HOME IMPROVEMENT PLAN—The following committee has been appointed in Albany for the Home Improvement Plan: C. S. Delaney, Chairman, U. J. Pineau. Rolland Phillipson.

PRESENTATION — On Friday evening, Jan. 23rd. a very enjoyable social evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond MacDonald of Bridgetown, when the members of the Dundas Glee Club met for the purpose of extending to the newly wedded couple the best wishes of the society. Mr. Earle Clay, president of the club, explained the purpose of the gathering, and very graciously tendered to the happy couple the cordial greetings of the members of the society, whereupon Miss Edna Campbell made the presentation of a beautiful Westminister chimes mantle clock. Mr. MacDonald, though taken unaware, thanked his fellow members of the club for their kindness and invited them to visit at his home. A dainty lunch was then served by the ladies of the club and the remainder of the evening was very enjoyably spent in games and dancing, music being supplied by Misses Ellen Campbell and Georgie Matheson.

SCHOOL MEETING—A special meeting of the rate-payers of the Spring Park School district, was held on the 26th inst. in the school house. This meeting was called to consider the best means for providing for the accommodation of school-age children, now attending the City Schools, who, because of the proposed twenty dollar tax will have to be provided for next year. After much discussion on the subject, a committee was appointed to find the cost of remodelling the present school and enlarging the grounds. Also the cost of building a new school in the eastern section of the district and to suggest recommendations. The following committee was appointed: H. Newson, P. L. Smallwood, J. J. MacDonald, C. J. Stewart and R. Wood, who will report at a meeting to be held on Feb. 26th.

Miss Ruth Walker leaves this morning for Brighton, Mass., where she will visit her sister, Mrs. R. P. Shields.

Mr. W. Roland Paynter of the C. G. S. Brant, who has been visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles Paynter, French River, left Tuesday on an extended trip to Toronto and Port Credit, Ontario.

Canada May Enter English Hockey Series

LONDON, Jan. 26—British hockey officials are enthusiastic about the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's plan to send an Allan Cup consolation series winner to the Coronation cup matches here in April and May.

If Canada is successful in sending a team it will meet with plenty of good opposition. Seven teams from the National League are entered in the challenge series which is being staged by the British Ice Hockey Association as soon as the National League schedule is completed.

Association officials feel that exhibitions of hockey at a time when London will be thronged with coronation visitors is bound to make many new converts for the game.

The teams will play an elimination series of two-game, total-goal clashes. The National League teams are Wembley Lions, Wembley Monarchs, Harringay Racers, Harringay Greyhounds, Richmond Hawks, Brighton Tigers and Streatham.

FOR DESSERT

Baked apples become elegant desserts when baked in syrup and topped with whipped cream and a cherry for serving. To bake apples in this way, slash the skin four or five times from the top of the apple down half way. Bring to the boiling point 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup water, and 1 tablespoon butter and pour this mixture over the apples. Cover the baking dish and bake at 350 degrees until the apples are tender. Baste frequently with the sauce in the dish.

DUTIES

You picture to yourself the bravery and steadfastness. You let your imagination wander in delight over the memory of martyrs who have died for truth. And then some little, wretched, disagreeable duty comes, which is your martyrdom, the lamp for your oil; and if you will not do it, how your oil is split. How flat and thin and illuminated your sentiment about the martyrs runs out over your self indulgent life. — Rev. Phillips Brooks.

In Memoriam

MRS. THERESA I. MORRISON

Many friends here as well as in Prince Edward Island and other parts will learn with regret of the passing of Mrs. Theresa I. Morrisson, of Butte, Montana, which occurred late yesterday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. C. L. Jones, in Sunny Brae. The deceased was a native of Summerside, P. E. I., being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William MacGregor, of that place.

While on a visit here last August, Mrs. Morrison suffered a slight paralytic stroke from the effects of which she never fully recovered and a heart attack with which she was stricken just one week ago hastened her passing.

A woman of high Christian principles, strong character and lovable disposition, she endeared herself to all with whom she came in contact and her death will evoke genuine sorrow among those who had the pleasure of her acquaintance, and by whom she will be greatly missed.

The late Mrs. Morrison leaves to mourn one son, Henry G., of Vancouver, Washington; four sisters, Mrs. C. L. Jones, Sunny Brae; Mrs. D. R. Pye, Eastondale, Mass; Mrs. Elmer Slissman, in California, and Mrs. E. Perry of Winthrop, Maine; also two brothers, William J. MacGregor, of Nogales, Arizona, and Whitmore MacGregor, of Vancouver, B. C.

The body is resting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Jones in Sunny Brae, and the funeral arrangements will be announced later. —Moncton Times, January 27th.

