IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Pte. Albert George Campbell, Cape Traverse, who was killed in action June 3rd, 1916.

Far away on the fields of Flanders, Let our wandering thoughts be led, Where moss grows thick beneath our feet.

His dust is asleep in Flanders, And our eyes with tears go dim, As we light our lamps in the gloaming.

And silently think of him, May the Heavenly winds blow softly O'er that sweet and hallowed spot, Though the sea divides his grave from home

He will never be forgot, 9264.

JUST A GIRL BY 'NE PHELPS

A "REGULAR FELLOW!" Chapter 24

Jack Pryor haunted the house, and together we ran around to the daisants and matinee's. I often insisted we stop for Claudia or one of the girls, and we had jolly times. You see, Jack was a dear to take one out. Although he had so much money, he never paraded it like some fellows do. He just seemed to like his money for granted, just as he did his horses, his cars, his home, and everything. There was nothing plebian in Jack's spending. I recall he once called a fellow a "bunder" because he flaunted his cash, and bragged about how much he tipped the waiter.

On my day Jack and I went out in our new car. It was a big touring car, and I had just said we were lost in it, and that we ought to call and ask one of the girls to go along. Just then I spied a poor, but spotlessly clean, woman standing on the curb. She had a large bundle, and evidently was waiting for the car.

"Take her instead, Jack," I said, never believing he would do it. At once he drove to the edge of the sidewalk. He got out, and spoke to the woman: "I will take you home if you will let me," he said raising his hat. "The lady"—meaning me—"wishes you to have a ride."

"On Third Avenue, Sox," she said, climbing into the tonneau. She had not spoken. She laid her bundle upon the seat beside her, and Jack once more started the big car. We went up the drive until we reached Grant's Tomb. Then I turned and said: "Where do you live? We aren't going much further."

"I ain't never set in an auto before. I will walk back," she rose as if she would go to step out. "Sit down. You'll get hurt," I exclaimed, while Jack turned the car. "She's going to sit right where she is until she gets home," he said so low she couldn't hear, his eyes twinkling. And she did. He took that poor woman right up to her door, and she was much of a dourish as he would had she been a queen. I never came so near loving Jack Pryor as I did that day. I am telling the story to prove that his money hadn't entirely spoiled him.

"That night everything was bright and happy in our home. Dad went into the library soon after dinner, and Mother and I went to the opera. Dad was still up when we got him, and Mother scolded him a little for sitting up so late. "You look tired, Doc," she said, as she leaned over and kissed him. "It was lovely, Dad! Caruso sang."

"I am glad you enjoyed yourself, dear." He kissed me goodnight, even more tenderly than usual I thought. He was very quiet at breakfast, read his paper with a morbidness unusual to him. But he did not omit his after-breakfast visit to say goodbye to Mother, or his loving kiss for me and the hope that I would have a happy day.

At 4 o'clock they brought him home. He had had a stroke in his office. While trying to encourage us, the doctor looked very grave. Dad didn't know us. It seemed as if my heart would break. (To Be Continued.)

Canada Government Merchant Marine The new steamer "Canadian Miner," recently launched at New Glasgow, N. S., will sail from Montreal, May 25th, for Charlottetown direct. She will be due here May 28th, and will load rental cargo for St. John's, Newfoundland. In order that we may have sufficient space on this steamer for shipment to St. John's, Newfoundland it is important that merchants here order their goods "coming off of horses with MINARD'S LINIMENT" and I would use no other for any reason For Man or Beast as I think it is far the best. Was Victim of Big Explosion

MRS. CHAPMAN SAYS NOTHING RESTORED HER SHATTERED HEALTH UNTIL SHE TOOK TANLAC.

"I am so deeply grateful for the wonderful way in which Tanlac has restored my health, that I feel it my duty to tell everybody about my experience with the medicine," said Mrs. Chapman, of 26 Pleasant St., St. John's, Nfld., recently. "We were living in Halifax at the time of the terrible explosion; my poor husband was killed, and I was severely wounded in the hand, but was fortunate enough to escape with my life. That awful experience shattered my nerves, and my health was never the same afterwards. My digestion became so upset that I could scarcely eat anything but what I would suffer most severe pains in my stomach afterwards. More often than not I hardly slept all night, and nearly every day had nervous headaches that almost drove me wild. I got very depressed and discouraged, for in spite of special treatment I didn't seem to get any better.

