THE BAPTIST CHURCH ST. PAUL'S ANGLICAN CHURCH

The final sermon in a series on discipleship was preached yesterday morning in the Baptist Church by the Rev. H. L. Denton, B. D. The subject of the morning was "The Results of Discipleship." "Thou art Simon, son of Jonas, thou shalt be called Cephas, a Rock" said Jesus as he met the man who he honour as St. Peter. "Thou art thou shalt be." Jesus saw Simon as he had been, he saw him as he could be, as he would be. And so we seek the first results of discipleship in the life of the disciple himself. Christ challenged St. Peter, and he challenges us to reach his and our possibilities. He James and trains our powers, he supplements our powers with special gifts and graces. Simon, the vacillating, effervescently enthusiastic, easily moved, lacking in perseverance becomes mighty champion of the Kingdom of God, whose every shadow brought blessing and well being. And the results of discipleship should be shown in their effects on the lives of others, and the results on the world at large. Whether or not the world becomes Christian, whether or not it becomes an abode of happy peace depends in large degree on the true discipleship of the followers of Jesus. May we so give ourselves to God that every hour of every day may be radiant with His Spirit. A full choir gave worshipful rendering to Stenradie Bennett's beautiful setting of "God is a Spirit."

Large congregations and deep interest have accompanied the Rev. H. L. Denton's series of sermons based on favorite hymns. Last evening the sermon had its basis in "What a friend we have in Jesus", which was sung as part of the evening worship. A fine rendering of "Brother James' Air" in Gordon Jacobs' arrangement was given by the trio, Miss Vera H. Malcolm Campbell, Miss Davida Baker, Miss Pearl Burns. Mr. V. L. Dingwell sang with fine expression Sullivan's "Let Chord." The choir was directed by Miss Campbell with Miss Calbeck at the organ.

"Christ for the World, and the World for Christ", was the topic of a most inspiring sermon preached by the minister, the Rev. R. Moorhead Legate, D.D., at St. James Presbyterian Church yesterday morning.

The sermon was delivered in the interests of the Women's Missionary Society and a special Thank Offering was instituted in the morning worship.

Dr. Legate took his text from Isaiah XI, verse 9, "For the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters covereth the sea."

"The Gospel can be more easily spread in this day than it ever could," the Minister said. "Yet there was never a time when it was so badly needed."

In helping the spread of the Gospel, we are furthering the cause of true brotherhood among all men. It rests with us, to what extent Missionary work shall be carried on. The responsibility is not only upon the Church, but upon each and every individual. World-wide peace and contentment can come only through individual and world-wide devotion to Jesus Christ. Our guarantee of this is found in the command of our Lord just before His ascension "Go out and preach the Gospel to all nations...and...Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." The anthem "Send Out Thy Light" — Gounod was sung by the Choir.

Dr. Legate also preached the evening sermon, basing his text on "And a man shall be as a hiding place from the wind, and a shadow as of a great rock in a weary land, and a cover from the tempests" Isaiah XXII, verse 2.

There is one who can be a refuge in time of trouble. One who knows life and had an experience of what life means to us. We can never be sufficiently thankful that He was tempted and tried in the same way that we are.

The Scripture lesson was presented by Mr. Niall Burnett, and Mrs. J. A. Lawson sang as a special solo, "Hod Thou My Hand."

ST. JAMES KIRK

The world's cry for peace is its service to child life, the scandal of liquor traffic, offer as tasks demanding a statesman's service. Concluding, the preacher drew attention to the mark and the prize, and said there is a line which marks the end of the race for each individual man or woman. For no two is the distance the same. The service we would render must be given ere we reach that goal. By casting away the prize which was his, Christ won the name which is above every name, whose acceptance bestows the lull of victory on every runner of the christian race.

At the evening service, the Rev. J. N. Blodgett of Toronto was the preacher. Choosing his text from the Prophet Jeremiah, chapter six, verse 16. The speaker drew the attention of the congregation to the clarity of vision with which the patriarchs of old kept their eyes upon God. Out of the mire of the dungeon, Jeremiah came forth to point his people to God. Paul and Silas in Philippian Prison held his speech service at midnight.

Speaking of the great campaign for the Evangelization of Canadian Life and stressing its importance, the preacher declared that its success lies not in the work of the Christian Ministry, but in the enlisting of the individual christian to evangelistic witness. This, he said, the world is waiting for and by it the christian evangel will win.

