TELEPHONE NERVOUSNESS IS THE LATEST DISEASE.

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—Doctor Strauch, a mental specialist, has discovered a new disease which he calls telephone nervousness. A prominent Berlin attorney had been in continual conflict with the post office for more than a year regarding his telephones. Several times he was prosecuted on the charge of insulting the telephone girl, and finally his telephone connection was cut off. The attorney began proceedings for its restoration. The post office department offered as a defence that the attorney was continually insulting officials.

Doctor Strauch, who was called as an expert, testified that telephone nervousness was a serious ailment. The telephone, he said, acts on certain persons like poison. He continued: "I know a case in my personal practice of a physician, who was so worked up by delays and other unpleasant occurrences, that he became permanently insane. Excitable persons should never use the phone."

ORDER BY TELEGRAPH TO USE THE DYNAMITE.

INDIANAPOLIS, October 9.—Telegrams signed Ping alleged to have been an alias of Henry S. Hocking and sent to Orin E. McManigal directing him to drop dynamite bombs on his trip about the country. The examination of the first witnesses called in the trial of the accused dynamite plotters today.

Managers of telegraph offices in Buffalo, Detroit, Toledo, Chicago, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Evansville, Ind., and Salt Lake City testified. With one exception they asserted that the originals of telegrams asked for by the government covering a period as far back as 1908 had been destroyed in the ordinary course of business. The government insists it has possession of the telegrams and it is called upon to show the reason why the original messages as sent cannot be produced. It was during this period that McManigal and the McNamars formed the flying squadron of dynamiters, the government charges, often sending McManigal out alone and equipped with a suit case filled with explosives to await orders by telegraph as to what he should blow up.

ARRESTED FOR THEFT.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Evidence that all the peroxide blonds are not all women was adduced in Municipal court, when Sam Berman was arraigned on a charge of theft. Sam faced the court with a mop of waving green.

"Where did you get that hair?" demanded Judge Levine.

"I got tired of black hair and thought I'd become a blond," replied Sam dispassionately. "I need peroxide and now this darned stuff is fading out."

He was given a suspended sentence on the theft charge and rushed out to get a haircut.

A few days ago a prominent fox rancher took the trouble to call on James Callaghan, tailor, to inform him that he was the made for him. "I've got the best cut and tailored garments that he had ever purchased on U. I. Now gentlemen if Mr. Callaghan can supply such foxy men as you, there is no reason why he cannot give you the best supply had in the city. He has a full stock of the very latest fall coats from J. Mitchell's fashions, the foremost British of men's fashions in America and the most up-to-date workmen. His prices are moderate and if you favor him with your order you will be sure to get good fit, good workmanship, good goods and good trimmings. Mr. Callaghan also does the work of cleaning and pressing suits and overcoats—prices from 75c to $1.00. James Callaghan, 173 Queen St., Charlottetown. 10-2M Wm Ewmtf.

IT COULDN'T BE DONE.

Somebody said that it couldn't be done.

But with a chuckle replied, "That 'maybe it couldn't' but he would be one."

Who wouldn't say so till he'd tried.

So he buckled right in with the trace of a grin.

On his face, if he worried he hid it.

He started to sing as he tackled the thing that couldn't be done—and he did it!

Somebody scoffed: "You'll never do that."

At least no one ever had done it.

But he took off his coat, and he took off his hat.

And the first thing we knew he'd begun it.

With the lift on his chin and a bit of a grin.

Without any doubting or quiddit.

He started to sing as he tackled the thing that couldn't be done—and he did it!

There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done.

There are thousands to prophesy failure.

There are thousands to point out to you, one by one,

The dangers that await to assail you.

But just buckle in with a bit of a grin.

Then take off your coat and go to it.

Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing that "cannot be done"—and you'll do it.

"You don't want a street car," he said; "you want a taxicab."

A PURSE OF GOLD FOR A RED ROSE.

A Greek philanthropic society in Pera has devised a rather felicitous plan for helping the sufferers from the recent disastrous earthquake.

A large number of young women, many of exquisite charm and beauty, were busy offering a little red flower for sale. They occupied the important thoroughfares and streets of every district and suburb of the capital, and, assailing passersby with sweet words and sweeter smiles, pinned the flowers and begged for contributions. It was impossible to resist. In this way a large sum of money was realized and sent to the Greek patriarchy for distribution among the needy.

One charming girl was especially fortunate. She saw at Yeniker, a fashionable summer resort on the Upper Bosphorus, a carriage driven by a pair of beautiful horses, and asked the coachman to stop. The latter complied.

On seeing that the inmate of the carriage was no other than Prince Burhaneddin Effendi, the son of the ex-Sultan Abdul Hamid, the girl was taken aback, and stammered an excuse.

"I only intended to offer your highness a little red flower. It is for the victims," she said.

The prince smiled and accepted the flower. He took out his purse, but found to his regret, that it was empty. He then untasted his heavy gold watch and chain and offered them to the beauty.

"No, your highness," objected the latter. "We do not plunder, we only beg."

The prince was so pleased with the answer that he ordered his coachman to drive to his palace as fast as possible, and in a few minutes returned and brought the delighted girl a purse filled with gold pieces.

