HOCKEY

A very clean and interesting game of hockey was played at Bedeque rink Monday, March 15, when the married men of Albany played the return game with the married men of Bedeque, which resulted in a victory for Bedeque, 2-0. Game started about 9 p.m., with Noonan handling the whistle. The first period saw both teams very evenly matched, and the period ended with a score of 1-0 in favor of Bedeque.

Line-up: Albany: Bedeque Goal Barwise Defense England B. Johnson Forward B. Johnson Reeves O. Johnson Connolly M. Johnson Grandpa Wright Arsenault Timmers—F. Lowther, J. Clark, Umpires—J. Frizzell, R. Noonan.

England and Reeves were stars for Bedeque and Pooley and Hennessey for Albany. Albany's oil king, played a good game in goal. Owen crawled out from under the base in time for the game Monday night and did not go back. Hats off to John Stewart! It is rumored that if he could get sufficient money to build a closed-in rink it is now up to every man, woman and child in Bedeque to stand behind this offer.

HOCKEY

A closely contested game of hockey was played at the Arena rink on Tuesday evening, March 16th, between the "Jam Tarts" of Charlottetown and "Dreadnaughts" of Morell resulting in a score of 5-3 in favor of the home team. The Dreadnaughts played a clean second period they were ably reinforced by Murphy, who apparently thought he would clear everything. "Sammy" as he was called managed to score two goals when little Murphy came up the ice opposing Ryan the spectators trembled lest Murphy should not escape unharmed but "Murph" has certainly acquired great skill in working off such adversaries.

Both Riggs and Coffin, goal tenders deserve credit for their skillful guarding of their nets. While Power, Anderson, Eldershaw, Blaxland, Coffin and McGuire played a splendid game. The game was enjoyed immensely by both teams, followed by a special band and skate. Let us hope for a repetition in the near future.

Fairbanks Picture Romance of Spain

The spirit and romance of Spain glow in Douglas Fairbanks' new photoplay "Don Q, son of Zorro" now holding the screen at the Prince Edward theatre. This story is the dramatization of the old adage "Truth crushed to earth shall rise again."

The hero, a dashing young Spanish Californian, is sent to Spain by his father to complete his education. It is soon demonstrated that he is an expert with the type of stock whip used at that time in California. While illustrating his ability with one of these whips, he gets into trouble that leads to a duel. A bull rushing in while the fight is on ends the combat and results in the hero saving his opponent's life. His reward for this is informal presentation at court, where he discovers many friends of his father. This does not take place, however, until after he has leaped a high garden wall to escape the plaudits of the crowd, and discovered in the garden a charming lady with whom he falls in love.

BREAKFAST PLAYMATES

BENNIE'S bowl had picture-rabbits running all around the inside—and one in the bottom. He liked the bottom one best. Mother filled the bowl with cereal and cream and a sprinkle of sugar on top. Then Bennie started hunting for his rabbit-playmates. "Here's one!" he cried as the first little rabbit hopped into sight. Then one by one the others came out. But O! how he had to dig for the one in the bottom! Bennie hurried to eat the "last bites"—and there was "Little Rabbit" "I like to hunt rabbits!" said Bennie.

Gleanings From Tryon And Vicinity

The Tryon Arrows played their cleanest and best game of the season on the 11th of March, when they met the Albany St. Pats on neutral ice and defeated them by a score of 3-0. The game was crammed with thrills from start to finish, the Arrow's forwards played such a fast game that they stopped for a call upon the goalies was only called upon in the whole three periods, while the St. Pat's goalie simply was a wonder when the Arrow's forwards would get through the defence and shoot at him, but he can't stop them all. The first period ended scoreless. The Arrow's playing up hill. On the second period however the Arrows had down hill and ended the period 2-0. On the third period the Arrows had the up grade ice once more but the Albany boys were winded and just before the play stopped V. Howatt scored the final goal 3-0. The Tryon fans filled the air with their joyous notes proclaiming Victory. The Arrows surprised the St. Pats by holding them to the same score as Victoria. Preston Noonan and Charlie Logan officiated as referees, and the game sailed along without a ripple.

Line up Arrows: Line up St. Pats. Goal A. Noonan Defence S. Campbell G. Frizzle Forwards W. Pooley V. Howatt H. Ross. R. Lyman A. Thompson. G. MacLeod N. Bradshaw

The St. Pats have that match to win from the Arrows yet. Noonan makes a good auxiliary player as he tends goal for several teams.

The Arrows sure missed Charlie Pooley on the promenade, but Charlie missed a treat. After the Arrows scored their two goals in the second period Percy's fog horn was silent. Considering that the Arrows played against Bedeque, Albany, and North Tryon selected, we'll say they didn't do too awful bad.

We have a lot of snow but there much more in other places. New Brunswick, the 13th states "there is now not less than eight feet of snow through the central part of that province," and stated that if the weather turned warm suddenly, if there should come heavy rains, the flood condition would be serious. The high hills any major river, would cause a great freshet that would do a lot of damage on the low lands along the rivers. Prince Edward Island is favorably placed. Do we recognize our advantage?

