In Memoriam

MR. WILLIAM PEARDEN
One of Charlottetown's oldest and most prominent business men in the person of William Pearden passed away suddenly at his home on the Mount Edward road at 12:20 p.m. last Saturday. He would have been 80 years old Sunday. The late Mr. Pearden, who was born at Wood Islands, came to the City as a boy with his parents and shortly afterwards entered the employ of the late W.E. Dawson as a clerk. He remained in the hardware business with Mr. Dawson until the latter's death when, with the late J.K. Stanley and Mr. D.R.H. Shaw (at present in Vancouver) he formed about 50 years ago the hardware firm still known as Stanley, Shaw, and Pearden. Probably no business man in the City had a wider acquaintance with the people of the Province than the late Mr. Pearden for his genial disposition and interest in the welfare of others had made him personally known to thousands. His wife, the former Jane Thorne, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Thorne of Charlottetown, predeceased him 18 years ago. Surviving him is one daughter, Muriel, at home; and two sons, Vernon and Alfred of Stanley, Shaw and Pearden. There are also three sisters: Mrs. Ensign Squeebriens, Toronto, Ont.; Mrs. Blyat Taylor, Gonic, N. E. U.S.A.; and Mrs. Clifford Herrick, Stoneham, Mass. The late Mr. Pearden had no brothers.

ATTLEE SPEAKS TO NATION

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Aug. 10—Prime Minister Attlee told the British people tonight they must fight alone for economic survival, as they fought against Hitler's Germany in 1940. He called for "a national effort, comparable to that which we developed during the war."

Promising that the burden of work and sacrifices in the dark days ahead would rest equally on all classes, the Prime Minister declared in a broadcast:

"We cannot rest upon the help which our fellow members of the Commonwealth have been and are giving so generously, and even though plans may be put forward for our return in America to help bring prosperity back to Europe, we must stand on our own feet."

"We must regain our economic freedom and get into a position in which we may for all we need by our own exertions."

Broadcasting officials estimated that well in excess of 10,000,000 persons were tuned in for the address, in which Attlee put to the nation his arguments for his new "crisis bill"—assailed by Winston Churchill as "a blank cheque for totalitarianism."

"I believe" Attlee said, "that nearly all will willingly put their shoulder to the wheel, but there may be some who will not."

"It is for this reason that the Government have introduced a bill which, while it gives no greater powers than were given to the present Government in 1945, enables them to be applied to the present crisis."

"We have to face now," he said, "before we have recovered from the effects of the war, and before our long-term plans have taken effect, the necessity of relying entirely on our own resources."

Attlee re-emphasized that the recent slashing of imports from the United States and other hard-currency countries would mean less food, less tobacco, fewer motor pictures.

"Our reward for our sufferings and our sacrifices will be the restoration of our country on a sure basis and the preservation of the British way of life."

ATTLEE SPEAKS TO NATION

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Aug. 10—Prime Minister Attlee told the British people tonight they must fight alone for economic survival, as they fought against Hitler's Germany in 1940. He called for "a national effort, comparable to that which we developed during the war."

Promising that the burden of work and sacrifices in the dark days ahead would rest equally on all classes, the Prime Minister declared in a broadcast:

"We cannot rest upon the help which our fellow members of the Commonwealth have been and are giving so generously, and even though plans may be put forward for our return in America to help bring prosperity back to Europe, we must stand on our own feet."

"We must regain our economic freedom and get into a position in which we may for all we need by our own exertions."

Broadcasting officials estimated that well in excess of 10,000,000 persons were tuned in for the address, in which Attlee put to the nation his arguments for his new "crisis bill"—assailed by Winston Churchill as "a blank cheque for totalitarianism."

"I believe" Attlee said, "that nearly all will willingly put their shoulder to the wheel, but there may be some who will not."

"It is for this reason that the Government have introduced a bill which, while it gives no greater powers than were given to the present Government in 1945, enables them to be applied to the present crisis."

"We have to face now," he said, "before we have recovered from the effects of the war, and before our long-term plans have taken effect, the necessity of relying entirely on our own resources."

Attlee re-emphasized that the recent slashing of imports from the United States and other hard-currency countries would mean less food, less tobacco, fewer motor pictures.

"Our reward for our sufferings and our sacrifices will be the restoration of our country on a sure basis and the preservation of the British way of life."

Death Toll Now 18

DONCASTER, England, Aug. 10 (AP)—The death toll in Saturday's railroad wreck near here rose to 18 today when one of the injured passengers died in a hospital.

Six passengers were killed outright and 11 others, including one child, died later of injuries.

The locomotive of one train smashed into the rear of the four rear coaches of another train that had stopped at a suburban station. The locomotive was thrown on its side and three coaches behind it were derailed, but the engineer and fireman jumped to safety.
