

New Company To Develop Oyster Industry

A new oyster company has recently been formed under the name Sharpe Malpeque Oysters Limited. The board of directors comprise Messrs Paul Shelton, Harry and his son, J. Foster Sharp, both well known oyster growers and shippers; J. Frank Arnett, manager of Rogers & Arnett Ltd., James E. Milligan of Milligan, Morrison Ltd., and G. R. MacQuarrie, fur merchant.

The objects of the company are to merge individual lease holdings and operate the combined areas more efficiently and economically. About fifteen acres of oyster area thus leased are now under production and thirty five acres, the balance of the company's holdings have also been carefully selected in the Malpeque Bay area and are partially stocked with young oysters.

Woman Elected Church Elder

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire) KENTVILLE, N. S., Feb. 17.—Believed to be the first woman to receive the appointment in Nova Scotia, Mrs. J. W. Turner tonight was elected an elder of the United Church of St. Paul and St. Stephen.

KING ENDORSES

needs speeding up and today's reputation was held for that purpose. The government desires "a vigorous crusade of publicity and practical demonstration to intensify interest and participation in national fitness."

EIGHT TRAPPED

Laerney, a minor, both of Hazelton, British Columbia, were caught by the water and were carried out through mine exits.

BIRTHS

SMITH—At Hunter River on January 24, 1938, to Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Smith a daughter, Bertha Margaret.

MARRIAGES

CLOW—MACLEAN—At the Baptist Parsonage, North River, Feb. 9th, 1938, by Rev. B. G. Manzer, J. D. Clow, Jr. of North Wiltshire, to Dorothy MacLean, of Cornwall.

DEATHS

CROSSMAN—At P. Bedoune, Feb. 17, 1938, Solomon B. Crossman, aged 56. Funeral Saturday at 2.30 from the Baptist Church, Central Avenue.

Card of Thanks

The family of the late Mr. Charles MacKenzie, wish to thank their neighbours and friends for all the friendly and kindness received during their recent sad bereavement; also those who sent messages of sympathy.

N. D. MacLean

UNDERTAKER EMBALMER Charlotteville and North Wiltshire Phone 149

Too Late To Classify

FOR SALE OR TO LET. HOUSE. 13 Pleasant St. Completely renovated, hardwood floors. Apply 189 Dorchester St. L-119-2-14-21.

The Central Guardian Motoring In Jasper Park

This column is reserved for news of local interest but advertising of new motor cars may be inserted at a special rate. A word strictly payable in advance.

CRASWELL for Photographs. BOARD OF TRADE general meeting tonight, 8 o'clock, L-124.

CONFEDERATION LIFE INSURANCE. L-6789-17-12-312

CRYSTALS and Abbeys play off tonight. Note reduction in prices, L-126.

NOW FOR A REAL BREAKFAST with Robin Hood Porridge Oats, China, Silverware or Plain, L-126.

POLICE COURT—At the Police Court yesterday a drunk and inebriated man fined $5 and costs or ten days in jail.

CHURCH OF SCOTLAND—Rev. Malcolm Galbraith will preach February 20th at Centre Presbyterian at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m., L-121.

BOARD OF TRADE general meeting tonight, 8 o'clock, L-124.

ARRESTED ON OBSTRUCTION CHARGE—A man was arrested yesterday by Mounted Police charged with obstructing a police officer in the discharge of his duty. Charges were laid to have arisen in connection with a search for illegal liquor.

WON FIRST PLACE—Lieutenant Colonel C. C. Thompson, M.C., V.D., Officer Commanding the Prince Edward Island Highlanders (Black Watch) yesterday received official notice that the unit under his command had been awarded first place in the motor car race held as the result of infantry and machine gun association of Canada competitions.

WON FIRST PLACE—Lieutenant Colonel C. C. Thompson, M.C., V.D., Officer Commanding the Prince Edward Island Highlanders (Black Watch) yesterday received official notice that the unit under his command had been awarded first place in the motor car race held as the result of infantry and machine gun association of Canada competitions.

It was the sixth time the crack Prince Edward Island unit had captured the motor car prize trophy, and the fourth successive year they won it.

WOULD CURB

bla was acute, Mr. Bennett said "and it may manifest itself in very strange ways in the next few weeks." Action must be taken but, he said, the government must maintain an even balance between China and Japan and take no action that might compromise its attitude of neutrality.

