymn "If Jesus Goes With Me I'll Go." The floral tributes received were many and beautiful. The pallbearers were Alfred Stead, Theo. Sellers, Harold Buntain, Melville Ling, Frank McMillan and Preston Rackham. Flower bearers Orville Stead, Roland Rackham, Arthur Gamster, William Rackham, Charles Andrew, Leonard Ling. Interment was held in the Wheatley River cemetery. The funeral was under the direction of Cutcliffe and Andrews, Hunter