MR. CHARLES MacDOUGALL

In the early morning hours of Friday, Dec. 11th Mr. Charles MacDougall, a very highly esteemed resident of Newtown passed peacefully away at the age of 82 years.

The deceased had been in a condition of failing health for some time, so that the coming of the end was not unexpected.

His strength gradually waned until on the above mentioned date his gentle spirit winged its heavenward flight.

Mrs. MacDougall predeceased her husband by one and one-half years. Mr. MacDougall now leaves to mourn the loss of a kind and loving father, one son, Heath MacDougall, Helena, Montana; and one daughter, Mrs. Hector McRae, Severin Park, Baltimore.

In Mr. MacDougall's family there were three members in all. Besides the two who survive their father another son died in infancy.

The deceased was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacDougall, Newtown, and was one of a family of six brothers and one sister.

The brothers were John MacDougall and Neil MacDougall, both of whom were drowned at sea quite a number of years ago; Alexander MacDougall, who lived on the old homestead, passed away thirteen years ago; Captain Duncan MacDougall, who died at his own home in Newtown seven years ago; Captain Angus MacDougall, who passed away at Charlottetown three years ago, and Mrs. John Nicholson, who died at Newtown ten years ago.

All of the other members of the family predeceased their brother Charles.

When quite a young man Mr. Charles MacDougall went to sea for a number of years, until he attained the position of chief officer on merchant vessels.

About forty-nine years ago Mr. MacDougall settled in Pinette and some twelve years ago he moved to California. After having spent a year there, preferring Canada as a land to live in, he decided to return to his native soil. On his return from California he settled in Charlottetown for a few years, after which he went back to Newtown, the district of his birth, where he remained until his death.

Mr. MacDougall was a man of sterling worth and was held in high esteem by all who had the pleasure of knowing him. For some years he was a trustee of the Belfast Church, and took a deep interest in the work of the congregation. At the time of the disruption in 1925 he remained true to the faith of his fathers. He will be missed in the different spheres of activity.

The coming of the end had no fears for him. "He knew in whom he had believed and he was persuaded that he was able to keep what he had committed to His trust against that day." His passing was one of deep peace.

The funeral which was largely attended was held on the afternoon of Saturday, Dec. 12th. The service was conducted by Rev. R. Hensley Stavert. After a short service at the home the main service was held in the Belfast Presbyterian Church.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Angus Nicholson, D. J. McKenzie, Martin Griffin, Joseph Griffin, Malcolm MacEachern, and Herman MacDougall.

Interment was in the Presbyterian cemetery at Belfast.

Wood Islands Ferry Indorsed

At a caucus meeting of the members of the Legislative Assembly yesterday the following resolution moved by Dugald MacKinnon, seconded by H. H. Acorn was unanimously passed:

WHEREAS it is desirable to operate an automobile and truck ferry on the narrowest part of that portion of the Northumberland Straits lying east of Point Prim, and that the said ferry be operated as a private enterprise and give service as often as practicable daily on every day of the week;

AND WHEREAS the eastern half of Prince Edward Island has suffered disabilities in recent years because coastal trade with the industrial section of Nova Scotia has not been encouraged as formerly; because the distance via Borden by railroad car, or motor truck gives the eastern parts of Prince Edward Island practically double the distance and increases the railroad rate; because motor trucks cannot operate at all economically to mainland points; because railroad passenger connections are not as good as formerly; because recent health restrictions limit the trade in meats and Nova Scotia is continually on a meat import basis while Prince Edward Island always has a surplus; because modern methods of transportation largely excludes schooner, packet and boat hauls formerly largely used in eastern Prince Edward Island for Nova Scotia trade it seems necessary to restore this trade by motor truck traffic and a short route;

AND WHERAS the tourist trade, being considered by many to be our greatest asset and the recognition of this fact having induced our Provincial and Federal Governments to establish a National Park, suffers from a lack of accommodation at Borden ferry. At Borden there is no connection whatever on Sunday, usually no early morning or late evening crossings. In rush seasons motor passenger cars are frequently left waiting for hours on the wharves, or are loaded on flat cars, and delays are experienced on account of freight, baggage and passenger loadings. A rate of $12.00 is charged on motor trucks and motor trucks and trailers are not easily accommodated. As there is now only one entrance and exit to the Island, if a second ferry were provided which would ferry tourists at another end of the Island and if traffic could pass through Prince Edward Island without greatly increasing the distance to Nova Scotia objectives, much of the Nova Scotia tourist traffic would route through Prince Edward Island, and vice versa. The Canadian National Hotel at Charlottetown, the Dalvay Hotel in the National Park, the Pictou Lodge near Caribou, would be greatly benefited, as well as other hotels, and of much more service to tourists. A Wood Islands to Caribou ferry would relieve the ferry congestion at Borden and probably attract more tourists.