Supporting the Neill Bill were eight British Columbia members who came across from Victoria. They referred to the economic inroads of 30,000 Japanese in British Columbia in the time they had spent there and their refusal to be assimilated.

Mr. Bennett said that the end of our patience has been reached and we no longer wish to maintain a so-called gentlemanly neutrality on a false basis which has been an incentive to the improper conduct of this country of many people.

Mr. Bennett said that the end of our patience has been reached and we no longer wish to maintain a so-called gentlemanly neutrality on a false basis which has been an incentive to the improper conduct of this country of many people.

EXPEDITION

engineer, who returned to Bartica in mid-January from a prospecting trip into the interior, said he had passed the relief boat and that it had encountered engine trouble. He said some 200 men were swarming with acouchi ants, large red ants, which have been known to strip trees of their foliage overnight.

His party had suffered considerably. Food supplies had been depleted by the ants and he had little doubt that the ant-infested expedition would have met difficulties at any time.

Redfern has been the object of several expeditions and a score of rumors. From time to time tales have come out of the Venezuela-British Guiana border district, where his plane is supposed to have crashed. Some said he was held by border tribes who believed he was a god who came to them out of the sky and that misfortune would follow should they release him.

Variations of the tale say Redfern's arms and legs were broken by border tribes who believed he was a god who came to them out of the sky and that misfortune would follow should they release him.

Redfern has been the object of several expeditions and a score of rumors. From time to time tales have come out of the Venezuela-British Guiana border district, where his plane is supposed to have crashed. Some said he was held by border tribes who believed he was a god who came to them out of the sky and that misfortune would follow should they release him.

Redfern has been the object of several expeditions and a score of rumors. From time to time tales have come out of the Venezuela-British Guiana border district, where his plane is supposed to have crashed. Some said he was held by border tribes who believed he was a god who came to them out of the sky and that misfortune would follow should they release him.

PLAN TO LINK

ported to have taken 75 miles of the Peiping-Hankow railroad, Japan's main supply line for the sector.

Regular Chinese forces on the eastern side were said to have captured the Japanese and to have launched a counter-offensive. Thus, Chinese reports said, the Japanese were being held back from their immediate objectives in Chengchow, inland, where the great east-west Lunghai railroad crosses the north-south Peiping-Hankow line, and Szechow, near the coast, where the 22-year-old and now-silent Tientsin-Pukow lines cross.

STATIONS RECAPTURED

Chinese said the guerrilla and Red troops recaptured all Peiping-Hankow stations between Chengchow, 150 miles inland, and a Chinese western base at Changte, and Paotingfu, capital of Hopeh Province.

The first Peiping-Hankow train in a week from Shichingchuan, junction of the Peiping-Hankow and a spur line from Shansi Province, reached Peiping today after running a gauntlet of Japanese Chinese irregulars north of Paotingfu. Several casualties were reported.

SAW 'WINNIE' TAKEN

GRAHAMSTOWN, South Africa (CP)—The death has occurred of John T. Verbeke, retired civil servant who was present when Winston Churchill was captured and made prisoner during the Boer War, 1899-1902.

PETERS CLY Probe Present Gasoline Prices In Nova Scotia

By E. L. WILLIAMS Canadian Press Staff Writer HALIFAX, Feb. 16.—Shrinkage was the greatest evil besetting the gasoline retailer, the Nova Scotia Public Utilities Board was told today as it opened hearings into the provincial highways department's application for reduction of the present four-cent per gallon price between wholesaler and retailer by 1.2 cent. Sitting will continue Saturday in Sydney.

One of the seven witnesses heard coupled "retail competition by wholesalers" with shrinkage as another disadvantage. All said the present four-cent margin allowed little or no profit and list would mean they would operate their gasoline stations at a loss.

The Nova Scotia Government announced 11 days ago it had obtained a reduction in wholesale gasoline prices. An equal increase in the present gasoline tax of eight cents per gallon was proposed at the same time "as we believe the motoring public of the province are prepared to contribute any reduction in the price of gasoline we may be able to get toward increasing the value of our highways."

The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Gasoline retails at between 28 cents and 30 cents in Halifax, ranging up to two cents a gallon higher in other sections of the province. The seven witnesses heard were divided almost as many sections of the province. To questions of W. C. Dunlop, counsel representing the highways department, and Robert F. Dunlop, counsel for the Utilities Board, they were unanimous that a 1-1/2 cent spread would mean losses to the retailers.

