'ST. PETERS.—A most enjoyable party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. O'Hanley, when a number of friends assembled on New Year's eve. The New Year was ushered in with music, dancing and song. Mr. D. J. Mullin played the violin in his usual pleasing manner while Mr. James Gillis presided at the piano. Short speeches by several prominent men of the village were in order. Mr.
Curran, teacher, gave a most interesting talk along Educational lines.
Dr. B. J. McDonald and D. J. Mullin on general topics while Mr. John Melsaas dealt with farming in general. Mr. B. O'Hanley in his usual jovial manner occupied the chair. A quality repast was served by Mrs. O'Hanley in her usual good style. It was in the early morning hours of the New Year when all wished the worthy host and hostess a Prosperous New Year and closed by singing Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

'ISAAC JAY

The death of Isaac Jay, Mount Stewart, December 23rd 1919 at the age of 62 years is indeed a loss to the community. He was born in Picquid, December 23rd 1857. At teacher and for the next five years taught at Mount Mellick. The following seven years at Marshfield and then for eight years at Mount Stewart. When he took up farming where he lived until his death.
He was married to Hannah Lane in 1877 and one daughter Mrs. Ross Pigott, Mt. Stewart survives. He was converted while teaching at Marshfield, during a period of special revival services, conducted by Rev. Mr. Stirling of New London, when Rev. Mr. Mabon was pastor and continued faithful to the end.

'MISS EDNA E. McEWEEN

'MR. WILLIAM GLOVER

There passed peacefully away at his home White Sands, on December 13th, Mr. William Glover, aged 57 years. All that medical skill and loving kindness could do was done but as God will, but not as I will but as God will. He saw fit to call away another one of His loved ones. Deceased had been in failing health for a number of years but was able to attend to his duties until a year ago when he contracted influenza from which he never recovered, but bore his sufferings like a hero until the angel of death came and relieved him of his burden to rest in the mansion on a visit to her uncle's in Alberton in company with her cousin and was there only a short time when she was taken suddenly ill and despite all that medical aid and tender care could do her spirit returned to him who gave it. Edna was a young lady of most excellent parts, a girl of magnificent constitution, quiet and unassuming in duty, a loved and lovable character with every prospect of a long, useful and happy life before her. In the home where she was a devoted daughter and beloved sister, she will be long mourned and sadly missed by her friends who knew her and who loved her, a true companion and a bright and happy personality has been taken. Her various walks of life she has pursued a constant Christian course. Beautiful deeds have blossomed around her path and she has left a fragrant memory that will live in the hearts of all that knew her and in the church where she was a valued member and where she was organized for the past six years, she will be sadly missed. There are left to mourn a heart broken father and one sister, those who have the sympathy of the entire community. The remains were forwarded to Charlotteton accompanied by her uncle and cousin with whom she had died and the funeral which took place December 23rd was largely attended and showed the high esteem in which she was held. The service was conducted by her pastor Rev.

W. A. Wood who spoke briefly of the departed friend, Many beautiful flowers strewn the casket from the people to whom she had endeared herself. The remains were laid to rest in New Dominion cemtery. To the sorrowing loved ones the Guardian extends its sincerest sympathy.

'MRS. CHARLOTTE RATTEN-BURY

On Saturday morning, Nov. 22nd, 1919, Mrs. Charlotte Rattenbury, widow of the late Benj. Ratten-bury passed peacefully away, after a prolonged illness of eight months.
Deceased was seventy-seven years of age. She was a kind friend and neighbor, and her generous spirituality coupled with her rare kindliness of heart won for her a place in the hearts of all with whom she came in touch and many acts of kindness done in her own quiet, unassuming way will keep her memory green in the hearts of all who knew her.

Although her last illness was of long duration which she bore with Christian resignation to the Divine will. She had always been a woman possessed of wonderful physical and mental vigor which she succeeded in retaining to the end, being able just before she passed away to give full directions for her funeral which took place on Monday afternoon, and the large number of people who assembled to pay their last tribute to the deceased bore strong testimony to the esteem in which she was held. She leaves to mourn several nieces and nephews; two of whom—Agnes and Jessie McInnon tenderly cared for her during her illness.

'JAMES FOGARTY

In memory of James Fogarty who died at Glenfanning, 25th December after a short illness, aged 41.
He leaves a wife and one daughter, aged four, besides two brothers, Patrick and John residing in this locality, four sisters, Mrs. P. Cunningham, Boston; Mrs. B. Praught, Earncliffe; Mrs. Jas. McDonald, Tolyati; Mrs. T. Moore, Tolyati. James was the youngest son of the late John Fogarty, a fine young man of most promise, much respected by all.

'MRS. ARCHIBALD MCKINNON.

When in the course of material events, Time in his unteachable flight, to comply with that infinite decree "Dust thou art and unto dust thou shalt return," sends forth to battle that grim reaper, whose scythe is never unsheathed, whose binder reels never refuse to revolve, whose sweeping arm reaches forth to those unhallowed entry into the home of his victim is never welcomed, regardless of the "No Admittance" sign placed above the door by the loved ones, heedless of the wounds he shall inflict on the hearts of those left behind, the unthinking, heedless, he it prince of pain-er matters not to him—his is a mission of destruction.

friends, one who was always kind, cheerful, considerate, ready to assist the poor, uplift the down trodden, to feed the hungry and to comfort the afflicted; her immediate family (consisting of Charles and Jane at home and Mrs. Hugh D. McKinnon, Cable Head East) an irreparable loss, for we can say of her "Behold this was a Mother From whence comes such another?" One brother, Alex. McCormack, San Raphael, Cal., and three sisters, Mrs. Dewire and Miss Agnes Mc-Cormack of Boston, and Mrs. Mc-Auley of Midgell, also survive her.

Born at Cable Head of old plon-ger stock, descended from the Highlanders of Scotland, who glory in their past history, to whom the memory of Bonnie Prince Charlie is always an object of veneration and love, she inherited all the best of her Scotch ancestors for their language, customs, work and thrift.
She brought to her husband, not only a knowledge of housekeeping second to none, but also the knowledge of converting wool to clothing, with ability to completely handle each step—an art almost unknown by any of our modern women—together with a complete knowledge of the hundred and one duties required by a farmer's wife fifty years ago.

She was indeed a happy wedded life. She was the guiding star of her husband's career, and together, from the nucleus of a few acres, by dint of industry and thrift, they lived to own one of the most comfortable farm homes in the community and their death were separated by only a few months.

We, who are strong believers in the opportunity offered by our Island, might point with pride to their lives, as an example of what industry and thrift can accomplish on P. E. I., a thought which would be well worth consideration by the youth about to leave his native Province, for supposedly more favored lands.

Her death, coming in bleak December, and she having passed the Bible's allotted span by about ten years, in which, by prayer and penitence she had an opportunity to give to her soul that mellowed effect, as of November's frost on a winter apple, these lines which she so often quoted, have for us a strange significance:

In May and June
There is youth and bloom
The next comes in October The leaves will fall
And so will all When youth and bloom are over.
R. I. F.