THE TEMPERANCE ALLIANCE

Sir—In my last letter I appealed to friends of the Temperance Alliance to do all that is practical to support the administration in this anti-liquor campaign of the Prohibition Act. I would leave the most important phase of this work for another letter. The most important work members of the Alliance can do to aid law enforcement is to create, or at least sustain a public opinion in its favor, a public opinion that will support and demand the enforcement of the law. The man who was credited with ruling with a big stick makes this confession of his experience in enforcing a law except the people are heartily with him. The minute I ceased to have them with me, whether it was my fault or theirs, I ceased to have power. It is too much to expect of president or premier to enforce a law except the people are heartily with him. There is no doubt that the great majority of the people of this province wish the Prohibition act enforced, but is the wish assertive and projected into public life? The enforcement of the act meets with an opposition that is unnecessary and unscrupulous and menaces all the revenue in its power. Does it feel the pressure equally strong in its support? Does the sentiment in favor of law enforcement have enough reality to become visible in votes? Is it more powerful than party ties? Does it give temperance the paramount priority in public affairs. Does it as much as other as practicable. We have not availed ourselves and are largely ignorant of the splendid equipment provided for fighting the liquor traffic by the world's great temperance societies. The present conditions in the province are such that the Temperance Alliance throw its whole weight and energy behind the work of law enforcement and temperance education.

Faithfully Yours,
G. A. SUTHERLAND.

HARVESTERS' EXCURSION.

Advices from the West indicate that the demand for labor is more urgent than it has been at any time since the harvest commenced. This is consequently upon the fact that a greater number of men are required to assist in the work of gathering the immense crops, which are the greatest in Canada's history.

It will be readily understood that the great task of gathering the crops required a greater amount of assistance than the mere work of cutting. At the present time there is work for 20,000 men to help in harvesting, and the wages are higher than ever before paid. The extra help cannot be provided in the west, and for the purpose of helping to meet the requirements the Canadian Pacific Railway will run a Harvesters' Excursion from St. John and points on its line in New Brunswick on October 14th. The rates from all points will be $12.00 going to Winnipeg and $18.00 returning. Those from other points in the Provinces will come to St. John, or nearest junction point with C. P. R. 10-11Mt.

THE FASCINATION OF FIGHTING.

Perhaps warfare is so fascinating and so foolish because it is nothing more than the old game of "Here we go round the Mulberry Bush," played on heroic lines. There are philosophers and poets, like Ruskin, Tennyson, and Nietzsche, who have advocated war as a sort of corrective of the human tendency to slothiness; and if we are honest with ourselves we must recognize that their arguments are inspiring. A good fight is certainly a tonic—whether you win or lose. There is nothing so unpleasant as the thought that you have to fight, but nothing quite so delightful as fighting while you are at it.

TO FRUIT GROWERS.

It is useless to take bruised, spotted or small apples to the packing centres. Even a packing expert cannot improve their quality, and apples cannot be brought in, in proper condition, except in barrels or boxes on wagons having springs. Fruit growers in the vicinity of Charlottetown, Montague and Kensington are being given an excellent opportunity of learning to pack this autumn as weekly demonstrations are being given at each of these centres each week during the month of October. Full particulars can be obtained at the Department of Agriculture, Charlottetown.

PLANS TO MAKE HIS BABE PERFECT WOMAN.

To become the world's most perfect woman physically is the future mapped out for Margaret Terry Hudson Grant, two years and two months old, by her father, Richard Grant, of Minneapolis, director of track athletics of the University of Minnesota. Ever since she was three weeks old the baby has been trained for the place she is expected to fill. Systematic exercise under the careful supervision of her father, who himself was formerly a track star at Yale, and who "made" many Minnesota athletes, is as much a part of little Margaret's daily life as the food she eats.

The exercises have already had wonderful results. Some of the ways in which Margaret differs from other two-year-olds are these—Every part of her body is perfectly formed. She has a normal chest measurement of nineteen inches and an expansion of nearly two inches. Her biceps muscles measure five inches. She could walk when she was ten months old. She could swim when she was eight months old. She weighed twenty-eight pounds, without an ounce of fat on her little body. She can walk up three flights of stairs and back without stopping.

The little girl, who has just begun to talk, delights in her exercises. The more complete of these forms a want to talk to strengthen and develop her chest muscles exercises on a horizontal bar, consisting of a cane held in the hand of her father, to which she can hang for forty-five seconds; swinging back and forth while holding to her father's finger, and reclining on the floor and rising without touching her hands on the floor.

SEVENTY-FIVE WEDDED TO TWENTY-TWO.

Six Max Weachter, who is in his seventy-fifth year, was married at St. Peter's Church, Eaton-square, recently to Miss Annatruda Hobart, daughter of the late Colonel Bertie Hobart, R. A., and Mrs. Hobart, of Grimston Garth, Holl.

The wedding was a quiet one, the only guests being relatives of the bride and bridegroom.

The ceremony, which was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Moore, took place in the side chapel, the altar of which was decorated with white lilies.

The bride was given away by her uncle, Sir Robert Hobart. She wore a dress of blue and mauve touches of lace at the neck and wrists. Her pale blue straw hat was covered with mauve and blue ostrich plumes.

Major Sir Francis Trippl acted as best man.

There was no reception for the ceremony, the bride and bridegroom leaving at once for the Continent, where the honeymoon will be spent.

Sir Max Weachter preserved the famous view from Richmond Hill by his gift of Glover's Island and Peter-sham Lodge and grounds to the town of Richmond.

NOGI'S SERVICE AFTER DEATH.

Military fame was only one part of the great soldier's view of life. To every Japanese the Unseen has its reality. And when, at the funeral of the Mikado, General Nogri and his wife died by their own hands, we can but ask ourselves quietly what reasons guided them. The Japanese is entirely practical. The Briton "believes" in a hereafter, but one does not find our statesmen making speeches to the dead. Now, at the funeral service, over the officers and men who had served under Nogri and Togo at Port Arthur, Togo said in his speech:

As I stand before your spirits I can hardly express my feelings. Your personality is fresh in my memory. Your corporeal existence has ceased (Then explaining the victory he continued) I trust this will bring peace and rest to your spirits. This report is rendered most humbly by me in person. And his comrade in arms, Nogri, himself took up the task of following the Mikado into the spirit world.