Compensated For Loss Of War Love Social Evening For Short Course Students At P. W. C.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 17.—(AP)—A French widow, married to a United States soldier in 1919, won a verdict of $10,000 today for the loss of her war love.

Mrs. Adele J. St. Jean won the verdict in an allegation of adultery against Mrs. Lillian Fleishman, former Baltimore tavern-keeper, now living in Cambridge, Mass.

The war bride testified she relinquished her French government pension to marry Edward A. St. Jean, from whom she was separated in 1935. She said Mrs. Fleishman who did not appear in court, prior to that time called for St. Jean at his home in her automobile.

Final social evening for students attending agriculture, fisheries, carpentry and domestic science short courses was held at Prince of Wales Hotel, 785 St. John's street, tonight. Mr. W. R. Shaw, deputy minister of agriculture under whose supervision the courses are being conducted, presided and addressed the students.

Agriculture and fisheries students complete their work today while other short course students remain in the city for the next week. The program last night was as follows: Moving Pictures. Group singing, led by Sgt. Major Irlam.

Orchestra—Farmers: Joe Chalmers, violin; Anthony Gallant, guitar; Mrs. Lawrence Dalton, piano. Step dance, Leo Clusick, carpenter. Solo, Stanley Arsenault.

Orchestra—Carpenters: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

Orchestra—Musicians: Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters. Solo, John Blondin, carpenter. Trio, carpenters.

REGULATION OF BANKING LOANS BEFORE HOUSE

(By The Canadian Press) O.T.T.A.W.A., Feb. 17.—With the House of Commons Committee on Banking and Commerce today to consult with the provinces on the regulation of small loans, there was indication today that the federal government may either to take complete jurisdiction over such regulations or to leave the field of regulation to the provinces.

Finance Minister Dunning told the committee he did not believe it "should give up without an effort to get a nation-wide control over the former of the small loan company regulation." Small sections of the committee's time last night and has first place on the agenda.

"Confused jurisdiction" makes the situation difficult, said the minister. A company not wishing to be regulated by the provinces would have to be incorporated provincially. There it escapes Dominion regulations except under the provisions of the limiting rate of interest. It is a question as to whether financial charges, chattel mortgages and other devices on borrowed money can be regulated under the act.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Clark and the attorney-general of Ontario to propose legislation before it to tell what the provinces are doing to control money lenders and to say what they think the Dominion should do.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Clark and the attorney-general of Ontario to propose legislation before it to tell what the provinces are doing to control money lenders and to say what they think the Dominion should do.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Clark and the attorney-general of Ontario to propose legislation before it to tell what the provinces are doing to control money lenders and to say what they think the Dominion should do.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Clark and the attorney-general of Ontario to propose legislation before it to tell what the provinces are doing to control money lenders and to say what they think the Dominion should do.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Clark and the attorney-general of Ontario to propose legislation before it to tell what the provinces are doing to control money lenders and to say what they think the Dominion should do.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Clark and the attorney-general of Ontario to propose legislation before it to tell what the provinces are doing to control money lenders and to say what they think the Dominion should do.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Clark and the attorney-general of Ontario to propose legislation before it to tell what the provinces are doing to control money lenders and to say what they think the Dominion should do.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Clark and the attorney-general of Ontario to propose legislation before it to tell what the provinces are doing to control money lenders and to say what they think the Dominion should do.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Clark and the attorney-general of Ontario to propose legislation before it to tell what the provinces are doing to control money lenders and to say what they think the Dominion should do.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Clark and the attorney-general of Ontario to propose legislation before it to tell what the provinces are doing to control money lenders and to say what they think the Dominion should do.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Clark and the attorney-general of Ontario to propose legislation before it to tell what the provinces are doing to control money lenders and to say what they think the Dominion should do.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Clark and the attorney-general of Ontario to propose legislation before it to tell what the provinces are doing to control money lenders and to say what they think the Dominion should do.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

The committee decided to ask Mr. Clark and the attorney-general of Ontario to propose legislation before it to tell what the provinces are doing to control money lenders and to say what they think the Dominion should do.

Attorney-General Gordon Clark of Toronto has started a war on money lenders who charge exorbitant interest rates. But it admitted that the most flagrant examples of high interest charges result from lending to individuals who are not incorporated.

Murder-Suicide Theory In Quadruple Deaths

EDMONTON, Feb. 16.—(CP)—Four persons died here today in what police described as a murder and suicide. Three died from knife wounds and the fourth from the fumes of an automobile motor in a closed garage.