AND WHEREAS there is no safe harbour between Point Prim and Murray Harbour for fishermen and the Northumberland Straits is a very important area for lobster, cod, hake, haddock, mackerel, and probably scallops it is advisable to provide safe anchorage for fishermen caught out at night in a storm. Many attempts, only partially successful have been made to provide safe anchorage on this coast, and hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent, but the only safe harbour yet designed is that proposed at Wood Islands. Phobably more than thirty motor boats would immediately make it headquarters, some nine lobster smacks would visit it daily, and others would call on business or for anchorage in emergencies. The ferry would certainly be an important link in the live lobster export trade and fish trade;

AND WHEREAS it is evident that the annual expenses on existing harbours would be lessened considerably by the establishment of a harbour at Wood Islands;

AND WHEREAS private enterprise would provide a suitable boat if terminals were built and an adequate subsidy given;

AND WHEREAS a ferry service, crossing five or six times daily, would be far more valuable than the ferry services formerly, or presently given to packets subsidized by the Federal Government, it is recommended that the Federal Government hereafter concentrate on establishing ferries which will help to link up our highway traffic on as efficient and cheap a basis as possible,

THEREFORE RESOLVED that the Federal Government be asked to place an amount sufficient in the 1937-38 estimates for the construction of ferry terminals at Wood Islands, Prince Edward Island, and Caribou, Nova Scotia, and establish a subsidy for the ferry service; and that a copy of this resolution be presented each Member and Senator of the Federal Houses by our Government.

THOSE ELUSIVE TACKS

Most of us housewives are not so apt with hammer and tacks and find it difficult to hit the tack on the head and get it into the article in a straight line. Stick the tack in a slip of paper and hold it where you wish it and then give it a tap with the hammer. You will find it much easier on the fingers and disposition.

Annual Business Meeting Of Trinity United Church

The annual meeting of the congregation of Trinity United Church was held in Heartz Memorial Hall at 7.30 p.m. Wednesday, January 27, 1937. The meeting opened with devotional exercises conducted by Rev. C. E. MacKenzie, the assistant pastor. In the absence of the Rev. Hugh Miller, who was detained at home by illness, the Rev. Mr. MacKenzie was elected chairman. Messrs. G. D. Steele and Alex. Matheson were appointed secretaries for the meeting.

The report of the session to the congregation was then read by the chairman. The report showed that there had been added to the roll of full membership 33 on profession of faith and 32 by certificate. During the year the services of worship had been well maintained. The report further referred to the retirement of Rev. J. W. Barbour, B.A., B.D., after two years of faithful and devoted service as director of religious education, and to the coming of Rev. A. E. MacKenzie, B.A., as his successor.

Summarized reports of the various societies and organizations of the church showed that good work had been done in all departments. The stewards reported running expenses met in full. For the missionary and maintenance fund a five per cent increase over the regular givings of last year had been received. The Women's Missionary Society and allied organizations had exceeded their allocation. The Ladies' Aid Society reported a busy year, with special reference being made to the curtains and new lighting fixtures placed in Heartz Hall. The Willing Circle of the King's Daughters had continued its work of providing flowers for the church on Sunday, and bouquets for the sick and shut-ins of the congregation. Once again the matter of caring for the poor of the congregation exacted much work from the executors of the Central Relief Fund, the Poor Fund, and other helping groups.

Reporting for the Sunday School Mr. R. H. Rogers, superintendent, referred to the faithfulness of the teachers and officers as a reason for much gratitude. The midweek work among the Boy Scouts and Cubs had made satisfactory progress. During the year 1936 a similar change of program was made in the girls' work, and the church school now has two packs of Brownies and two companies of Girl Guides. The Young People's Union reported a prosperous year.

The following were elected to fill vacancies on the Board of Stewards: Messrs. Geo. A. Hughes, J. Hibbert Howatt, W. A. Rix, Claude Smith, Fred Chappell, R.G. Taylor, G. Gordon Hughes. Mr. Alfred Pickard was elected to fill the vacancy on the Board of Trustees occasioned by the death of James Carter.

Votes of thanks were passed to the two ministers for their faithful work in leading the religious life of the congregation, to the choir and choir director, Prof. Roy Kendall, to the officers and teachers of the Sunday School, to the sexton, Mr. William Storey, to the Ladies' Aid Society, to the King's Daughters, and to Mr. Walter E. Burke and the broadcasting stations CHCK and CFCY.

In anticipating the work of the church during the coming year, the ministers confidently hope for a deepening of the spiritual life of the congregation through continued participation in the campaign for the Evangelization of Canadian Life and through attendance upon all the regular services of worship.

The meeting expressed deep regret at the absence of Rev. Hugh Miller and hope for his early recovery. The meeting closed with the benediction by Rev. A. E. MacKenzie.

