In Memoriam

MRS. JOHN RACKHAM

The death of Mrs. John Rackham occurred in Prince Edward Island Hospital on January 25, 1934 at the age of eighty.

She was the widow of the late John Rackham and her maiden name was Judith Godfrey, of North Wilshire.

She was twice married, her first husband being the late James Semman, of Glasgow Road, and of this union she was born one, Percy J. Semman, who died some six years ago.

She was the widow of the late John Rackham of Hunter River, and lived in that village twenty years. Subsequently she lived with her sister, Mrs. John Paynter of Kensington, until this winter when she went to Charlottetown to reside with her older sister, Mrs. George Lewis who predeceased her only one month.

Her sudden passing away in the hospital was a severe shock to her many friends as she was fairly well up to a week before her death.

Mrs. Rackham was of a remarkably cheerful, active temperament and, while for many years she was a member of the Hunter River United Church she took a worthy part in all Church interests and Community affairs.

deceased left one sister, Mrs. John Paynter, two stepdaughters, Mrs. Willard Sellars and Mrs. J. N. Aitken, Arlington, Mass., and two stepsons, Malcolm and Chester Rackham of Wheatley River.

The pallbearers were Chester Rackham, Willard Sellars, George Godfrey, Warburton Godfrey, Ira and Walter Rackham. Interment was made in Milton Cemetery.

The Best Shade Trees to Plant

(Experimental Farms Note)

The planting of shade trees is a work that is quite comparable to that of erecting a stately building to serve a specific purpose.

The shade trees should be looked upon as friends of mankind whether planted in the avenues of our towns or cities, along the broad highways stretching from coast to coast or around our rural homes.

Avenues of stately trees along the streets of our towns and cities offer shade from the sweltering summer sun and protect our homes from a heavy blast of winter wind.

These trees give shelter to thousands of the feathered friends of mankind, that seek a place to abide during the northern summer.

Then let us look at those avenues of beautiful stately trees, as it were on dress parade, joining city block to rural highway. Down in the valley, by the bridge, along the grass edged brook, over the hill top and near the homestead, stand these sentinels, adorning the landscape, providing shade and shelter for man and beast.

The most important of the shade trees: Elm, rock maple, soft or silver maple and black walnut where climatic conditions will permit. Oak trees are also useful and beautiful and should be used. For wet or low land the willow is adapted and has quite a range of varieties.

Among the evergreens there is the white pine, Austrian pine and Scotch pine, Norway spruce, native white spruce and the Douglas fir. To grow well and show the natural beauty shade trees should have a spacing of thirty-five or forty feet.

Provincial Government's Commendation

It is pleasing to note that our Manufacturers are co-operating in a movement to advance the industrial interests of the Province. While we are, primarily, an agricultural community, yet it is essential that we have other industries to fully employ our population, and the more factories and industrial firms we have the more consumers we have at home for our agricultural products.

The enterprise and initiative of our local manufacturers and industrialists are to be commended and the Provincial Government recommends that our local industries should receive the support of the community as a whole.

Take no chances.

MR. MICHAEL PIDGEON

The death occurred at the City Hospital at an early hour Saturday morning of Michael Pidgeon, 78, an old and highly respected citizen.

For fifty-five years the deceased was a valuable and faithful employee of the Rogers Hardware Co. Ltd., entering the services of the firm in 1879 as warehouseman, which position he held until 1923 when he retired on pension. Honest and conscientious he at all times had the interest of his employers ever at heart and in his dealings with numberless customers he was ever courteous and obliging.

He leaves to mourn a family of two daughters and five sons, his wife having predeceased him some three years ago.

The funeral will be held on Monday morning from the funeral home of A. A. Hennessy to the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer. Interment in R. C. Cemetery.
