

IMPORTANT READING MATTER SELECTED FROM THIS WEEK'S NEWS FOR THE GUARDIAN'S SATURDAY SUBSCRIBERS

(Special by Phone) MONTAGUE, April 22—The following is the verdict brought down late tonight by the jury empanelled in Montague by Coroner Allan to enquire into the death of Johnnie McGee, son of Patrick and Mrs. McGee, Montague: "We find that the deceased came to his death by poisoning in some form."

The following witnesses were examined tonight: Sergeant Bradley, Dr. Fraser, Dr. McIntyre, Dr. McMillan, Dr. Stewart. The examination of the above witnesses was continued until nearly midnight and nothing of a definite nature was elicited from the questioning.

Dr. McMillan and Sergeant Bradley leave tomorrow morning for Charlottetown taking with them the internal organs of the deceased Johnnie McGee for further examination. The parents of the deceased had willfully leave Montague for their home today.

(Special by Phone) MONTAGUE, April 22—The inquest in the McGee case opened at 10 a. m. today. The witnesses examined were: Stephen McGuigan, Edward McGuigan, Peter Gormley, Mrs. Hickam, Bernard McGuigan, Patrick McGee, Mrs. Thomas Cassidy, Mrs. Patrick McGee, Amy Mahar, Barney McGuigan, Jr., of St. Mary's Rosil, one of the neighbors of the McGees. He testified that the first child died on January last and the second about 8 days later. They had had colds, Mrs. McGee was kind to her children and he had heard no threats made. He heard no one threaten poisoning. He had dinner at the McGee house last Thursday week. Little Johnny was then with his uncle Ambrose Cassidy. He had no suspicion of anything till he had heard some accusations were made against the woman. The fish they had for dinner came out of a quarter barrel. There was nothing unusual about them. He took some of them to his own house. When the family subsequently heard what happened the McGee children they would not use them. Last Saturday week Johnny was at his uncle's. Witness was of the opinion that Mrs. McGee was mentally affected. No one sent word to her husband of the death of the first child. There was some talk of eating candy. He did not hear her threaten to commit suicide. Three years ago, Mrs. McGee was accused of burning a building owned by Thomas Cassidy. There was some bad feelings at the time. There was mental affection in the family. He believed that she was not now mentally responsible or fit to be left alone.

Thomas Cassidy, grandfather of Johnny McGee next testified. He did not know of any trouble between Mrs. McGee and the children. He was there one day for dinner but when offered fish would not have it, because he didn't like the look of it. It was dark in color. It seemed strange that Mrs. McGee didn't notify her husband last January of her children's illness and death. Johnny was taken to his home in Montague at 4 or 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. He gave him some light nourishment. His hands and feet were cold. About 8 p. m. he complained of a pain in his side. He ate nothing at home except what his mother took also. The doctor arrived at 9 p. m. After he left Johnny again complained of pains. Saturday morning about 4 o'clock, we sent for the doctor, when he came Johnny was dead. Witness had told certain parties not to go to McGee's. He did not think there was the best of feeling in the home, owing to

"Ever since I was a little girl, thirty years ago, I had suffered tortures from eczema in one of its worst forms. The disease runs in my family, and mine was of a scaly and most disfiguring kind. The eczema formed in round rings, and then scales all over my face and limbs. I had been smothered from head to foot, I was born in a leprosy hospital, which is famous for its sulphur baths and pump waters, and one would think that after taking the treatment there regularly for 10 years, the disease would long ago have been cured, but it was not. I attended the hospital for years and years, so you will see I gave it a fair trial. Everyone in the town knew of my case. My face was disfigured very badly. A doctor told me that I should never get rid of it. I spent pounds in doctors' bills, and I attended several hospitals but nothing did any good. "Then one day an uncle of mine recommended the Cuticura Remedies. I took his advice and commenced to use the Cuticura Soap. To my astonishment an improvement came on set in, and my hair, which had been a complete mass of scales and scurf, soon began to look in splendid condition. Then I bought a box of Cuticura Ointment, and this cleared my skin wonderfully. In a few weeks' time all traces of the scaly eruptions had completely disappeared. Now my skin is clear and healthy, and thanks to the Cuticura Remedies I am completely cured of eczema. All my neighbours were astounded. The Cuticura Remedies are worth their weight in gold, and one tablet of Cuticura Soap goes further than four cakes of cheaper soap. It has brought happiness into my home." (Signed) Mrs. Juliette W. Francis, R. F. The Cuticura, King's Norton, Birmingham, Eng., July 26, 1910.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, but those who wish to try them without charge may do so by sending to F. J. Carter, Chem. Corp., 20 Columbia Ave., Boston, U.S.A., for liberal samples of each, post-free, with 32-c. skin book.

A certain woman who had been going to the house. Witness contended that this woman had told lies about Mrs. McGee's brother at the time of the trial a few years ago. Mrs. McGee broke down when asked about the children. She broke down on Saturday. She appeared rational. She has a bad temper and is very nervous. She used medicine sometimes mostly anodyne liniment. She has not the same temperament or disposition as the other members of the family. She was never in real want. Witness would see to that.

Stephen McGuigan, who saw Johnny on Wednesday, the boy was then very sick and complaining of pains. John McGuigan, Michael Gormley, Ned McGuigan, Peter Gormley and James McKenna, were there also. The mother seemed to be lamenting the loss of her children and she seemed worse mentally than he had ever seen her before. She was talking strangely and blimbling the candy for poisoning them. Johnnie was lying on the bed, very restless at times.