A DOG'S SIMPLE NEEDS

It is surprising how little a dog needs—apart from food, drink, and shelter. He doesn't smoke, play golf, or "go to the dogs" and water (neat) is his favourite tipple. He is almost as happy lying on a bed of straw as on the finest produc. of an Eastern loom. An occasional "good dog!" and a pat from his owner give him more pleasure than being taken to the most sumptuous stage production — at which he would only yawn.

Apart from the absolute necessities of life already mentioned, he asks only for a brush and comb and a little daily elbow-grease behind them, and a regular scamper every day in some quiet spot away from traffic.

It's strange how lazy people (who in the long run always take the most pains) neglect to give a dog these simple aids to happy living. And as a punishment they probably have an out-of-sorts dog who costs them pounds in physic and veterinary surgeon's fees. They are probably liverish themselves, too, for lack of the healthy exercise entailed in grooming the dog and giving him a run. There's a good deal of pleasure to be had in taking pride in a dog—and it cost so little. And it isn't necessary that your canine friend should be of aristocratic lineage before you can be proud of him. The veriest mongrel who is bright of eye, glossy of coat, and full of beans is a much more pleasing sight to the eye than a tousle-coated, listless patrician having the bluest-blooded pedigree that ever was. There are too many owners who spend several guineas on a pure bred dog and regard their expenditure as practically the limit of their responsibility towards the animal.

Ask About Life On Farm And She'll Talk Turkey

"Rural districts offer the average woman greater opportunity for making a living than do crowded cities," says Mrs. May E. Driscoll, city woman who made good in the country.

And, accompanied by nothing less than a Prince (full title: "The Bronze Prince of Mayfields") Mrs. Driscoll came back to New York the other day and received home town recognition, something the cynics say one seldom gets.

The small, vivacious, motherly-looking Mrs. Driscoll wasn't especially surprised about it all, however. Seems she felt all along that Prince (a 42-lb. turkey) would take first prize in the "bronze breed" exhibit at the National Poultry Show. He did.

A Woman's Work

Seated where she could keep an eye on her aristocratic prize-winner the woman who turned from the city to the soil to make a living, raised her voice above the din of hens' cackling, pigeons' cooing and ducks' quackling to explain her notion about earning one's way far from factories, offices and stores.

"I think it might be better for the woman whose hair is tinged with silver to spend her energies planning for a swell place in the country than worrying about the day-to-come when a younger girl will get her job.

"Unless she is highly specialized in work that must be done at a desk, typewriter, or behind a counter, it seems to me that, on a farm, she has a greater chance to make a nicer living and put something by for old age.

"Furthermore, learning to raise animals or fowl successfully isn't any more difficult than mastering selling, typing or filing. I didn't know anything about rural life until seven years ago. To me, a turkey was just a bird which hangs by his heels in butcher shops around Thanksgiving time. I'd lived in the city all of my life."

Mrs. Driscoll went on to say that a good many types of farming, especially poultry raising, are more suitable for women than men. Incidentally, nine of the 19 turkey exhibitors at the poultry show were women.

"It takes infinite time and patience to raise a turkey for show purposes," the lady farmer continued.

"For instance, I lift every little turkey (there were 1500 last year) out of the incubator with my own two hands, give him a teaspoonful of water with a medicine dropper and a kernel or two of food before I put him on the ground. It keeps him from eating sawdust off the floor of the brooder and gives him a proper start in life. But what man would bother that much?"

Teaches Them Young

Mrs. Driscoll was born in Scotland, came to this side of the water when she was three, married and lived in New York until 1930. The summer of that year, she and her son (he's a radio news reporter now) bought a small summer ranch in Minnesota.

The next year, the depression having made a considerable dent in her income, Mrs. Driscoll put turkeys on the ranch. Now she has one of the largest flocks on the continent, and her birds have taken prize after prize at poultry shows in various states.

From May to December, Mrs. Driscoll lives on the ranch, superintends every bit of the turkey raising work herself. When she isn't giving small birds their first drink seeing that they don't crowd in the brooder (hers are taught to roost when they are only two weeks old), or teaching older ones to stay on their roosts and face a storm instead of turning their tails toward it, thereby ruining their feathers she is thinking up ways to improve her flock.

She is constantly trying ideas not found, or even hinted at, in any poultry raiser's manual. Many of them turn out successfully, like, for example, the business of putting a few brass rings in the wire of the show turkeys' coops. After eating the birds pick at the rings instead of at each other, and the injury bits of mash and corn can do to "show plumage" is averted.

Mrs. Driscoll's leisure hours (they are few and far between) are devoted to hunting for pheasants and ducks or fishing for brook trout and bass. An excellent marksman, she'd rather hunt than do anything else—except, of course live on a farm and raise turkeys!