"After I was well enough to travel I came back here to St. John's where I was born, thinking that the change would do me good, but it wasn't until I started taking Tanlac that I began to pull round. It has simply done me a world of good. It first of all gave me an appetite so that I could eat better than I had done for a long time before. I can now eat anything I wish without ever suffering any indigestion or pain afterwards. That tired, depressed feeling has left me, and my nerves are quite steady and strong again now. I am no longer bothered with headaches, and feel stronger and better in every way. Tanlac is indeed a great blessing to suffering people, and I hope this statement may lead others who suffer as I did to try it."

"Tanlac is sold in Charlottetown by Reddin Bros., in Montague by H. J. Macdon and by the leading druggists in every town. spooled Jack—it hadn't made a 'bunder' of him. "Dad laughed heartily when I told him about it, and commended Jack. "The boy has a good heart or he never would do things like that," he said, and Mother added: "Of course he wouldn't. I never knew a boy who took his wealth, his position, in a more sensible way. No false airs, or trying to show off. "I think Mother made a mistake praising Jack so much. If she had found fault with him occasionally and I had been obliged to stand up for him, I am sure I would have been more likely to have cared for him. It is queer that we always like what we have to fight for, isn't it?"

"That night everything was bright and happy in our home. Dad went into the library soon after dinner, and Mother and I went to the opera. Dad was still up when we got him, and Mother scolded him a little for sitting up so late. "You look tired, Doc," she said, as she leaned over and kissed him. "It was lovely, Dad! Caruso sang."

Kenora, Ont., Jan. 22, 1920. The Minard's Liniment Co., Ltd., Yarmouth, N. S. Dear Sirs.—Just a few lines in favor of your Liniment. I would not be without MINARD'S LINIMENT for anything, as it will relieve almost anything. When I go hunting I always take a bottle in my pocket. It is the best for Cold in the Head I ever used; and for Cold in the Chest, and every other part of a person, and for Sore Throat it has no equal. It is also a good liniment for the hair as I always use it. I have also taken bleaches off of horses with MINARD'S LINIMENT and I would use no other for any reason For Man or Beast as I think it is far the best. I remain, Yours truly, DANIEL MACLAREN 9248-6-2-21.

In Memoriam MRS. FRANK CONROY

The town of Souris again has the mantle of gloom resting upon it caused by the sudden death, due to heart failure, of Mrs. Frank Conroy, (nee Alice Moore) on Friday morning, May 28th. Mrs. Conroy was a daughter of the late Edward Moore of Charlottetown. In addition to her sorrowing husband and daughter, Miss Ethel, she is survived by her step-mother and half brother, Harold.

The late Mrs. Conroy was a valued and consistent member of the Methodist Church, having for many years most efficiently acted in the capacity of organist. She always took a keen interest, not only in all the departments of church work, but the social welfare of the community as well. She was noted for her hospitality; her kindness and those graces of character which mark the noble woman, the devoted wife and mother, the encouraging friend. We shall miss her cheery presence, her counsel and help, but the fragrance of her life will remain with us.

Not for many years has a more representative gathering convened at a funeral than was the gathering at the late home of Mrs. Conroy on Sunday afternoon, May 30th. The services at the home and grave were conducted by her pastor, Rev. H. A. Brown. Seldom has there been a larger number of floral tributes than surrounded the bier, indicative of the large number who held Mrs. Conroy in the highest esteem. Among them was the following:—Crescents, Ladies Aid of Meth. Church, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McLean, Judge and Mrs. Fraser, all of Souris. Cut flowers, the Misses Carlton. Wreaths from Mrs. and Miss Maitland, Senator and Mrs. McLean, Employees of Matthew & McLean, all of Souris. Sheafs from Mrs. Matthew, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. John Garrett, Mrs. Ephraim McKenzie, Leard Bois, all of Souris. Crosses from Mrs. Edward Moore and family, Charlottetown, Mrs. Blenkhorn and Lloyd Carleton, Sibley—Mr. James Moore, Eldin, Wreath—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hughes and family, Charlottetown.

"When my little niece was two months old she had eczema very badly on her face. It was of a moist kind, and took a blister form, and was very sore. It itched, making her face feel hot, and she would scratch badly. She did not sleep well nights. "A neighbor recommended Cuticura and two boxes of Ointment healed her." (Signed) Miss Zilla G. Stoddard, R. F. D. 3, Randolph Centre, Vt., March 10, 1919.