MONDAY —Frank F. Tuplin, New Annap, has purchased from J. J. McNally, Summerside, a wooded section of land near Summerside on which he proposes building a fox ranch during the coming summer. This ranch will be conducted in addition to the New Annap ranch. Mr. Tuplin proposes opening an office in a few days in the Johnson brick block, Water St., Summerside.—J. L.

He was complaining of headache. When he would get up he would stagger and witness had to catch him to keep him from falling. He was also very drowsy at times. Witness believed that Mrs. McGee was not sane as another person. The next witness was Edward McGuigan, whose evidence in the main corroborated the previous witness. He described the condition of the body and said that Mrs. McGee appeared to be talking strangely. The day of the funeral she was crying a good deal. It is thought that the symptoms of the illness which the children had resembled those of poisoning from phosphorus.

The third and last witness examined in the forenoon was Peter Gormley, whose evidence was unimportant. In the afternoon Mrs. Catherine Fickham, who lives four miles from McGee's testified that on Tuesday Johnnie came to her store and bought two sticks of candy, a pair of stockings and eight bunches of matches, the old fashioned kind. Evidence will be brought to show that on the same day Johnnie got a cello's worth of matches at Mahar's store about 200 yards from the McGee house. On last Thursday Mrs. McGee herself bought three cents worth of matches at Mahar's. Only one bunch of matches was found in the house when searched by Sergt. Bradley. All the cooking utensils and dishes were taken from the McGee house and are now in Montague hall where the inquest is being held. Yesterday, the bodies of the two children who had died in January last were exhumed and an autopsy performed thereon. They discovered no traces of poisoning and the evidence was clear that they had died from bronchial pneumonia. An autopsy was also performed on the body of the boy Johnnie who had died last Saturday morning. When the boy had been sick his symptoms were exactly the same as those of the other children. The autopsy however, revealed some marked changes in the appearance of the organs. As the boy had been sick longer, these changes were more marked. The chief difference was the yellowish appearance of the liver and other organs. The same marking was noticed on the stomach, but not quite so pronounced as on the others. There was some discoloration on the intestines, but further down from that which showed on the youngest child. Following were some of the chief things revealed by the autopsy on the boy Johnnie: Expression was pain and peaceful. The liver was of a golden yellow with a fine mottling of red over its surface. In some parts of the small intestines the blood vessels were hardly noticeable, whilst in other places they were very deeply injected. The stomach contained about half an ounce of dirty greyish mucilaginous, semi-fluid material, with a few whitish flakes floating through it. The mucous membrane of the stomach was intact, the stomach pliable as though indicating autodigestion by its contents.

So far the doctors have found no traces of poisoning by arsenic lead or mercury. Beyond that they will say nothing.

This ranch will be conducted in addition to the New Annap ranch. Mr. Tuplin proposes opening an office in a few days in the Johnson brick block, Water St., Summerside.—J. L.

Spring Reminders of Rheumatism Raw, Damp Weather Starts the Pain but the Trouble Lies in the Blood

Spring weather is bad for rheumatic sufferers. The changes from mild to cold, the raw, damp winds start the aches and twinges, or in the more extreme cases, the tortures of the trouble going. But it must be borne in mind that it is not the weather that causes rheumatism. The trouble is rooted in the blood—the pains. The only way to reach the trouble and to cure it is through the blood. The poisonous rheumatic acids must be driven out. Liniments and rubbing may give temporary relief, but cannot possibly cure the trouble. The sufferer is only wasting time and money with this kind of treatment and all the time the trouble is becoming more deeply rooted—harder to cure. There is just one speedy cure for rheumatism—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They act directly on the impure, acid-tainted blood. They purify and strengthen it and thus root out the cause of the rheumatism. Here is strong proof of the above statements. Mrs. Robt. Luffman, Midland, Ont., says: "About three years ago my grandson, Robert Luffman, was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. He became so bad he could only walk when someone helped him about. One arm he had to carry in a sling, and we felt sure he would be a cripple for life. The trouble also affected his heart. The doctor said his blood was turning to water and we had little hope for his recovery. The medicine the doctor gave him did not do more than soothe the pain a little, then he would be as bad as ever. On a former occasion Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had cured my daughter of rheumatism, and we finally decided to try them in Robert's case. After the use of three or four boxes there was a slight improvement and he continued taking the Pills until he had used 12 boxes when the trouble had completely disappeared, and he has not been afflicted with it since."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

There are a few old plays which apparently defy the changes that take place in the form of dramatic attractions. They are presented year after year and are always welcomed by theatregoers. Such a play is "Human Hearts" which will be presented at Opera House, Charlottetown, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings next. The story of the play is familiar. The injustice suffered by Tom Logan and his final vindication forms the theme of the piece and the comedy is furnished by the laughable characters of Jim Mason, the tramp "Limpy" the newsboy, and Moss, the faithful old colored servant, and a great deal of new comedy has been written into the play this season.

How Build Today To Replace the Worn-out Parts of Yesterday?

Each day thinkers use up cells of the Brain. Each day active workers destroy cells in the nerve centres. If the food lacks the things Nature demands for rebuilding, Nervous Prostration and Brain-fag results. Suppose a bricklayer tried to build a wall and the boss furnished brick, sand and water, but left out the lime? Suppose you eat plenty of albumin and take sufficient water, but neglect food which contains Phosphate of Potash. Nature cannot rebuild gray matter in nerve centres and brain without Phosphate of Potash which binds together albumin and water to make it. Phosphate of Potash, as grown in the grains by Nature, is more than half the mineral salts in Grape-Nuts.