Geo. Wood who has been confined to the house for three weeks with rheumatism is able to be out again.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Thompson and Miss Lavinia McWilliams spent Wednesday of this week with friends at Cape Traverse.

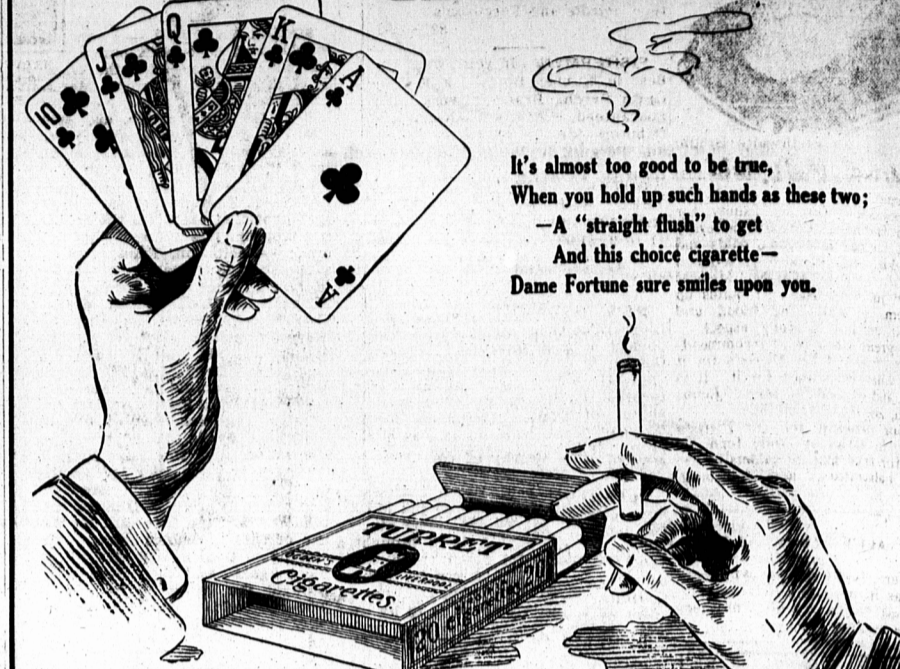

The fine weather of this week has been taken advantage by the farmers to move their potatoes. Large quantities have been going to Albany and Carleton every day. The price remains at $1.65 for table stock and $1.95 for seed.

Play At York

Were you there? Were you there? Is the cry that you hear. And if you ask "where?" they'll say "Way in 'York' that we mean, fifteen feet the day. And there isn't a doubt that all things went their way. The day it was lovely, the night followed suit. The prospects were money with a good time to boot. The Band—well known for clean wholesome fun. And they gave it that night like a son of a gun. Mr Smith did the programmes, and they we don't want to blow. They sure were done well, and I'm going to say so. Gordon Crockett you met, as you stopped in the door. Such a smile on his face that you'd never seen before: You gave him your money, he handled it neat. Then ushered you up to the very top seat. The play was divided, and played in two acts. And now if you'll listen I'll give a few facts: The scene was a train, which was easy to tell. For the boys made the car, and they did the job well. A quarter past eight the Boggs family arrived. And from then, until fun, much fun was derived. Jim Proud was the farmer, Amy Kolzer, his wife. As for Mary and Roy—those kids were like life! They were saucy, yet thoroughly, lovable brats. And they acted exactly like doggies and cats. Grandpa and Grandma were Florence and Frank. And Frank got his smoke though Grandma's heart sank. The old maid, with bundles, was played by Doll West. Who showed she had talent as well as the rest. And then Susie Olson—Miss Isabel Brown. A thorough Norwegian from a far away town. The conductor, Wendall Vessey, then entered the train. Poor Jim lost his tickets and words fell like rain: He looked in valise, at length, with a frown. And the last thing brought forth was a long nightgown. Verna Vessey was good, with that baby divine Mrs Herby, was Francis, and acted "just fine" Then came the dead lady—twas Miss Doris Brown Who made a stop off, just before Tarrytown Ivan Vessey as the Chinaman, did his part extra well, And Stanley, as newboy, with oranges to sell. Poor Dorothy sure got her tongue twisted bad. While Frank as the Fat man was far from being and. Then as Ivan, the porter, his business did tell. The old maid with her bundles got up—Well! Well! A bird-cage, a satchel, a dozen moribunds. And getting off train, with the bustle it brings. The bundles did drop, and they rolled ed the train And her Irish dialect would give you a pain. "Your fare ma'am," says Wendall, the conductor, so bold: "Thank you," she said, like the Irish of old. Just before the play closed, Harry Vessey got on And played the mouth organ like a musical "moon" At last, they reached Podunk, all the actors arose And by playing, "night ladies", brought the play to a close. Ed Vessey then auctioned the boxes so fast That each one was sold, ere the clock struck half past. Then each picked their partner, from out of the bunch, And set themselves down to partake of the lunch. The money was counted, and sure a you're live The proceeds amounted to $55.35 The social was over, all went home for their rest And everyone voted "This year was the best." Jimmy York IT WORKED WELL The new maid was asked what she thought of the electric cooker. "It's real wonderful," the girl replied. "It hasn't gone out since I came here three weeks ago."
