be used to produce industrial alcohol.

(3) The waste of labor power in making and distributing liquor at the expense of acute labor shortage in war industries.

(4) The wastage of electrical energy in liquor making when the Nation faces a serious danger of scarcity.

(5) Wastage of transportation—huge beer trucks containing rubber and gasoline, shipping space used to transport liquor which is required to transport huge quantities of war equipment so sorely needed at the front now lying on railway sidings for want of shipping facilities.

(6) Lowering of efficiency in both the armed forces and war industries through the narcotic influence of alcohol.

(7) The lowering of National morale through debauchery of both civilians and enlisted persons.

The Prime Minister and his colleagues were asked that if in their opinion this situation did not constitute a national emergency of the first magnitude would they please indicate what would constitute such an emergency.

It was further pointed out that as the Dominion Government had complete jurisdiction over the manufacture, inter-provincial trade and export of liquor, there was much that it could do entirely independent of provincial action to discourage provincial action to discourage the consumption of liquor in Canada. The delegation then presented the resolutions of the General Council, which are as follows:

"We urge the Federal Government to take action at once including the following restrictive measures:

(1) That the quantities of alcoholic beverages be severely reduced by the drastic limitation of all materials used by distillers, brewers and wine makers.

(2) That the quantity of beverage alcohol released from bond and made available for sale and used be rationed at two-thirds or one-half present rate as in the case of coffee, tea, sugar, gasoline and other consumers goods.

(3) That the alcoholic content of beer, wine and spirits be substantially reduced.

(4) That liquor advertising and the overseas shipments of all alcoholic beverages be banned forthwith.

(5) That the Federal Government call for interference of provincial authorities concerned to plan and inaugurate a campaign of education on modern scientific lines as to the nature of beverage alcohol and its effects on human life, such campaign to be carried out in all parts of Canada for enlisted persons and civilians alike.

Other members of the committee spoke in brief as follows:

Mr. Andrew Roddian of Vancouver, B.C., stressed the effect of drink in the lowering of morale both in Canada and among the men overseas through family disintegration. Dr. H.S.B. Strudwick of Lunenburg N.S., referred to the Government's recognition of the dangers from industrial alcohol impeding both men and ships, and pointed out that nothing so disposed people to talk foolily as did liquor. Mr. S.J.A. Branigan, K.C., Police Magistrate of Prince Albert, Sask., gave the Prime Minister some startling facts as to conditions in his own constituency. He also strongly urged the banning of all liquor advertising for the duration. Mr. C.W. Taylor of Toronto as President of the Law Advisory Council of the United Church, spoke for the Laymen of the Church and gave some pertinent facts as to how liquor profits being made by brewers and distillers as evidenced by their published reports.

In closing the argument Dr. Colburn then declared that no nation that allowed these conditions to exist could claim to be engaged in an all out war effort. He referred to the Government's proclamations calling the nation to pray to God for victory. The United Church like other churches had heartily co-operated with the Government in this as in other matters. It was pointed out, however, that certain conditions were essential to effective prayer; that for the nation to tolerate conditions that hindered the achievement of victory and then ask God in spite of that to give the victory is so grossly inconsistent as to border on sacrilege.

The Prime Minister's Response:

1. The Prime Minister thanked the delegation for what he described as a "clear and convincing" presentation. He said he accepted every fact cited and argument used and would be using it himself in discussing the issue.

2. Mr. King declared that the Government fully recognized the seriousness and urgency of the situation, that prolonged negotiations with the provinces were certain in the Dominion Government's mind. He felt, however, that the responsibility the Government had assumed to make along so many fronts had made it impossible to set up a committee of the cabinet now at work exploring possible ways in which effective action could be taken.

3. The Prime Minister announced his intention at an early date of making an appeal to the people of Canada on behalf of temperance by means of a National Radio Broadcast.

4. Before leaving Dr. Colburn advised the Prime Minister that, relative to his resignation, the result of this Advisory Council of the United Church, spoke for the Laymen of the Church and gave some pertinent facts as to how liquor profits being made by brewers and distillers as evidenced by their published reports.

In closing the argument Dr. Colburn then declared that no nation that allowed these conditions to exist could claim to be engaged in an all out war effort. He referred to the Government's proclamations calling the nation to pray to God