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The subject of the sermon at the Central Christian Church yesterday morning was Paul's plan for raising money, based on the text 2. Cor. 8:7. "See that ye abound in this grace also." Mr. Cooper said in part—Chapter 8 and 9 are the best hand-book for raising money for church purposes ever written by anyone.

SANTA AT HOLMAN'S—Saturday was a big day in Holman's Toyland when Santa made his first appearance of the season, and shook hands with a legion of his little subjects, and also with many of the parents. Women Composers Feature Program At Music Club

The Women's Music Club met in the lounge of the Canadian National Hotel on Saturday, November 21st. The subject of the programme was Women Composers and Miss Margaret Sterns' splendid paper dealt with the lives and achievements of these musicians, beginning in melody-loving Italy, with Eleonora Baroni in 1620.

Baroni was a beautiful singer as well as a composer and the inspiration of many poets, including John Milton, Isabella Leonardo, an Abbess, also of the 17th century, wrote religious music, and Maria Rosa Coccia was the most famous of the early Italian composers. She won a remarkable degree of contemporary renown, and it is deplorable that so few of her works are still in existence.

Many outstanding women composers were born in France but their works have been overshadowed by Rousseau, Couperin, Franck and others. Among them are Elizabeth Claude-Jacques, born in Paris in 1666, whose most notable works include harpsichord pieces, sonatas for violin and bass, and cantatas; Augusta Mary Anne Holmes, born of Irish parents in Paris, has numerous compositions to her credit, but her vigorous talent may best be judged by her symphonies "Irelande" and "Ludus pro Patria," and her collection of songs "Les Sept Iyresses"; Cecile Chaminade is perhaps the best known of the women composers today, she was born in Paris in 1861 and at the age of eight began composing; she is a prolific writer of charming "light" music; Henrietta Renie awarded a prize for harp playing at the age of eleven, is now the most important of the French school of harpists; the most modern of the French composers is Germaine Tailleferre who first became famous as one of the Parisian "group of six."

Germany produced only three women composers of note—Maria Theresia Von Paradis who achieved fame although blind from childhood; Louise Reichardt one of the first women composers whose works have survived a considerable period of time; and Clara Schumann, famous pianist, whose songs are of great beauty.

Catherine Van Rennes is the best known composer of Holland. For many years a teacher of piano, she numbered Princess Juliana among her pupils.

Marjory Kennedy Fraser, daughter of David Kennedy famous Scottish singer, by her studies and lecture-recitals has achieved a great popularity for the folk songs of the Hebrides; and Dr. Annie Patterson in Ireland has a like accomplishment with her study and preservation of old Irish airs and music.

Ethel Barnes and Rebecca Clarke of England have added greatly to the literature for strings; Maude Valerie White has proved herself an adequate interpreter of exquisite lyrics and Freda Swain is a young and extremely talented English composer.

Composers whose works are now extremely popular with the general public are Liza Lehmann, Amy Woodforde-Finden, Theresa del Riego, Katharine L. Manning, Susan Ford, Pearl Curran, Lily Strickland and Mrs. H. A. A. Reach.

In a paper on women composers special mention must be made of Dame Ethel Smythe, one of the outstanding composers of her generation. She was born in London in 1851, and her prestige as a composer was equalled by her distinction as a militant fighter in the cause of woman suffrage. Of her it was once said: "She shows that masculine earnestness that in real life seldom belongs to mere man!"

Following is the very enjoyable programme comprised entirely of the work of women composers:

Vocal solos:— "Love's Garden"—Chaminade, "Little Pink Rose"—Carrie Jacobs Bond, "Ho, Mr. Piper"—Pearle Curran.

Mrs. F. M. Nash accompanied by Mrs. Full.

Violin solos:— "Berceuse"—Mme Laurence Townshend, "End of a Perfect Day"—Carrie Jacobs Bond (played in memory of Mme. Schumann-Heink) Miss Kathleen Hornby accompanied by Mrs. K. Rogers.

Vocal solos:— "The Slave Song"—Theresa Del Riego, "Song of the Lotus Lily"—Amy Woodforde-Finden, "The Little Silver Ring"—Chaminade.

Mrs. J. A. Lawson accompanied by Mrs. K. S. Rogers.

Piano solos:— "The Fawns" and "Callirhoe"—Chaminade, Mrs. G. E. Full.
